PEACE PUTS END TO BLOODY WAR IN THE BALKANS

Treaty Will Be Signed Today by the Delegates of Serbia, Greece, Montenegro and Rumania.

BULGARIA HELPLESS BEFORE RING OF FOES

Threat of Allies to Occupy Bulgar Capital Hastened Peace—None of the States Like the Treaty.

Bucharest, August 6.—Peace was concluded tonight between the Balkan states and the preliminary treaty will be signed tomorrow by the delegates of Serbia, Greece, Montenegro Rumania and Bulgaria. The agreement was arrived at only after another exhibition of the utter helplessness of Bulgaria to face her ring of enemies.

Wednesday the discussions in the peace conference threatened to become interminable but M. Mijosevic the Rumanian premier and president of the conference, clinched matters by threatening that unless Bulgaria accepted the modified frontier proposed by the allies, Rumanian army would occupy Sofia next Saturday. This threat had the desired effect and an agreement was arrived at today after numerous private consultations between the delegates and a four hours sitting of the conference.

The frontier, as agreed to, starts at a point on the old frontier, west of the Struma river, follows the watershed to west of the town of Strumitza, thence runs almost through the Struma valley to the Balesh mountains and thence easterly in almost a straight line to the Mesta river, thus leaving the town of Strumitza, the port of Lagos and Kanti to Bulgaria and the port of Kavala to Greece. The new frontier is a deep disappointment to the Bulgarians, who still nurse hopes for its eventual revision by the powers.

It is believed that an agreement for the demobilization of the various armies will be signed tomorrow. The news that peace has been arranged caused great rejoicing here.

War began July 1. The war between the former Balkan allies who had fought shoulder to shoulder against Turkey began on July 1. On that date the Serbian minister of the interior declared that Serbia was at war with Bulgaria. On the same day Greece also announced that a state of war existed. Rumania declared war on July 10 and moved her troops over the Bulgarian frontier.

The trouble between the allies arose from the difficulty of dividing the territory captured by them from Turkey. Severe fighting in many places, thousands were killed or wounded soon after the beginning of hostilities. Numerous massacres and acts of pillage were reported to have been committed by the various armies.

The Montenegro troops never came into action during the period of hostilities, although they also were nominally at war with Bulgaria.

Their Testimony Will Have Direct Bearing on Leo Frank's Case

Left to right: W. H. Mincey, called by the defense to testify that Jim Conley told him he had murdered a girl; Mrs. Emma Freeman, an employee in the pencil factory, who is a witness for the defense, and C. B. Dalton, who was mentioned in story told by Conley on stand. He will testify for state today, and is expected to give sensational testimony.

JUDGE ROAN DENIES MOTION OF DEFENSE TO STRIKE PART OF CONLEY TESTIMONY

Reuben Arnold Threatens to Call for Mistrial if There Should Be Recurrence of Applause Which Marked Reception of the Decision. Judge Announces That the Court Room Would Be Cleared if There Was Any More Disorder.

BAFFLED BY ATTITUDE OF CONLEY ON STAND, DEFENSE ENDS GRILL

Dr. Roy Harris Testifies in Afternoon, Declaring That Death Was Caused by Strangulation—Tells of Experiments With Four Men in Digestion of Cabbage Cooked by Mrs. Coleman, Mother of Girl Who Was Murdered—C. B. Dalton Testifies Today.

When, shortly after the noon recess Wednesday, after he had heard lengthy argument on both sides, Judge Roan reversed his decision of the day previous thereby admitting as evidence the statements of Jim Conley that on numerous occasions he had acted as "lookout" for Leo M. Frank while he was engaged with women on the second floor of the National Pencil factory, the state and Solicitor Dorsey won a victory which was perfectly patent to every one in the court room, and the news was quick to reach the street and to be circulated by word of mouth all over the city.

As soon as Judge Roan announced his decision spontaneous applause broke out in the court room and Reuben Arnold jumped to his feet, exclaiming: "If that happens again I shall move for a mistrial." Judge Roan announced that he would have to clear the room if there was a recurrence of the disorder.

AMERICANS LYNCH 17 MEXIC BANDITS

The Men Lynched Took Part in Maltreating the Daughters of Matthew Gourd Near Tampico.

Mexico City Mo., August 6.—Seventeen Mexicans have paid, with their lives, for maltreating the daughters of Matthew Gourd an American farmer, near Tampico last Monday. American farmers participated in the execution of the guilty according to information regarded as reliable, received here today.

The Americans, joined by Mexican land owners in the district of Atascadero near Tampico, organized a posse and rode into the hills in search of the band of outlaws who had Gourd and robbed him and afterwards offered indemnity to two daughters in sight of their father. The band was located and defeated in a fight and several of its members were captured.

The seventeen men killed by the posse included those slain in the fighting and those put to death by the vigilantes afterwards.

Some weeks ago a number of Mexican land owners combined with Americans in the formation of a vigilance committee, but this was the first time the committee had taken the offensive against a criminal band.

It is reported that twenty-four women of the Atascadero colony have gone into Tampico as a precautionary move. The government here does not yet admit the truth of the assault upon Mr. Gourd and his daughters.

Huerta Mexicans Waxing Very Wroth Over the Mission of Ex-Gov. John Lind

Indignation Among the Officials of the Mexican Capital May Result in an Outbreak Against Lind.

Mexico City, August 6.—John Lind, special representative of President Wilson, of the United States, now on his way to Mexico, will be persona non grata to this government unless he brings credentials in due form "together with recognition of the government of Mexico," according to an official statement issued late tonight.

Manuel Garza Aldape, minister of public instruction, who is acting as minister of foreign affairs, issued the statement and had it transmitted to the United States embassy. It was also dispatched by the Mexican government to the United States and to Europe. The statement follows:

"By order of the president of the republic I declare as minister of foreign affairs ad interim that if Mr. Lind does not bring credentials in due form, together with recognition of the government of Mexico, his presence in this country will not be desirable."

Mexico City, August 6.—Secretary of State Bryan sent the following telegram to the American legation tonight:

"You may say to the minister of foreign affairs that Governor Lind comes to Mexico on a mission of peace, and that the president feels sure his presence there will contribute toward a settlement of the difficulties. The Mexican government should await the president's communication and not give weight to misrepresentations published in sensational newspapers."

The message was delivered to the foreign minister. Increased antagonism has been aroused among Mexicans toward President Wilson's plan for the pacification of the republic by the latest news from Washington that the object of John Lind's visit here as the personal representative of President Wilson, is to consult with prominent Mexicans and advise them that the only basis for federal appointments, he said.

PHILANTHROPIST GONE

Robert C. Ogden Goes Over the Great Divide Widely Known Philanthropist Passes at Summer Home in Maine.

Kennebunk Port, Me., August 6.—Robert C. Ogden, of New York, a philanthropist widely known, died tonight at his summer residence here. Mr. Ogden had been ill a long time.

Robert C. Ogden was born in Philadelphia in 1836 and amassed a fortune as a member of the firm of John Wannamaker. He retired from active business six years ago.

The news of the death of Robert C. Ogden will be received with regret in Georgia, where he was well known.

Mr. Ogden was greatly interested in educational work and was always a leading figure at the annual conferences of the association to promote education in the south.

PRICE IS SELECTED FOR PANAMA MINISTER

Washington, August 6.—William J. Price, of Danville, Ky., has been selected by President Wilson for minister to Panama.

The name of Brand Whitlock, of Toledo, Ohio, was brought forward prominently today as a likely appointee to an European post.

Major Edward J. Hale, of North Carolina, newly appointed minister to Costa Rica, said good-bye to President Wilson and will leave Saturday for his post.

WILSON TO TAKE HAND IN BAY STATE FIGHT

Washington, August 6.—Prominent officials of President Wilson's administration—probably some cabinet officers—will take part in the approaching gubernatorial campaign in Massachusetts. While it is unlikely that the president himself will speak, the national administration will take a hand.

Thomas P. Riley, chairman of the democratic state committee of Massachusetts, and Humphrey G. Sullivan, chairman of the state finance committee, outlined their plans today to Secretary Bryan and Secretary Tumulty.

Mr. Riley said the federal officials were fully alive to the significance of the coming fight in Massachusetts and would render every possible aid. Mr. Riley added that his plans were approved by those officials who knew them. He did not discuss federal appointments, he said.

the astute attorneys for the defense did not strenuously object.

But on second thought, the impression seemed to be that Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold, confident they could break the negro down, were opening wide the bars and were giving Conley all the rope necessary to hang himself.

As hour by hour the attorneys for the defense hammered away and failed to entrap the negro the enormity of the evidence became apparent. Finally, came the virtual confession of the defense that they had failed to break the negro down and were giving Conley all the rope necessary to hang himself.

All over the city the news spread that the negro had withstood the fire and that Frank's attorneys were seeking to have the evidence expunged from the records.

Would Judge Roan rule for the state or for the defense? This was the question which was asked by every one of his neighbors. Would other witnesses be allowed to go on the stand and corroborate the damaging statements made by Conley? Would the state be allowed to still further press the advantage it had made or would it have to close deprived of this evidence?

The air was full of doubt and uncertainty.

Judge Roan by a few words cleared all this up.

Jim Conley Finishes.

Jim Conley, after remaining on the stand sixteen hours, was allowed to leave the court room at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. He stated that he was feeling fine and his appearance would not seem to indicate that he was fatigued in the least by the long ordeal through which he had passed. The defense had failed utterly to shake him on any material point of his story.

Mesh Bag in Safe.

The last thing developed by his examination Wednesday was the statement that he had seen Frank place Mary Phagan's silver mesh bag in the safe in his office. Up to this time what had become of the mesh bag was a mystery. Jim Conley had not mentioned anything about it before, and it had been thought that the finding of the purse would go largely toward solving the mystery of the murder. New Lee's house had been searched for it and Conley's home had been ransacked in vain.

Refused to See Conley.

By the introduction of Sheriff Mangum the state managed to prove, over the protest of the defense, that Frank had refused to see Conley when he had been brought to the jail by Chief Beavers, Chief Lanford and others.

The state also endeavored to show by the testimony of Mrs. John R. White that, although Frank knew Conley was in the building on the day of the murder, the city detectives did not get this information until May 7, when Detective Rosser went out to see Mrs. White.

Dr. Harris.

Dr. R. Y. Harris, whose testimony last week was to the effect that Mary Phagan must have met her death within three-quarters of an hour after she had eaten cabbage and bread for breakfast, again took the stand Wednesday and resumed the testimony which had been interrupted by his illness.

Dr. Harris described the microscopic examination he had made of Mary Phagan's stomach and gave much additional information to prove that the little girl had been killed shortly after eating. He explained that hydrochloric acid had not had time to form and that the pancreatic juices were not present.

He told of having had Mrs. J. W. Coleman, mother of the dead child, prepare some cabbage just as she had cooked it for her daughter on the last day of her life, and of the experiments he had made on several persons, one of whom was Mary Phagan's exact age.

The whole purpose of Dr. Harris' testimony was to show that ever if properly masticated the acids and juices of the stomach will make certain changes on food within a certain length of time.

He also testified as to the condition of the organs of the girl to show that violence of some sort had been done her.

Both Luther Rosser and Reuben Arnold cross-questioned Dr. Harris, but failed to develop anything of material import to the defense. It was plain to see that the defense is working on the theory that the child was killed at a later hour than the state hopes to prove.

Dr. Harris was extremely weak and asked to be relieved of further testimony until today. He will be placed on the stand again this morning.

Sensation Is Expected.

Following Dr. Harris, C. B. Dalton will be placed on the stand by the state. He is the man referred to by Conley as having visited the pencil factory on one of the days when Conley says he was "watching out" for Frank. His testimony is expected to prove sensational in the extreme. Other corroborative witnesses will follow Dalton.

Mr. Rosser, wasn't nothing like that passed 'tween us."

Denies That He Hid.

"Jim," Mr. Rosser next asked, "weren't you talking to one of the ladies there right after the murder and she said, 'Jim, you did this' and didn't you lay down your broom and go off to another part of the building?"

"Nothing like that ever happened," asserted the witness.

"Well, Jim, one day just before you were arrested, weren't you hiding yourself on the second floor, afraid to go downstairs, and didn't you say in the presence of Mr. Herbert Schiff that you'd give a million dollars to be a white man, and that if you were a white man you'd go on down the steps?"

"No, sir," replied Jim, "I did say I would be a white man and that if I was I'd go on down."

"Didn't you ask Mrs. Dora Small to read an extra to you about that same day, and then tell her Mr. Frank was innocent?"

"No, sir," replied Jim, "I never had no talk like that with her."

"Didn't you tell Miss Julia Foss that Mr. Frank was as innocent as an angel in heaven?"

"No, sir, I never said nothing like that to her either."

Dorsey Takes Witness.

It was then 10 o'clock and Mr. Rosser suddenly announced that he was through with his cross-examination. Solicitor Dorsey declared that he wished to ask a few more questions before Conley was excused.

"Jim," he said, "when you told Mr. Rosser about being in jail where did you mean you were kept?"

"I meant at police station," replied Jim.

"What did they put you in jail for, Jim?"

Mr. Rosser objected strenuously, declaring that every negro when asked that question answers, "for nothing" boss. I hadn't done nothing."

Judge Roan held that the question might be asked and answered.

Conley then swore that the first time he was put in jail was when a boy and an arrested fellow were fighting with other negroes and he was being drunk and disorderly. He declared he had never been in the county jail until after he was placed there following the murder, and that he had never been arrested for a serious offense.

"Did you ever see Frank down there in the jail?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"Why didn't you?"

Mr. Rosser succeeded in having this ruled out.

"From the time you were arrested, did you ever see Frank until the day you came into this courtroom?" asked Dorsey.

"Yes, sir, I see him at the coroner's court down there at headquarters, and he went by me and loved his head and smiled."

"Was that before you had told on him?"

"Yes, sir."

Says Frank Dictated Notes.

"Tell the jury what, if anything, Frank did with your pencil while you were writing the murder notes,"

"He took de pencil out my hand and rubbed out the letter 'W' I had put at the end of 'negro,'" said Jim.

"Did you ever see the pocketbook, purse or meshbag of Miss Mary Phagan?"

"Yes, sir, I saw it on Mr. Frank's desk after I came back from putting the body in the coffin," said Jim.

"It and put it in his safe," said Jim.

"Mr. Dorsey then asked the negro to describe the scream he claims to have heard, but Mr. Rosser succeeded in having that ruled out by claiming that it had been gone into before.

"Jim," Mr. Dorsey then asked, "who has asked you the most questions and talked to you the longest, Mr. Black, Mr. Scott, Mr. Starob, Mr. Campbell, myself or Mr. Rosser?"

Rosser got this question declared illegal.

"Well, what was the longest time any of these detectives talked to you?"

Conley caucuses laughter.

"You means Mr. Rosser dere, don't you," said Jim, and the courtroom forgot itself for the moment until the vigorous rapping of deputies restored order.

Conley finally was made to understand that Mr. Rosser, although he had grilled him for about two days, did not want a rubber stamp on the shoes, and he then stated that Scott and Black had talked to him more than any of the other detectives, and had kept him on one occasion from about 1 o'clock until dark, but he declared that they had given him several rests between talks, and that they actually talked to him about three and a half hours.

"Well, how long did Mr. Rosser talk to you?"

Mr. Rosser had this question ruled out, the solicitor making a vigorous but vain plea, that it should get on record how long the negro had been under the cross-fire of questions on the stand.

"Was there any cloth around the place where you got the nappy sack?"

"There was some near there."

"Was moving the body a pretty hard job?"

"Yes, sir."

Attorney Rosser's objections to this were overruled.

Upon the request of the solicitor the negro then lay down on the floor and illustrated how he had placed the girl's body in the basement, and he also took the Contention's flashlight picture of the basement and showed exactly where he had placed the body.

"Tell the jury everything you did after you looked at the clock, and saw it was four minutes to one," said Mr. Dorsey.

"Where did Mr. Frank wash his hands?"

Conley indicated on the diagram a spot near the office.

"What was said about your going to Brooklyn?"

"Mr. Frank never said nothing about my going to Brooklyn," he said.

Denies Seeing Blaney.

"Did you ever have a talk with W. E. Mincey?"

"Never, except that day at the station house when he was coming there."

On Mr. Rosser's objection to this, Judge Roan ruled that the state could not go into Mincey's talk at the station.

"Jim, on the night you were put in jail and the newspaper man came, what did they do to you?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"They Jes' talked to me, an' one of them offered me a paper," said Jim.

At this juncture Mr. Dorsey requested that Harlow Branch and Harold W. Ross, two reporters at the news table, be allowed to follow the witness if they left his continuing room.

"What did you say to Mr. Schiff?"

"Mr. Schiff asked me if I saw the crowd out there."

"How long have you known Mr. N. Darley?"

"Ever since he come to the factory."

"Did Mr. Schiff and Mr. Darley know you could write?"

Mr. Rosser entered an objection to this and in reply Mr. Dorsey said: "Your honor, while this negro was in jail and the National Pencil factory had employed detectives to find the murderer, and while he was claiming he could not write, these men knew that he could and yet did not tell the detectives."

"It's not in evidence that these men knew the detectives wanted Conley to write," replied Mr. Rosser.

"I can prove it by those two newspaper men I asked to leave the room," replied Mr. Dorsey, "and yet those two men connected with the pencil factory concealed the fact that this negro could write."

Evidence Ruled Out.

Judge Roan ruled that Mr. Dorsey could not introduce the evidence to show that Schiff and Darley knew Jim could write, and that he could not introduce his evidence to show that the two factory employees knew the detectives desired him to write. The two newspaper men were then allowed to re-enter the room.

"Jim, can you write luxury?"

"Yes, sir," replied Jim, "they had boxes with that 'em at the factory and when they gave out I had to write it down and give it to Mr. Frank so he would know to order some more."

"Did he furnish the paper for you to write on?"

"Yes, sir."

It was now 10:50 o'clock and Mr. Rosser again took up the cross-examination for a few questions.

"Did Mr. Frank have the dead girl's meshbag on his desk when you came back from the basement Jim?"

"Yes, sir."

"He put it in his safe and locked the door, did he?"

"He put it in the safe," said Jim, "but I dunno whether he locked the door or not."

Mr. Rosser then went into much detail about the various times that detectives and the state's lawyers had talked to Conley about the crime. He had to explain to Jim what was meant by "starched cabbage."

"Jim," he next asked, "how long had you been caring for the boxes?"

"Bout a year," said Jim.

"So Mr. Frank knew for over a year that you could write?"

"I reckon he did," said Conley; "I'd been writing down the things about the boxes and givin' 'em to him that long."

A New, Simplified Method.

It was at this juncture that Conley, prompted by Attorney Rosser, introduced to the world an absolutely new method of spelling, and one that would put A. Carnegie and T. Roosevelt to shame should they ever learn that a man with no education had introduced it.

The exemplification of the new method began with "Uncle Remus," a word known and loved by Carnegie himself. It happened that Jim said the National Pencil company used this as a trade name for one of their brands of pencils.

"How do you spell 'Uncle Remus,' Jim?" Mr. Rosser asked.

"Go ahead," he was urged.

"O-n," said Jim.

"Well, does that spell Uncle?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"Yes, sir."

"What's the 'm' in 'Remus'?"

"R-i-m-e-a-s-u," said Jim proudly.

"That's fine, Jim. Now, spell 'luxury.'"

It was here that the new system reached its climax.

"L-u-x-u-r-y," Jim replied.

"All right, Jim. Now, spell 'Thomas Jefferson,'" urged Mr. Rosser, that being also a trade name of the pencils.

"T-o-m-a-s, Thomas," said Jim.

"J-a-s-o-n." Finished Jim.

Leo Frank was laughing by this time and deputies were frowning and threatening to eject certain spectators from the courtroom.

"Don't wound up the spelling bee by declaring that 'Joe Wisnott' was the orthodox way of spelling the name of the man who made the cherry tree famous."

"Jim," next asked Mr. Rosser, "wasn't you sometimes write Mr. Frank a note in order to draw on your wages?"

"Yes, sir; I'd write out, 'Please let me have 50 cents,'" replied the negro.

"And you'd say, 'An' take it out of my wages, wouldn't you?'" the questioner added.

"No, sir; I couldn't write out all that last part. Mr. Frank he'd know where to take his pen."

Mr. Dorsey then put a few minor questions and after those Mr. Rosser asked the negro if Schiff did not have charge of the boxes instead of Frank. Conley declared that Frank had charge of them.

It was 11:14 o'clock when the negro finally left the stand.

Believes Doctors Are Guessing.

At this, Mr. Rosser insisted that Dr. Harris tell his reasons for knowing those facts.

"I don't know what the doctor means about this and about that," he said, "for I think all these doctors are guessing most of the time."

Judge Roan cautioned the witness to tell pretty all he found in his examination.

"I found in Mary Phagan's case," he said, "that even the particles finally chewed and not digested at all. Digestion had not gone on to any extent at the time of death or unconsciousness."

It was while he was attempting to explain one of his own theories relating to this condition, Dr. Harris was interrupted by Mr. Rosser, who said: "You should not give your opinion, doctor, nor make any stump speeches."

It was clear that this cabbage had not entered the smaller intestine," continued the witness, "which showed that the contents of the stomach had not been pressed into the intestines at all."

"Also the amount of gastric juice in this case was less than would have occurred in an hour in an ordinary case. Hydrochloric acid forms at certain periods of digestion, and had not formed in this case of Mary Phagan. There was no free hydrochloric acid, but there were 32 degrees of combined hydrochloric acid."

Another question is the pancreas? The pancreas would make its appearance in the stomach after she ate, was dead within that length of time—thirty or forty minutes."

"Another question is the pancreas? The pancreas would make its appearance in the stomach after she ate, was dead within that length of time—thirty or forty minutes."

"Was failure to digest cabbage due to its condition?" asked the solicitor.

"No, the digestive fluid was there. It was only my construction in the flow of the stomach's contents."

"None."

"Would a blow or struggle check the process of digestion?"

"Had digestion up the time of death progressed favorably?"

"Yes, her digestion was normal."

"Dr. Harris, will you please give the jury some idea of the power of magnification of your microscope protected upon the stomach in your examination?"

"My microscope is the finest made. It could have enlarged objects thousands of times."

"How did the state of bread correspond to the state of the cabbage?"

"Just the same."

"Suppose it had been chewed up entirely, would that have had any effect on the effect would have been the same."

At this point Attorney Arnold took up the cross-examination.

"Where did Mr. Dorsey first talk to you about this matter?" he asked.

"I don't recall."

Asked Him to Keep Silent.

"Did Mr. Dorsey request you not to make the result of this examination public?"

"Yes, sir. I told him I would take the case and go into it thoroughly. There was some suggestion of poison, and I made an examination for arsenic, but none was found."

"Couldn't a man be dying and all the appearances in this case be produced by putting a cord around his throat?"

"I think not."

"A man might be dying from strangulation for an hour, mightn't he?"

"Yes."

"Having explained, doctor, that death by strangulation was more the result of the body retaining poisons than from the failure to get oxygen, you state that is correct, eh?"

"Yes."

"If breath was cut off completely, how long before a man would die?"

"No one has ever been able to ascertain definitely."

"You say your first intention was to examine Mary Phagan's body for poison?"

"Yes."

"What kind of poison?"

"Alcohol."

"What class?"

"Strychnine or morphine."

"Was there any arsenic in Cheesling's embalming formula?"

"Yes."

Made the Opium Test.

"What test did you make for poison?"

"The opium test."

"Did you test for mercury?"

"Not directly."

"For what mineral poisons did you test?"

"I did not test for mineral poisons."

"Did you make the poison tests before you made the others?"

"I made them all at the same time."

"In how many parts did you divide the contents of the stomach?"

"I divided them into all parts possible. I do not recollect the exact number."

"How many tests did you make?"

"Six or eight in all, all of which were necessary."

"What was the first test?"

"To determine various quantities."

"What was the second?"

"For hydrochloric acid."

"How do you measure hydrochloric acid?"

"By degrees."

"How many degrees would 32 degrees form?"

Dr. Harris figured for several minutes on his notebook, multiplying, dividing, adding, finally saying: "About a drop and a half."

Only Chemical Acids.

"What are the properties of free acid?"

"Hydrochloric acid only."

"Chemical acid only is a powerful property, isn't it?"

"Very powerful."

"The average man has how many degrees?"

"Fifty-five or sixty degrees—three or four drops."

"What is the next juices of importance in the digestive organs?"

"Pepsin."

"How much pepsin should there be to correspond with 32 degrees hydrochloric acid?"

"Unfortunately we have no accurate way of determining the measurements of pepsin."

"Different stomachs and glands produce various quantities of pepsin and hydrochloric acid?"

"Yes, there has been much argument on the subject."

"Where does the pepsin come from that we get as soups soups?"

"From cows and animals."

"It is purely an animal substance, then?"

"Yes."

"What becomes of the juices in the body after they are digested?"

"Embalming removes most of the fluids, doesn't it?"

"Yes."

Come From the Stomach.

"Gastric juices all come from the stomach, don't they?"

"How long, doctor, is the small intestine of which you speak?"

"About twenty-five feet."

"Did you find any of the cabbage in Mary Phagan's body to have been masticated?"

"Yes, I've already explained that."

"What were the proportionate parts in her stomach?"

"Ninety per cent water, 10 per cent solid."

"The important constituents, then, are in the solid, as the fluid amounts to but a little?"

"Yes."

"Is cabbage nourishing?"

"About as much as any other vegetable. No vegetable has any great amount of nourishment."

"The juice of the stomach is created by the mouth?"

"Saliva."

"Is that a digestive property?"

"Yes."

"What chemical properties are in saliva?"

"It helps digest the starch that goes into the stomach."

Here Dr. Harris became slightly ill, and, at his request, was removed from the stand.

Beat Son; Is Arrested.

Declaring that it was one of the worst cases ever brought to his notice Wednesday, Acting Recorder Preston held J. S. Newman, a carpenter living at 41 Franklin street, to the superior court under a $500 bond, for beating his 11-year-old son, Joe Newman, a board. Several women living in the neighborhood of Newman appeared to testify against him, and in no uncertain terms denounced the means he had taken to correct his son. Newman claimed that the boy was incorrigible and that beating was the only method of reforming him.

Unable to Shake Conley's Story Rosser Ends Cross-Examination

On the opening of court Wednesday morning when Judge L. S. Roan announced that he would postpone his final decision in regard to the admissibility of Jim Conley's evidence in regard to Leo Frank's alleged misconduct and also to the negro's acting on previous occasions as his "lookout," Luther Rosser began his final effort to break the negro down.

Conley stayed on the stand until 10 o'clock and was then excused. He had been testifying for fifteen hours in all and of this thirteen hours had been under the merciless grilling of Attorney Rosser.

The negro stuck to the last to the main points of his story, and, while admitting that he had lied on previous occasions, swore that he had only tried to save himself and that about the murder he was telling the whole truth. No amount of effort could break him from this declaration.

Conley also added a new point to his story when under additional questioning from Solicitor Hugh Dorsey he swore that he had seen Frank hide Mary Phagan's meshbag in his safe. Before that both sides had declared they could not account for the disappearance of the pocketbook or bag in which the girl had carried her money.

Reads Affidavit.

Mr. Rosser opened the morning cross-examination by reading to the negro the second affidavit he made to Detective John H. Black and Harry Scott. It was in this that the darkey swore he had left home at about 9 o'clock and after visiting several saloons and poolrooms, among which was one bear-

Mary Phagan Was Strangled Declares Dr. H. F. Harris

Dr. Hoy F. Harris, the pathologist, head of the state board of health, and the expert who examined and examined the body of Mary Phagan, went on the stand at the close of the afternoon session of the trial and declared to continue the testimony from which he was interrupted Friday by a fainting spell in the courtroom.

He still suffered from weakness and was allowed to sit in a heavily upholstered chair.

He was questioned first by Solicitor Dorsey.

"Dr. Harris, what is your particular branch of medicine?"

"My usual line is pathology, chemistry and chemical work, as well as diagnosis."

"Can you indicate the signs of what you saw on Mary Phagan's body which showed strangulation?"

"Died by strangulation."

"It was out of the question that her death was caused by a blow on the head—it was not sufficient to even produce noticeable pressure. It was produced and shown to the physician."

"Do you think the blow you found on the child's head could have been instigated by a outside like this?"

"In my opinion I would think not—the gash evidently was inflicted with some sharp instrument."

"Did you make a scientific examination of the female organs?"

"Yes, I made a microscopic examination."

Dr. Harris at this point testified as to the condition of the organs of the girl to show that violence of some sort had been done her.

Applause Sweeps Courtroom When Dorsey Scores a Point

Following Conley's departure from the stand the jury was allowed a five-minute recess and on their return solicitor Dorsey tendered in evidence a picture of the pencil factory basement which was taken by Francis E. Price. The Constable on staff in charge of the morning that the body was found and a picture of which appeared in The Constitution. He also tendered a scratch pad sample of one of those around the factory the order notes and the pad for the body.

There were no objections from the defense. When C. R. Dalton called out the solicitor to call on the man named by Conley as having gone into the factory with Frank when the latter chatted with men and had Conley act as lookout, Dalton took his place on the stand but was excused because the judge had not made his final decision with reference to the proffered Conley testimony and Mrs. John Arthur White was called in. Conley was brought back and Mrs. White was asked if he was the man she claimed to have seen on April 23, 1932, in the basement of the pencil factory.

She could not say that he was or was not but declared that he looked more like the man than anyone else she had seen and that he was just the same stature. The defense entered frequent objections while this was being brought out.

"Mrs. White the solicitor then asked, 'On April 23 didn't you tell your brother Wade Campbell an employee of the pencil company that you had seen a negro there on the previous Saturday?'"

Mr. Rosser objected.

Your honor said Mr. Dorsey is going to show that this man is wife of one employee of the National Pencil company and sister and daughter of two others, did tell that to her brother but on the same day called it from detectives working for the state. We can show that although Frank knew this and told Scott of the Pinkertons employed by the National Pencil company about it that he concealed it from the detectives working for the state when he was telling what he knew about the people there that day and at other times too.

Record Proves Dorsey Correct.

How can you prove that Frank knew it or that he told Scott? then asked Attorney Rosser.

It is in the record as part of Scott's testimony, said the solicitor.

It is not replied Rosser.

On Mr. Dorsey's motion the court stenographer produced his official record of Scott's testimony. Mr. Rosser took it from him and began to search through it for the statement. It had already been transcribed to typewritten form and while Mr. Dorsey entered objection after objection of Mr. Rosser's keeping it, the latter calmly searched for the statement which Mr. Arnold stated in answer to Mr. Dorsey that they would give it to the state in a few minutes.

Well Mr. Dorsey's right for one Mr. Rosser then said quietly.

The record showed that Harry Scott of the Pinkertons had sworn to being with Frank on April 28 of what Mrs. White had disclosed about the presence of a negro.

Applause Sweeps Courtroom

It was at this moment that something occurred that had never occurred before during the progress of the trial. The judge and began to search through the courtroom and several people clapped their hands loudly as though applauding at the theater something that met their approval. The deputies immediately began rapping for order and Judge Roan searched for the man who had such a loud voice. He was not tolerated when order was restored Mr. Rosser objected to another phase of the subject.

Now Mr. Dorsey wants to show that this didn't get to the police at the trial until after the trial and I claim that that is immaterial.

We've shown that Frank knew of this disclosure on April 28 and now we expect to show that although Detective Hays Rosser questioned this woman here on that same day that she refused to disclose this information to any detective working for the state, said Mr. Dorsey and that the state never knew of it until May 2.

Scott had been told by Frank snatched Mr. Rosser and he had declared that he was working in conjunction with the solicitor.

I want to show that this woman closely connected with employees of the National Pencil factory concealed this important evidence from the detectives representing the state," an answer the solicitor. By this time Mrs. White was swelling up and almost crying. She sat on the witness stand and listened to implications that she had tried to conceal evidence from the state and had not told the whole truth to the authorities.

Did you ever try to conceal anything from Mrs. White? Mr. Rosser inquired of her.

No sir I never did she replied. She was then allowed to leave the stand.

Sheriff Mangum on Stand.

Shirley C. Wheeler Mangum was then sworn in and put upon the stand by the solicitor.

Were you at the jail when Conley went there and asked to see Frank? the solicitor asked.

Yes sir.

Did you talk to Frank about his seeing Conley?

Yes sir.

Mr. Rosser then objected declaring that it was inadmissible to show whether or not Frank wanted to see anyone.

Your honor said Mr. Dorsey I want to show that for the first time in the history of the world a white man claiming innocence refused to confront his accuser and particularly that this accuser was only an ignorant negro.

Judge Roan sustained the state.

I told Mr. Frank that 'Cone' Beavers and Detectives Lanford, Scott and Black were out there with Conley and wanted to know if he would talk to the negro, said the sheriff.

What did he say?

He said he did not that none of his lawyers were there and no one to defend him, the sheriff paused.

Did you say he said he had no one there to defend him? Mr. Dorsey asked quickly.

Sheriff Mangum paused and then said: He said he had none of his lawyers there to listen to what might be said.

While Murder Trial Goes On Witnesses While Away Time With Old Camp Meeting Songs

There is one woman with no objection whatever with the Frank case who sits undisturbed in an obscure corner of the courtroom. Throughout Jim Conley's testimony, she remained in her seat while court deputies removed women from all parts of the place and sent them outside at order of the judge.

She is Mrs. Hattie Barnett a detective, and a woman who has seen more of the world and knows more of its multi-varied phases than many of Atlanta's most successful business men. She has seen and heard enough not to be touched by the negro sordid story. She has rubbed shoulders with all manner of mankind long enough not to be affected by anything which might develop in the trial.

Mrs. Barnett is attending the Frank case to study human nature and to study court procedure in a state big as Georgia. To her, it will be a liberal education. She will learn many things that will be of inestimable value in her work.

Spectators have watched her as she sits alone in the obscure corner and listen intently to all of the trial. They wonder at who she is and why she is able to remain there unmolested in a courtroom where all women have been barred. If the truth were known there is room for but little wonderment.

She is there for an education in a line of work she follows daily. A peculiar education it might be but a valuable education it is by all means.

Mrs. Barnett is a middle aged woman who has been an investigator for the larger part of her life. She has been connected in many of the state's largest criminal cases and at first, did a deal of work on the Pagan investigation. Since the Pagan investigation has been started in police quarters to employ female detective, it has been suggested that she be put at the head of the squad of women.

Mrs. Coleman Tells of Cooking Cabbage for Dr. H. F. Harris

Mrs. J. W. Coleman mother of Mary Phagan followed Dr. Harris to the stand. She told of cooking an amount of cabbage at the chemist's request for his experiments with the four men. She stated that it had been ground fine as she had prepared it on the day of Mary's last meal and had boiled it for an hour. She remained on the stand but for a few minutes and was asked but a few questions by either the state or defense.

She was asked to describe Mary's pocketbook, answering that she had been barred. If the truth were known there is room for but little wonderment.

Because He Is Patriotic Mincey Is Here for Trial

W. H. Mincey witness for the defense in the Leo M. Frank trial whose substantial affidavit that Jim Conley had told him of killing a white girl on the day Mary Phagan was murdered was published some weeks ago was a conspicuous figure in front of the courthouse Wednesday.

Mincey is a country school teacher and has been for twenty years. He is not used to city ways he says and the excitement of the crowd around the courthouse seemed to worry him.

I have great patriotism, said Mr. Mincey and that is the sole reason I am here. I felt it was my duty to the state. I could not on the case. No I will not talk at the present time. I'll do my talking when I get on the stand.

Judge's Decision Admits Conley Testimony in Full

At the continuation of the argument on the subject of Judge Roan's reserved decision solicitor Dorsey cited extracts from many legal volumes many of which pertained to the unfitness of objections in just such cases as the one which he argued.

It makes no difference if the act in question was a separate or distinct crime, he said, just so it shows a course of conduct and his sufficient proof its value to the case on trial. It is absolutely admissible.

We contend that the referee has stopped at this late hour after examining extensively and admitted along the point and have a tenfold to do something which is reprehensibly inexcusable. We object to the ruling out of this testimony because we propose to substantiate the truth of Conley's statement at by other witnesses including C. B. Dalton, George Epps and others.

We intend to introduce Epps to show that Mary Phagan fifteen minutes before she went to her death expressed fear of Leo Frank because he had been flirting with her and making continued advances.

At this the solicitor cited the case of a trial in which the deceased woman stated upon leaving home that there were two persons in a nearby alley and that she thought one was her husband and the other his sweetheart and that she would go see. She went into the alley never to return alive. Her body was found there late.

Law Plaza Declares Hooper

Upon the conclusion of solicitor Dorsey's statement Attorney Hooper has to say.

The law of Georgia I understand controls this court and not the supreme court of Minnesota or California as my friends Rosser and Arnold have striven to show.

There is no necessity for argument. The law stands plainly for itself. It says that objections shall not be ruled out unless the objection is made at a valuable education it is by all means.

If this evidence was not admissible at the time it was offered by the state, and cross examined upon by the defense, why the only motion to which they would be entitled was to rule out their own cross examination and nothing else.

Your honor has admitted that this testimony was admissible by ruling against the state while the cross examination was in progress. Before they have any right to ask that it be ruled out they must dissect the volume of evidence they have introduced which has a bearing on this place and point out exactly the evidence they want to extract.

The attorney then proceeded to recite cases from various law authorities in the course of which he recited one of Judge Roan's own decisions.

Now he said, is your honor going back on his own ruling? If the objection is to be made legally it should have been made the instant the question was asked. There is no impact at lawyer in town who will dispute that fact.

Reuben Arnold arose to say.

These authorities from which my friends are reading have no bearing on the case. The twenty eighth year of the law says that testimony is always subject to withdrawal if the evidence is illegal. A move can always be made to withdraw it, whether it has been permitted as an experiment or otherwise. The time for withdrawal always exists.

Roan Makes Decision

In making his decision Judge Roan stated.

"I have serious doubts as to the admissibility of this testimony as an original proposition. As it has been cross examined you may expunge it from the records but you can't dissociate the original from the cross examination. I am going to allow it to remain in the record. It may be extracted from the record but it is an impossibility to withdraw it from the jury's minds."

As the judge announced his decision there arose a spontaneous riot of applause from the audience. Court attaches lawyers and Judge looked up astonished. Attorney Arnold said.

I will ask for a mistrial if such a demonstration as this again arises. Also I will ask that the court be cleared if it continues. Mistrials can easily be caused by just such actions.

In continuation Judge Roan said.

I am ruling just whatever I deem fit and proper whether it pleases or displeases. On the question of the Epps boy's testimony I rule that it is inadmissible.

"I want your honor to rule positively now on this first question," said Mr. Rosser.

I am going to let it remain calm, I declared the judge.

In regard to Dalton spoke up Mr. Arnold. We object to his testimony on anything relating to the crime and happenings previous to the day of the murder.

I will rule that Dalton's testimony will be inadmissible in anything except in support of the negro Conley.

BIG STILL NEAR BERNER IS RAIDED BY DEPUTIES

Macon Ga. August 6.—(Special)—Deputy United States Marshal Dave Riley and Deputy Henderson of the Internal Revenue department in Atlanta raided a large illicit stillery in Jasper county across the river from Berner today. Two negroes who were at work at the still escaped. The deputies found the still on the place of R. C. Brown. There were eighteen fermenters filled with peach mash which were destroyed along with the still itself.

quently from the trial's procedure, and never yet has one of these incidents failed to elicit its share of emotion's expression from the hushed gathering.

Wednesday, when Solicitor Dorsey argued fiercely with the state over a disputed portion of Harry Scott's testimony, revealed the statement in question, and heard from Attorney Rosser's lips an admission of a mistake, there was spontaneous applause that came from all parts of the room.

The deputies rapped for order, and Judge Roan gazed over the throng with astonishment. Several court attaches spotted men who had applauded and they were forthwith ejected from the room.

There was a surprised surprise in the faces of the attorneys for both the state and defense. They wondered, as all others wondered, why should there be applause when the procedure there in effect would surely lead one of two men to the scaffold.

And Tuesday when Jim Conley strove to explain the eighth and ninth of the cross-examination in which he had removed the body of Mary Phagan and upon being asked by the attorney if he knew what were two feet answered with a point to his shoes.

Witnesses Sing Time Away

Sitting quietly for hours and hours in a large room is enough to try the patience of a modern Job. Thirty or more witnesses for both the state and defense in the Frank trial are cooped up in the second floor of the impressive court building while away the long and tedious days by reciting, and singing and reading and dodging the newspaper cameras.

Wednesday shortly before noon sounds of songs filtered down the stairway. It reminded many of the song service of an old-fashioned campmeet.

Trial Marked by Intense

There has never been more intense heat in a courtroom in the history of Georgia—or probably any other state—than has been noted in the Frank trial.

The audience sits with bated breath and eager ear and eye as tragic tales are unfolded from the witness stand. There are grim flashes of humor, pathos and sordidness that spring freely from the witness stand.

FILIBUSTER NIPPED IN BUD BY STEWART

House Then Passes Registration Tax Measure, Which Means the State Treasury Loses Another $100,000.

By a point of order from Mr Stewart, of Coffee Wednesday's promised installment of the Wohlwender filibuster was nipped in the bud and the house once more resumed business, passing the automobile registration tax bill drafted by the ways and means committee, and with it the McMichael amendment providing that the revenues thus raised shall be devoted to the construction and upkeep of public roads in the state.

Mr Wohlwender of Muscogee who for practically all of Tuesday occupied the time of the house with his filibuster against the Kidd resolution on the Hixon Searcy bill entered the house chamber Wednesday armed with the president's message to congress on the constitutionality of the Webb bill and other reading matter while the members from Chatham who attacked Mr Wohlwender on Tuesday introduced lengthy measure for the purpose of occupying the time of the house in the reading of their entirety.

At the proper order Mr Wohlwender resumed the floor, but he was asked to speak when Mr Stewart of Coffee interrupted him. Mr Speaker he said 'I rise to a point of order. The resolution which the gentleman from Muscogee is discussing was introduced over the objection of the Hixon Searcy bill of the senate be reported back to the house on Wednesday with or without a recommendation. The order for the reports of standing committees has already been concluded without the bill having been reported to the house and this is a physical impossibility to comply with the terms of the resolution. For that reason I ask the chair to declare the gentleman from Muscogee out of order.'

Mr Speaker Burwell sustained the point of the gentleman from Coffee and Mr Wohlwender yielded the floor. However the gentleman from Muscogee and his colleagues were fighting to prevent this resolution from coming up for the consideration of the house and this object was accomplished. Mr Miller of Bibb then resumed the floor to discuss the automobile registration tax measure which was the continuing special order.

After some discussion this measure was passed by the house with the McMichael amendment by a vote of 107 to 54. The main bone of contention in the argument upon the measure was the McNichols amendment directing the revenue to be derived from the measure amounting approximately to $100,000 from the general fund to which it was directed by the original bill to the roads fund. The McMichael amendment provided for the appropriation of $30,000 from the general fund on a basis of rural free delivery route mileage.

$100,000 Lost to State. This means not only that the $100,000 which was sought to be brought to the aid of the state's financial condition will be lost but that the state's general revenue will be reduced by the revenue of $2 for every automobile registration which it gets at present under the old law, and that the state will be put to an additional actual expense of approximately $7,000 annually for the execution of the new measure. In that it must provide tags at a cost of about 30 cents apiece for over 20,000 automobiles.

Many of the supporters of the original bill including Chairman Aikin of the ways and means committee, explained their vote by saying they supported the measure only with the hope that the senate would so revise the measure as to restore something of its original effect. Others refused outright to vote for it.

Unlikely doubt as to the effective need of the bill in the purpose for which it was finally passed is expressed by many members of the house on account of the failure of the bill to provide definite machinery from the dispositive of the revenues expected to be raised by it.

SOUTH GEORGIA WINS LEASE OF W. & A. MAY BE INVOLVED

Legislative Committee Recommends Removal Despite the Strong Opposition.

At a joint meeting of the senate committee on general agriculture and house committee No 2 on general agriculture the bill introduced in the house by Mr Ellis of Tift to move the Georgia experiment station to the south Georgia experiment station was recommended for passage. This recommendation had already been made once by the senate committee which later voted to reconsider its action. The house committee had not acted.

At the meeting were present Dr A C True of the agricultural department at Washington who has supervision of state experiment stations and a number of advocates both for the removal of the experiment station from Griffin to the south Georgia station and its removal to Athens as well as those who would have it remain where it is. Washington Is Disinclined. Dr True explained that the manner in which the Georgia experiment station was being conducted was not meeting with the approval of the department at Washington. He recommended that a new management, thoroughly conversant with scientific methods be provided for the station that the state make a substantial appropriation for the conduct of the experiment station and that the headquarters of the station be removed to the state agricultural college at Athens.

Following the line of a letter recently directed to the executive department of the state of Georgia and made public this week, Dr True stated that there was no doubt in his mind but that the federal appropriation would be continued if the station should be moved to Athens. He did not commit himself definitely on whether or not it would be discontinued if the station were moved to south Georgia or allowed to remain at Griffin but intimated that if it were properly conducted with the financial support of the state the federal support might be expected to continue.

Dr True stated that he was of the opinion that if any change were to be made in the state's policy toward the experiment station it should be made on after a deep probe in order that exactly what remedies were necessary might be entertained. He suggested that the bill be amended by the advocates of the removal of the station both to Athens and to south Georgia to place Dr True in the attitude of an arbitrator which position he steadfastly evaded until just before the committee was taken into executive session when he said: 'If you want a candid answer from me I advise that the headquarters of the experiment station be placed at the seat of the State Agricultural College. If the state will raise funds the department will accept it. It would be more than pleased to see a station established in other parts of the state.'

State Commissioner of Agriculture J D Price advocated the present location of the station as a permanent location. He explained that in the election of the board of directors of the station of the new board in order to effect that election he had pledged himself to oppose the removal of the station to Athens. He opposed the removal of the station to Athens in the opinion of the committee but stated that if the legislature saw fit to move the station to south Georgia he would not oppose it.

Denies Accusation. In this connection Commissioner Price stated that his advocacy of a station in the south Georgia location had come to be a first step on his part toward having the station removed to Athens and that such an accusation had been made against him. To his regret he said he was unable to deny it. I want to say gentlemen that any such statement is an absolute falsehood. Commissioner Price made an ardent plea that the station be allowed to remain where it is in order that it may be a fair trial under its new management.

If we don't give the state of Georgia an experiment station of which it will be justly proud I hope you will kick us all out and move the station back to Athens and let a new administration take its head. Representative Bulbright of Burke appeared before the committee representing F C Neely chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors of the station and stated that he had no objection to the committee's action but was opposed to the removal of the station to south Georgia but that he did not commit himself on the question of its removal to Athens.

As Commissioner Price left the senate chamber, where the committee had just adjourned, Senator Bush from south Georgia, who reproached the commissioner for his alleged attitude before the committee toward the proposition of removing the station to south Georgia, declaring that the commissioner of agriculture had been unfavorable to the proposition in his speech. We will remember you in south Georgia for that the senator is quoted to have flung at the commissioner. Commissioner Price assured Senator Bush that nothing was further from his mind than to oppose the south Georgia location and that he had no objection to the station being moved to Athens and that he had not opposed the south Georgia removal of the station but the south Georgia senator apparently refused to be placated.

CAUCUS TO APPROVE CURRENCY MEASURE

Believed House Democrats Will Adopt the Proposals of Administration.

Washington, August 6.—(Special)—Democratic leaders predicted today that the administrative currency bill will meet the approval of the democratic caucus on August 11 and will be adopted by the house. These predictions followed a careful canvass of the democratic membership and conferences with the leading representatives on the republican side. The bill will not prohibit interlocking directorates in national banks and will not admit cotton corn wheat and tobacco as collateral to secure circulating notes.

A determined fight will be made in the democratic caucus by the three members of the house banking and currency committee who favored the above amendments. They were Representatives Neely of Kansas, Ragdale, of South Carolina, and Eagle of Texas, but they were overruled, 11 to 3. Representative Robert L Henry, of Texas, sponsor of the money trust investigation, is backing these recalcitrant members of the committee.

Underwood Is Confident. Representative Oscar W Underwood of the democratic house leader, thinks that the bill will have an overwhelming majority in the house. Supporters of an amendment to make cotton and corn and other agricultural products good collateral for notes insist that warehouse receipts are readily convertible since cotton and corn and wheat are always in demand. The law could require that one hundred per cent of the value of the products be advanced their value. But the difficulty is to know where to stop. Tobacco growers say their product is less liable to damage or depreciation than cotton or corn. The demand that apples and potatoes and cattle be admitted as collateral reduces the proposition to an absurdity.

Representative Underwood spent a great part of today conferring with democratic senators as to their attitude on the currency bill. He was much encouraged so far as the house is concerned, but the market value of the bill is what will happen to the administration bill in the senate. Wilson to Insist on Reform. President Wilson today made it plain that he intends to stick to his determination to have a currency bill passed at the extra session.

Senator James told the president that the democratic would not pass the bill through the senate. He took a similar view. Senator Owen chairman of the banking committee said only Senators Hitchcock and O'Gorman were flatly opposed to legislation at this time. All the other democrats but five were earnestly in favor of the legislation he said and though preferring to defer the task to the next session would abide by the wishes of the president and the majority.

Curry Conference By Bankers. New York August 6.—In a circular letter sent out today the currency commission of the American Bankers Association invited the presidents of the several state banks and associations and representatives of all clearing houses to meet with the commission in Chicago this month to discuss the administration proposed currency bill. The meeting is contingent upon the action of the democratic caucus of the house of representatives at Washington August 11.

In a letter A Barton Neuhorn, chairman of the commission, says: There have been no public hearings on this measure. This is a very important subject vitally affecting all interests and that some form of public expression be made at this time. A representative assembly of this kind is very much desired in order that the merits or defects of the bill can be presented and brought to the attention of congress.

Lea Drives Currency Bill. Washington August 6.—Senator Lea of Tennessee today introduced a bill to provide for a revision of the Aldrich Vreeland emergency currency act. Senator Lea announced he would speak within a few days in support of his bill which differs radically from the administration currency measure soon to be taken up in the house. The Lea bill would establish a currency association of local banks in each of the large cities with authority to issue currency under regulations made by the secretary of the association. It would be required to guarantee its circulation. The bill would limit the issue of an association of 50 per cent of its capital stock.

SALE OF MANSION KILLED BY SENATE

"Too Much Room for Land Speculation in Substitute Resolution," Said Senator McNeil in Opposing Plan.

The Watts resolution providing for the exchange of the present governor's mansion for a new mansion and an annex to the state capitol was killed in the senate yesterday afternoon. A substitute to the measure providing for the commission to have the power to either sell or exchange the property was defeated by a vote of 21 to 19. Senator McNeil in opposing the substitute declared that there was too much involved to entrust such an amount of money to a commission of private citizens who are not even instructed to report back their decision in the matter to the legislature before a final consummation of the deal.

Restriction of Competition. Fourth any and all fact or facts tending to show that the present relations between the Louisville and Nashville and the Nashville Chattanooga and Decatur roads and the Louisville and Nashville Chattanooga and Decatur roads have a tendency to restrict competition and maintain fixed rates. The fifth sixth seventh and eighth sections relate to the terms of the lease of the Nashville and Decatur road by the Louisville and Nashville. Section nine calls for the number of free annual passes and the number of trip passes issued by the Louisville and Nashville and the Nashville Chattanooga and Decatur roads since January 1 1911 to members of legislative bodies and other public officials. It would not of course apply to Georgia as under the law no passes are issued within the state to legislative or other public officials.

LIMITATION TAX BILLS DEFEATED

House Refuses to Limit Its Power to Four Mills Appropriation for Schools and Pensions.

The house at its afternoon session defeated both the 1-2 mill limitation of common school appropriations and the 1-2 mill limitation of pension appropriations.

The discussion on the school appropriation limitation began at the latter part of the morning session and was concluded early in the afternoon.

W. & A. BILL STRIPPED AND KILLED BY SENATE

Senator Sweat Voted Against Own Resolution After Clauses Had Been Stricken.

After emasculating the resolution of Senator L. Sweat so as to strip it of all its provisions in regard to the extension of the W. & A. railroad to the sea and leaving only a clause providing for the investigation as to the advisability of leasing the road, the state senate then voted down the resolution as amended by a vote of 23 to 18.

When the amendment striking the vital clauses of the bill relating to the extension of the road were stricken Senator Sweat moved that the measure be tabled, but the motion was lost.

Much time was consumed in debate as to the legality of creating such a commission in the senate and providing for the payment of its members, many senators claiming this to be unconstitutional.

The registration bill of Senator Stark, requiring registration books to be kept open until 90 days before elections, which was defeated in the senate Tuesday, was reconsidered yesterday and will take its regular place on the calendar.

During the discussion of this reconsideration Senator Hule, of the thirty-fifth, in opposing a reconsideration, stated that the chief aim of the bill was to enable the politicians to stuff the ballot boxes on the eve of the election.

Senator Oliff, of the fourth, sprang to his feet to a point of personal privilege and asked that the words of Senator Hule be taken down by the secretary, as he would have occasion to use them later.

At this juncture the senator from the thirty-fifth stated that he did not impugn the motives of any senator in the chamber, but that he was speaking of certain politicians outside of that body.

Passengers On Sleeping Car Awakened to Fight Flames

While passengers lay snugly in their berths, some already in the embrace of Morpheus and others just wakening, the God of Slumber, fire broke out in a Central of Georgia train from Savannah about 4 o'clock yesterday morning and almost caused a panic.

Like a flaming meteor just dropped from the habitat of Mars, the train sped through the darkness while the fire blazed. Smoke, which soon filled the burning car, aroused the sleeping, drowsy travelers.

Men and women, attired in their nighties, worked elbow to elbow, and succeeded in putting out the fire.

CREMATORY ENGINEER TO GET $1,500 A YEAR

Plant Will Require Thirty Men to Operate It, in Eight-Hour Shifts.

The salary of the engineer in charge of Atlanta's new $200,000 crematory will be $1,500 a year, and he will have two assistants at $1,200 a year.

This was agreed on at a conference between Councilman Claude L. Ashley, chairman of the city sanitary committee; G. H. Brandon, secretary of the board of health, and P. D. Canham, engineer representing the Destructor company.

C. H. Mitchell is favorably considered for chief engineer and J. A. Day has been put forward as an assistant.

Both are Atlantans and competent engineers. Their names were offered by Councilman Ashley.

A third engineer will be selected before the plant is turned over to the city for final test.

It will require thirty men to successfully operate the plant, according to Engineer Canham.

They will be worked in eight-hour shifts during night and day. The salaries will range from $1,500 per annum to $110 a day.

Councilman Ashley stated Wednesday that he will insist on the city employing only engineers of recognized ability, regardless of political affiliations.

Councilman Ashley will unfold what he regards a practical scheme for the disposal of the energy of the plant at the next meeting of council.

His scheme is to invite the Georgia Railway and Power company to buy the current from the city right off the bus-bars of the crematory.

MEN and RELIGION BULLETIN No. 70 Justice and Mercy in Georgia

"A bruised reed shall he not break, And the smoking flax shall he not quench."

--Isaiah 42:3.

"I will have mercy"

--Matt. 12:7

Justice and mercy for the friendless!

The Senate, without a dissenting vote, has passed the bill providing for Probation.

With only three men voting against it, the Senate has also passed the bill providing for the Indeterminate Sentence.

These two bills are now before the House, having been favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee.

And Tuesday CHAIRMAN WHEATLEY saved the Girls' Reformatory from oblivion; he called a special meeting of the Committee on Appropriations to consider the Jones-Mills Bill; the RESULT, it is believed, will be the building of the Reformatory for Girls in Georgia.

Representatives GRIFFIN, GREENE of Houston, and BERRY, members of the subcommittee that considered the original bill and reported it back carrying an appropriation of $30,000 to the committee for action, spoke in favor of it.

Messrs. CONNOR and METHVIN advocated its adoption.

JOHN Y. SMITH of Fulton then moved that the Committee report favorably the bill as amended.

In favoring this motion CHAIRMAN WHEATLEY explained that he had favored the bill from the beginning.

Both the Chairman and the members of the Committee recognize the APPALLING AND IMMEDIATE NEED for the Reformatory for Girls; they unanimously adopted the motion recommending that the bill, carrying an appropriation of $30,000, be passed.

The Prison Commission has urged that the home be built, pointing out that Georgia has no place in which to handle wayward and delinquent girls. And the Penitentiary Committee has also, without a dissenting vote, recommended the passage of the Jones-Mills Bill providing for the home.

Remember! This home is not to deal with the hardened woman of the street, but with children.

Today, if a GIRL OF ELEVEN, TWELVE OR FOURTEEN gets into trouble, there is no place in Georgia to protect or help her.

This shame is unendurable. Today seventy-five girls under sixteen years old, known to us, are without a place.

What will YOU do?

No man has opposed—and it is believed that no man can or will oppose the bill, either in the House or the Senate.

Today Georgia looks to the Rules Committee of the House.

SPEAKER BURWELL, who is ex-officio its chairman, and BLACKBURN of Fulton, its Vice Chairman, and the men serving with them in the Committee on Rules, namely MESSRS. HARDEMAN, MILLER, NUNNALLY, PAULK OF BERRIEN, REDWINE, RHODES, SHUPTRINE, SLADE AND RAGLAND, are to decide whether or not the State will take care of her delinquent and wayward girls—

Whether or not the State shall have Probation and the Indeterminate Sentence—

Whether or not Georgia will take her stand with her sister states in giving justice and mercy to the unfortunate.

Those who know these men believe that they will NOT KILL, but WILL HELP to pass these measures.

Those who know Georgia believe that the men of the House and of the Senate will gladly give the brief time necessary to make these bills the law of Georgia.

They harm no one. But they help the helpless.

They mean life to many a home in Georgia where worse than death—dishonor and shame, will reign if these bills are not enacted into laws at this session of the Legislature.

What will you do?

BAILIFF GOES TO BRING MOORE FROM CANADA

Athens, Ga., August 6.—(Special.) County Bailiff R. A. Saxe left this morning for Canada, with the proper requisition papers to bring back to Clarke county J. C. Moore, former representative here for a large New York life insurance company.

THE CONSTITUTION Established 1868. THE STANDARD SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER. Published Daily, Sunday, Tri-Weekly. CLARK HOWELL, Editor and General Manager. W. L. HALSTEAD, Business Manager. Directors: Clark Howell, Roby Robinson, Albert Howell, Jr., E. R. Shack, H. W. Grady.

THE CITY OF MRS. PANKHURST. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of England's militant suffragettes, has issued to the government an ultimatum that runs, "give me liberty or give me death."

She took her husband's position, when he was invalidated some years ago in the government service. Steadily she rose, being unquestionably a woman of fine ability. But after she had reached a certain stage, the story runs, her promotion stopped short.

Since then, her propaganda has been on a plane of gradually ascending violence. From emphatic she went to incendiary speeches. And from that to actual violence was a logical step.

OBSCURE HEROES. Among the obscure heroes of the civil war in which the memory of the nation has turned as a consequence of the Gettysburg reunion are the women and the very young boys who bore the burdens while husbands, fathers and brothers were at the front.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION. By an overwhelming—almost a unanimous—vote the senate yesterday passed the permanent registration bill so strongly urged in Governor Slaton's message.

COUNTY BOARDS OF HEALTH. The bill of Representative Ellis, of Tift county, providing for county boards of health, is on the right line, and it is to be hoped that this session of the general assembly will give it favorable consideration.

THE "WHITE COAL" EMPIRE. There is no reason why the south's water power resources should not make it the world's greatest industrial center—a sort of "white coal" empire.

THE MEDICAL PRACTICE BILL. We present elsewhere a communication from Dr. W. M. Durham, of Atlanta, in reference to the medical practice bill now pending in the house, after passage by the senate.

Just from Georgia. By FRANK L. STANTON. But—the band played "Dixie." I told 'em: "From this Georgy lan' I shorely must be gone, But—the band played "Dixie," an' I stayed right on!"

CHILDREN AND CATTLE. President Edward Fabchild, of the National Educational association, declared recently at Salt Lake City that more attention is paid to cattle than to children.

De Sun tell de word. "You doin' prime. An' you ain't gwine ter melt befo' yo' time; De fire 'm a-makin' whar yo' roll is des fer ter climatise yo' soul; Dat's why I gives you a reastin' turn; Wen Satan gits you you'll know how ter burn!"

Just like Billville. Numerous ex-Billville citizens must have pitched their tents in Arkansas, and it is evident that The Kansas City Star has "tricked" one of them, who writes "I take my pen in hand to let you know that I wrote a piece for the purpose of speaking the public mind in your paper, instead of which when it was printed truzed no more like what I wrote than the nose on your face."

On laws you dine. On laws you sup; (Watch out, fellers, Or they'll trip you up.)

There is hope—in the Panama diggings. Suez canal tolls last year amounted to $26,000,000.

Nothing like variety. One minute the British suffragettes are in church, praying for Emmeline Pankhurst, and the next they are lighting bombs to blow the government sky-high.

THE ECONOMIC VIEW. "There are about thirty widows in this town," says The American Greeting. "There are also about the same number of widowers. With the present high price of coal and a hard winter approaching, why is it necessary to keep up sixty fires to keep them warm when thirty would answer the purpose just as well?"

THE HOHENZOLLERN LUCK. Does the kaiser ascribe any part of the prosperity of his reign to the possession of the "Hohenzollern luck?"

NEW ENGLAND GETS MOST OF HER POWER from coal, and it is becoming more expensive each year. New York's factories are driven by the same agency. In the far west it is true there are some mighty hydro-electric projects.

An Interesting Analysis of the Population of Georgia. Editor Constitution: Figures are dull reading, but are essential in convincing one of the need of an effort on the part of the people of the state to place Georgia where it rightfully belongs—the leading agricultural, commercial and industrial state of the union.

Of the population of Georgia there are: 1,481,808 white, 1,176,957 negro, 95 Indian, 233 Chinese, Japanese, etc.

DR. DURHAM THINKS MEDICAL BILL UNFAIR. Editor Constitution: Allow me space to notice two only of the many, inequities of the Medical Practice Bill.

1. This bill provides for a board of eight medical examiners, five of whom shall be of one school. This simply hands over to one school the whole medical thought and practice of the state.

2. Look at sections 7 and 8. Could anything be more cruel and tiger-like in its rapacity? It makes no difference how old a college may be, however broken its record, or how good its work in the past, this board jumps in without its consent's notice and declares that some of its students are out of date (or more roughly, it does not suit them).

ITS AUTHOR EXPLAINS COUNTY HEALTH BILL. Editor Constitution: House Bill No. 230, by substitute, has been recommended to pass by the committee on hygiene and sanitation.

Real Cause For Alarm. (From a Foreign Exchange.) Smith had just been operated on for a pediculitis. During his period of convalescence he became quite chummy with the other patients who shared the ward with him.

FOUR ARE KILLED IN L. & N. WRECK

Fast Freight Train Plunges Into Culvert When Cement Bridge Gives Away, Fol- lowing Heavy Rains.

Three white and one negro were instantly killed about 1 o'clock Wednesday morning when a fast freight train on the Louisville and Nashville railroad plunged into a culvert 45 feet deep, three miles north of Marietta.

The dead are:
S. K. FARRIS, engineer, white, of Etowah.
T. S. C. CHANNELL, fireman, white, of Etowah.
R. A. MERRILL, white, brakeman of Etowah.
MIKE JACKSON, section hand, colored, of Noonday.

The body of the negro was the only one recovered up to a late hour last night, as the others are buried under many tons of coal and debris. The first six cars behind the engine were gondolas, and were heavily loaded with coal. Directly behind these coal cars came three cars loaded with hay, and next were three loads of automobiles. Eleven cars took the plunge after the engine into the chasm, and all the wreckage was piled on top of the three white men, who were riding in the engine.

Cement Bridge Gives Away.
The accident was caused by the giving way of a cement bridge before a torrent of water from the rain which had raged for three hours previous to the wreck. The bridge was completely washed away and the water so high that the cars standing on the track were under a depth of 3 feet until late Wednesday afternoon.

According to J. L. Brenner, conductor of the train, who, with another brakeman, was riding in the caboose at the rear end of the train and escaped without injury, the train was traveling at the rate of 15 or 25 miles an hour at the time of the wreck. He stated that he thought the dead engineer could not possibly have seen that the bridge was down, as he could not notice that there was any attempt to slacken speed.

Early Wednesday morning two wrecking cranes, with a large force of workmen, were rushed to the scene, and set to work to dig out the bodies of the victims. The negro's body was found on the opposite side of the culvert from the wreck, only half buried in the mud bank.

Little Hope for Men.
Every effort is being made by the railway officials to get the cars cleared up and the men found, but little hope is held out that any of the three are alive. Hundreds of tons of coal, hay and wreckage are piled on them, and even should they have survived the fall and weight of the coal, water is flowing through the culvert in a sufficient quantity to have caused death by drowning.

Much of the debris was cleared away by nightfall Wednesday, and the work went steadily on by torchlight. The bodies of the three white men may not be uncovered until a late hour tonight. An investigation has been started to find out what caused the bridge to give way, as it was a practically new one, built of re-enforced cement.

ZACHRY HEARING SET FOR FRIDAY

Harlem Man Will Appear to Answer Four Charges Preferred Against Him by the State of South Carolina.

Another engagement of the spectacular fight in which a little 2-year-old girl has involved two states will be waged next Friday morning in the office of Governor John M. Slaton, when Julian J. Zachry, of Harlem, Ga., alleged fugitive from the justice of the laws of South Carolina, will be called upon to show reason why he should not be placed under arrest and carried back to the Palmetto state.

Four requisitions, setting forth charges, were received from Governor Cole L. Blease, of South Carolina, on Wednesday morning and the hearing has been set for Friday morning.

Meanwhile Zachry and his little daughter, Frances, are in Harlem, where numerous citizens have given the governor assurance that he will appear Friday, and the mother of the little girl and her little daughter, Mildred, are in Columbia anxiously awaiting the outcome of the hearing.

Charges Against Father.
The formidable documents from South Carolina, bearing the elaborate signature of Governor Blease, set forth the following charges against the father:

First, that he has kidnaped from her mother their 2-year-old daughter, Frances.

Second, that he "did torquer, torment and cruelly ill treat" little Frances.

Third, that he has failed to support his wife, Mrs. Mary Zachry.

Fourth, that he has failed to support his younger daughter, 1-year-old Mildred, who is with her mother.

Upon receipt of these requisitions Governor Slaton communicated with Mayor E. D. Clay, of Harlem, requiring the presence of Zachry at Friday's hearing. Mayor Clay forwarded to Governor Slaton a list of the names of a score or more of the citizens of Harlem who took upon themselves the responsibility for Zachry's appearance.

When the Augusta court, in which Mrs. Zachry was pleading for the possession of her two little girls two weeks ago, gave the custody of them to their father, Mrs. Zachry fled with them across the state line into South Carolina, and asked from Governor Blease protection. Governor Blease made her this promise, but the father of the children later obtained possession of little Frances, and for this is now charged with kidnaping.

Carolina Agents Named.
E. H. Corley and Sim J. Miller are designated in the requisitions as the agents of the state of South Carolina.

This case has aroused such great interest that Judge Hammond, of the superior court, in which the decision in favor of Zachry was handed down, recommended in his decision that the law requiring that the custody of the children be given to the father should be repealed. Representative John T. Smith, of Fulton county, in the present legislature has introduced such a measure.

Zachry Not Arrested.
Augusta, Ga., August 6.—(Special.) Julian J. Zachry has not been arrested and his attorneys state he will not be arrested, but that Zachry will go to Atlanta unattended by law officers and with his attorneys for his hearing Friday. He will put up a vigorous fight against being turned over to the South Carolina authorities. Zachry spent the whole of today in Augusta frequenting his usual haunts and mingling among his friends. He declined to talk to reporters.

ATLANTA INVITES TYPOS.

Wardlaw Sends Wire to Inter- national Leaders.

Understanding that there has been some trouble about finding a satisfactory place in Nashville, Tenn., for the meeting of the International Typographical Union convention, William S. Wardlaw, president of the Atlanta Typographical Union, has sent a wire to the international leaders.

Mexicans along lines of sedition and in applying the pernicious foreign expulsion clause of the constitution. This Mexican also indicated that since Mr. Lind was coming to Mexico in an unofficial capacity and with no credentials he could not expect more consideration or immunity than an ordinary foreigner could receive.

Anti-Huerta Element Skeptical.
Mexicans familiar with international law are reluctant to believe that Mr. Lind's instructions are for him to deal with others than the authorized officials of the de facto government.

These officials are still firm in their assertion that no suggestions whatever involving mediation or the resignation of Huerta will be acceptable and say that the best that Mr. Lind can hope for in this respect is to be ignored. However, the anti-Huerta element which is not prominently in evidence in the capital, is skeptical regarding the firm stand by the administration.

Alleging that the state of the country is such that it will be impossible to hold a presidential election October 27, the date previously set, the Catholic convention agreed late tonight not to nominate a candidate, developed an speech by the Mexican people from the federal district, who charged that the condition of the country was to the non-recognition of the government by the United States.

In Case of War.
The speaker advocated that the convention take no action which would further divide the Mexican people, who he said, should present a united front in case of war with the United States. The speech met with the approval of a large number of delegates, but it was opposed by the leader of the federal district organization who insisted that the attitude of the administration at Washington did not represent the views of a majority of the American people.

The decision of the Catholics not to enter the political fight would appear to remove the last hopes of election being held, since a similar action has been taken by the liberal party and there is a growing belief that General Felix Diaz will be unable to return to Mexico from Japan in time to make a campaign. However, there is a well-defined belief here that President Huerta himself will become a candidate for the Mexican presidency and in this case politicians believe he would be likely to get the support of the Catholics.

FIVE AMERICANS ARRESTED AND TAKEN TO CHIHUAHUA
New York, August 6.—Attorneys for the Madera company, whose headquarters are in this city, have notified the state department at Washington of the arrest of five of the officers of the company, all Americans, at Pearson, and Madera, Mexico, by the Mexican federal authorities and also have asked their release from the federal government at Mexico City. An executive officer of the company who made this known today added that he had received authentic information that the five men had been taken to Chihuahua City and held prisoner there and that he had been unable to learn what they were accused of. The men were in charge of a guard maintained at a mill of the company, he explained, to protect them from fire and pillage. All communication with Shihuahua City has been cut off, he said, since an attack yesterday by rebel troops on a federal supply train.

"BILLY" WARDLAW.
He has invited typo convention to meet here if Nashville proves unable to provide proper accommodations.

Wardlaw, a member of the Atlanta Typographical Union, has extended an invitation for the convention to meet in Atlanta Monday.

The trouble in Nashville arose over the fact that an extra session of the legislature had been called to meet in the house of representatives of the state capital on this date, which had been promised the typos. However, it is thought that with the Ryman auditorium and other halls that the matter can be satisfactorily adjusted in Nashville.

"Billy" Wardlaw, as he is known by his many friends everywhere, is one of the two representatives from the Atlanta local to the international convention. He has held every place within the gift of the Atlanta local, and represented the Atlanta local in the now-famous international convention at Washington, D. C., 1902. It is largely owing to his efforts that the Atlanta local has taken such high rank.

MEXICANS ARE WROTH OVER LIND'S MISSION

on which Mexico will be recognized by the United States is the elimination of President Huerta.

Received With Indignation.
Earlier reports that Mr. Lind proposed to deal with Huerta, perhaps, by making the direct suggestion that he resign, were received with indignation by Mexican officials, and the new angle of his visit makes it not improbable that he will be treated with even less consideration than otherwise would have been accorded him.

It was pointed out by a prominent Mexican today that in the former case the government might not consider itself obliged to act until the suggestion was actually put forward by Mr. Lind, but that in the second case the government would be justified in characterizing him as one who was inclining

WILSON ATTACKED FOR MEXIC POLICY

Sending of Lind to Mexico Is Criticised by Senator Clark, of Wyoming—Protection for Americans Demanded.

Washington, August 6.—President Wilson's action in sending former Governor John Lind to Mexico as a special emissary in the present situation was attacked in the senate today by Senator Clark, of Wyoming, who declared "something else must be done by the administration" to guarantee adequate protection to Americans.

Senator Clark presented a resolution for an immediate investigation by the senate foreign relations committee of the conditions of American citizens and American property in Mexico.

"This resolution is not introduced in a spirit of hostility to the administration or of criticism of the foreign relations committee," declared the senator. "But conditions are growing steadily worse in Mexico. Now we learn that Governor Lind has been sent there by President Wilson.

"That does not satisfy. Mr. Lind does not go as the official representative of the United States. He does not go as an ambassador, cloaked with authority to represent the United States. He cannot be appealed to by American citizens for protection. Some other steps are necessary to give to

COMPLIMENT OF JUDGE ENDS FIGHT OF WOMEN

Remarking that "two good looking women like you should not be fighting like this," Recorder Pro Tem, Preston succeeded in pacifying Mrs. J. T. King, of 144 Piedmont avenue, and Mrs. M. Greenberg, of 8 Warren place, who brought before him for engaging in a fight in Mrs. King's home Wednesday morning.

Each of the women blamed the other for the trouble which arose over some sewing. The women smilingly heard the compliment of Recorder Preston, and having agreed to settle their disputes out of court in the future, their cases were dismissed.

Americans and American property the protection they need and are demanding.

No Definite Information.
"We are unable to get exact and definite information," continued Senator Clark, "about conditions in Mexico. Evidence still continues, however, to show that American property is being destroyed in Mexico every day, that American citizenship is being dishonored there and even officers of the American government are being shot down.

"It is no purpose of this resolution to place the responsibility for these outrages. It is to obtain information. I know there is a disposition at times to regard such information as confidential. But in my judgment that is not the proper course now, because it is no secret that other nations than ourselves are interested in the situation. Conditions are being talked of, not only in the senate, but elsewhere. The conditions cannot long be borne with by the American people. Something must be done or something will be done.

"I do not intend to ask for a vote on the resolution at this time and unless some one desires to make a statement in regard to it I shall ask that it go over."

STARK'S MEASURE PASSED IN SENATE

Permanent Registration Pro- vided by the Bill Adopted. Three Amendments Meet With Favor.

The bill of Senator W. W. Stark, providing for permanent registration, was passed as amended by the senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 30 to 2. Senators Harrell and Tyson voted against the measure.

The bill is ably characterized by Senator Miller as a measure to insure permanent registration for white people with enough provisos to eliminate the undesirable negro vote.

Senator Harrell moved that the bill be indefinitely postponed, but his motion received only one vote. Later he made a vehement speech against the passage of the measure, declaring the present laws to be the most effective the state had ever had and insisting that no such legislation be passed as the Stark bill. His voice was the only one in opposition to the measure.

Three Amendments Passed.
Three amendments were passed by practically unanimous votes, one of the committee's, one of Senator Miller and one of Senator Burtz.

The amendment of the committee is: "Provided that in case said voter removes from said county the board of registrars or the clerk of the superior court thereof shall, from the completed list of registered voters on file in his office as provided by section 58, of the code of Georgia of 1910, issue and deliver to said registered voter a certificate of registration, which certificate, when presented to the tax collector or registrars of the county into which said voter has removed, shall entitle him to like registration therein on his first taking the oath of office now required of all voters before they can register with the tax collectors of this state."

Senator Miller's amendment provides that no such certificate of registration shall be issued as herein provided. In the judgment of said clerk or registrars, the said voter is excluded from the right to vote under the provisions of the constitution of this state in regard to the qualifications of electors.

Those Who May Register.
Senator Burtz's amendment provides that no voter shall be entitled to permanent registration unless he be registered under the provisions of subsections 1 and 2 of paragraph 4, section 34, of the code of 1910. These clauses qualify for voting soldiers who fought in the revolutionary war, the war of 1812, the war with Mexico, the war with the Indians, the war between the states, or the war with Spain and all persons legally descended from those embraced in the classes above.

Senator Stark, author of the measure, stated that he was satisfied with the amendments which were tacked on his bill and that he thought he now had a bill which would be passed for which he had been fighting for many years.

No Ice Plant for New York.
New York, August 6.—Mayor Gaynor today vetoed a resolution recently adopted by the aldermen appropriating $22,000 for the establishment of a municipal ice plant. "The resolution doesn't say whether the ice is to be sold or given away," he commented. "There are many other things we have to do before we may reasonably think of manufacturing ice."

Buy Diamonds Before The New Tariff Advances Prices.

Under the old tariff no duty was levied on uncut or "rough" diamonds. Only 10 per cent duty was paid on cut or polished diamonds.

The democratic caucus has just recommended a 50 per cent duty on polished diamonds and 10 per cent on the rough. This new rate will no doubt become effective within the next two or three months.

In addition to this, the big diamond syndicate has raised prices to the cutters since January $15.00 to $30.00 per carat.

This means an advance in the retail market within the next four to six months, ranging from $15.00 to $60.00 a carat—according to grades and sizes.

Buy a diamond now on attractive monthly payments and save the advance. Our booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," quotes lowest net prices and gives full particulars regarding our liberal plans.

The Crackers broke even at Chattanooga Wednesday. Had a pinch-hitter been used in the first game we might have won both. But an even break is satisfactory.

WHIFFS

Big Day Today.

TODAY will be a big day in Nashville. The business men of that city have charge of the game. They first ordered 500 tickets from the Nashville Baseball club. They sold the entire number, and of the new lot of 3,000, reports from Nashville are to the effect that but few of these are left. Atlanta will be the Vols' opponents. Williams v. Dent.

Game on Sunday.

THE GAME ordered shown out by President Kavanaugh, the one that the two teams claimed for forfeit, will be played on Sunday. The chances are that it will be set for Sunday, as the Vols have an off day on that occasion.

The Last Word.

KONETCHY, "The Big Train," who plays the initial cushion for the St. Louis Cardinals in rapidly proving the claim of the St. Louis scribes that he is the best first baseman under the big tent, at least from a fielding standpoint, while his hitting has not been what one would term weak. It has been steadily around the 300 mark in 101 games this season. Konety has only had four errors. He has handled 1,052 put-outs and 60 assists. The past four years his average for the four seasons exceeds the .351 mark. Some holding.

Covering 'Em Up.

C. FRANK is a wise mogul. You'll have to hand it to him. Realizing that it is out of the question for him to make any showing in the present race, he is getting ready for the next year. He has sold all his best players to Cleveland and Toledo. The "bigger in the woodpile" is that these sales are simply cover-ups. The reason will be back in a New Orleans uniform next spring. The sales are recorded to prevent any drafts being signed over. Rebel Williams is the latest to go to Cleveland and Toledo.

Not That Kind.

THE REPORT that Frank (Chance) was going to quit the management of the Yankees at the end of the present season caused much blarney. Any one that knows Frank would naturally laugh at such a report. If there is anything that Chance will not do it is to quit under fire. There is not a rattling bone in his body. When Frank Chance quits the Yankees it will be only after he has made a success of the team.

Making Changes.

THE VOLS are still making changes. Spratt's good showing and the fact that he has caused Bill Schwartz to make arrangements to ship Dave Bunting elsewhere. Brackenkidge has already been released and it is said that Baumgardner is also slated for the can.

Nothing to It.

HUGH JENNINGS, manager of the Detroit Tigers, comes to the front with a denial of the oft-published statements and reports that Cyrus Raymond had been discharged. Jennings is dissatisfied at Detroit and, therefore is not giving the Tigers his best efforts. Jennings denies the report that he has been discharged. He has neither sulked or struck," said Jennings, "and he has not been panned by the Detroit fan club either."

Picks Athletics.

THE ATHLETICS are the class of the American league and they will walk away with the pennant. Hugh Jennings predicts that the White Elephants will have a bigger margin at the finish than they possess now.

Have Good Chance.

THE GIANTS have a better chance at the world's title this season than they did last year, admitting that they are playing a stronger ball club. They are playing a stronger ball club. They are playing a stronger ball club.

After Record.

BILL FROUGH, the elongated right hander of the Birmingham Barons, after the league record of consecutive wins, might as well be called the "long" man. He has won 12 games in a row. He has won 12 games in a row.

Where They Play Today

Southern League. Atlanta in Nash vs Birmingham in Chattanooga.

South Atlantic League. Jacksonville in Columbus vs Charleston in Macon. Albany in Savannah.

National League. Boston in Pittsburgh vs New York in Cincinnati. Philadelphia in Chicago vs Brooklyn in St. Louis.

American League. Chicago in Wash vs Cleveland in Philadelphia. Detroit in New York vs St. Louis in Boston.

Empire State League. Valdesa in America vs Thomas in Waveros. Cuba in Brunswick.

Georgia-Alabama League. Savannah in Anniston vs Gadsden in Tallahassee. Jacksonville in Opelika.

ED WALSH WILL HAVE HIS ARM EXAMINED

Chicago, August 6.—Ed Walsh, star pitcher of the Chicago American League club, whose arm has been sore since spring and who has taken part in only a few games this season, left today to visit a specialist at Youngstown, Ohio, where he will undergo an examination to determine whether his career as a twirler is at an end. His last appearance with the White Sox was in Chicago July 19, when he was obliged to retire after pitching two innings against the Philadelphia Athletics. He declared that he finds himself unable to pitch again, and will make an effort to become an outfielder.

Wallop starts rally. Wallop led the rough work against Grimes in the second inning of the second game and scored bases run by a double and a single. Street went in to hit for Howell, but popped out.

Even Break With Lookouts; Lack of Pinch Lost Opener; Dent Rescued the Second

By W. L. Foster.

Chattanooga, Tenn. August 5.—(Special)—Crackers and Lookouts waded through a sea of tropical baseball news today and darkness found the home team, each team finally emerging with a game. While the battles were long drawn out they were intensely interesting because of the earnestness with which they were contested.

W. H. Smith, Bisland and Holland did the off the service at the bat for the lookouts in both halves. The top three were unable to enrich the batting averages to any extent whatsoever. Smith started three innings in the first game, scored once and on the other two occasions was left stranded on third.

He started the rally that ended Grimes in the second. The entire Cracker team played a snappy fielding game in both contests except for some slip work in right, which helped lose the game.

It looked like perfect outfielding would have returned both King and Flick the runner on his triple that led to runs and the latter on his homer that scored two more, all that were made off Conzelman.

Wallop was played in right to hit against King the southpaw, and justified the manager's confidence in that he made two bingles, he misjudged Flick's liner and ran too far in the field, rising over his head to the fence.

The Crackers' first run was made in the fourth inning. Smith went to second on Walsh's wild throw, to third on Bisland's bunt and scored on Holland's sacrifice. In the last half of the same inning Elberfeld singled and King's triple crazed Manush's mitt, scoring the kid. King came over when Conzelman hit the plate with a pitched ball. Walsh singled and stole and Flick's drive was good for four sacks. These two innings were really the only occasion when Conzelman was not perfect master.

Wallop and company made two other attempts to rally the team in the sixth. Wallop's hit, Bisland's single and another strike to Holland fanned the bats with one down. Manush fanned and Dunn's grounder to Walsh brought a double play. In the eighth Smith was poked, Bisland again hit and Manush beat a scratch, filling the bases with one down. Wallop singled and stole and Flick's drive was sent in to hit in the ninth and whaled one over the fence for a homer.

Wallop starts rally. Wallop led the rough work against Grimes in the second inning of the second game and scored bases run by a double and a single. Street went in to hit for Howell, but popped out.

DALEY MAY SOON JOIN CRACKERS

Popular Outfielder May Be Claimed by the Crackers Today—Will Take Holtz's Place.

A well founded rumor about Atlanta Wednesday afternoon was to the effect that Judson Daley, the popular left fielder of the Nashville Volunteers, would soon be a Cracker. It was rumored that the Vols had asked walters on him, and Atlanta would claim him.

The sporting editor sent Manager Smith a wire concerning this, and received the following reply last night: "Dick Jewison, Sporting Editor of The Constitution, has done anything definite in regard to Daley. Will advise as soon as I get to Nashville." (Signed) WILLY SMITH.

So it can be seen that the rumor, wherever it got out, is well founded. The chances are that Manager Smith will claim Daley today, and he will play left field against his old teammates. Long going to right and Holtz receiving the pink slip. Daley will probably be batted in his accustomed lead-off position.

Daley will show better with Atlanta than with any other team. Lefty is easily the most popular ball player in the league. He is sure to get a world of encouragement from the local teachers.

Record-Breaking Crowd Will See Crackers Play the Vols; Business Men Control Game

Nashville, Tenn. August 6.—(Special)—Thursday will be a gala baseball day in this city, when the Atlanta Crackers and the Nashville Volunteers open their last series at Sulphur Dell for the Southern league season of 1913.

The Nashville Business Men's association have control of the game Thursday afternoon. They have sold over 8,000 tickets for this game, and have declared a half-holiday for the afternoon. It is considered expected that all attendance records for the season will be broken.

Kid Williams, the star southpaw of the Nashville team, and considered the best pitcher on the staff, has been saved for this particular occasion, to make the occasion an auspicious one by bringing a victory to local banners.

But Manager Smith evidently does not intend to let the Vols have the victory just because it will be a banner day in Nashville baseball history. He announces that his star twirler, Elliott Dent, will do the hurrying for his club.

The game over which the Vols and the Crackers wrangled so the last trip the best pitcher on the staff, has been ordered played over by the league head, and has been set for decision Sunday, which is an off day for both clubs.

The Rooters' club have purchased 10,000 megaphones for Thursday's contest, and they will be on hand to cheer Kid Williams and his teammates to victory.

ELECT OFFICERS FOR AUTODROME

Temporary Organization Perfected—Work Will Commence on World's Fastest Track in a Few Days.

Temporary organization of the Atlanta Autodrome association, which will control the automobile racing at the 1-mile board saucer to be erected in Atlanta, was perfected at a meeting at the Transportation club Wednesday morning.

Permanent organization will be perfected in a few days. Incorporation papers will be taken out, and all details of construction and organization given over thoroughly and work actually commenced on the track, which when completed, which will be within forty-five days after work commences will be the fastest automobile race track in the world.

The local automobile men are lined up solidly behind the new project and, realizing the great amount of publicity that Atlanta will secure from the track, the business men of the city are right behind the new project also.

Officers were elected at the meeting Wednesday. They are as follows: George Hanson, first vice president; John A. Bridgman, second vice president; Frank Weidon, secretary and treasurer; Jack Prince, manager; Mark Nabors, assistant manager; W. E. West, publicity manager; Thomas B. Felder, attorney.

In the center of the track will be eighty acres of land which will be converted into a field for all kinds of sports—baseball, football, polo and others—making the autodrome a center for the Atlanta sporting world in all its branches.

The local track, when completed, will surpass the famous Pie Pan track at Los Angeles, where all automobile track records have been made. The famous drivers who have seen the plans and specifications of the local track pronounce it at least four seconds to the mile faster.

Triple Radius Plan. The track will be erected near Collier road, about one-quarter of a mile from Peachtree road, and within twenty minutes' ride of the center of the city.

Built with a triple radius at the turn instead of the common half-circle, as used in former tracks, the local saucer will not only be faster, but will be safer both to driver and spectator.

An arrangement has been made with the local street railway company to erect a loop from with all the facilities of the autodrome, and prompt car service will be given.

All of the world's greatest drivers have signified their willingness to race on the local saucer. They are practically under contract already, and a three days' race will be held in the first week and all the famous drivers, will probably be held in October.

TWENTY-FIVE MILES, TEN MEN ON TRACK

This Will Be Feature Event at Local Motordrome Tomorrow Night—Expect to Establish Record.

The ten riders at the local motordrome expect to break all existing motorcycle records for 25 miles Friday night.

The feature event for the program tomorrow night will be a 25-mile race, with ten riders on the track at one time. It promises to be the most exciting race that has been staged.

The motorcycle race a few weeks ago was exciting enough, but it will not compare with this race. There are two reasons for such a statement.

In the first place, the riders will be after the 25-mile record. In the second place, Graves, Glenn, Renal and Shields have got their machines going at a fast even clip, and Richards and McLean are going to find things as easy this time.

There will be the usual short races besides.

Grijfin and Strachan Win Western Doubles And Right to Challenge

Chicago, August 6.—California earned a monopoly of honors in national tennis doubles today. By a well-deserved victory over the eastern champions, Clarence Grijfin and John Strachan, the Pacific coast's clever pair, won the right to meet Buddy and McLoughlin, their fellow Californians, for the championship of the United States at Newport August 18.

The eastern team, Gustav Touchard and Watson M. Washburne, although playing an excellent game, lost their defeat chiefly to a lack of team work.

The California youths, who have played together since childhood, played as one man today and won in straight sets, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4.

Of the eastern pair, Touchard played the better game. He lent active support at times to Washburne, but the latter, who was made the target for his opponents, had more than he was able to take care of, and was worn down.

Playing every possible point against Washburne, the western team wore him down and broke through his service line in the thirty-ninth game of the second set. A double fault helped them, and the server lost the crucial point when his weakly returned shot almost took him off his feet.

The east made its best showing of the day in the third set. Strachan, playing for the championship of the United States, and was a feature all day, kept up his fine work in the final set.

NO LAJOIE TRADE. Cleveland Owner Denies Possibility of a Change.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 6.—(Special.) President E. S. Bernard, of the Cleveland American league club, denied the report that the Chicago, Boston and Cleveland teams are arranging a three-cornered deal which will take Second Base from Lajoie from Cleveland.

Lajoie has been one of the bulwarks of the team all season except for a few weeks when he was out of the lineup because of injuries.

WARREN CORKRAN LED BIG FIELD OF GOLFERS

Manchester, Vt., August 6.—One hundred and sixty-four golfers competed in the qualifying round of the fourteenth annual play for the first president's cup at the Eskowick Country club today.

Warren Corkran, of the Baltimore Country club, won the medal for the low score for the round, with a total of 75.

Three were tied for the second place at 76. Fred Harshbarger, of Garden City, took 80 for the round. His partner, Norman Hunter, of St. Andrews, Scotland, finished 84. There was a 110 at 85 for the last two places in the first division.

Rain this afternoon prevented playing of the ties, and they were postponed until tomorrow.

Large Crowd Witnesses First Local Polo Game

With motor cars lining three sides of the parade grounds at Fort McPherson and Society—with a capital S, if you please—very much in evidence, the first game of polo in Atlanta was played yesterday afternoon and for a kick-up match was not without its thrills.

It is true that there were only four contestants instead of eight, that the horses did not display the dash that one expects of polo ponies and that the style of play exhibited would never hold the American cup on this side of the pond, but then one can't expect too much of a first attempt.

At any rate the players in their white breeches made quite a contrast with the green turf and the brightly colored dresses of the fair spectators, and when a tally-hoo full of pretty girls wheeled into line there was little left to be desired.

In the ten minutes that play lasted the Atlanta team, composed of J. J. Seaman and F. A. Savage, succeeded in driving the ball through the Fort McPherson team's goal twice, while the team that represented the fort, made two goals. The Atlanta team, Wise, was unable to score a point, and the game ended with the score being Atlanta 2, Fort McPherson 0.

The individual star was F. A. Savage, of the Atlanta team, whose drives were exceptionally good under the conditions.

Dr. John A. McLeay, the referee, said the exhibition was only to give Atlanta a sample of what real polo would be like. The players that took part, while completely out of practice, are to be commended for their dash and, after the newness of the thing wears off, should be able to give a better run of themselves.

Aside from the polo game itself, the next best number was the wrestling which was performed on horseback by privates of the fort. There were two teams, composed of three men each, and the team that had the most men that had been able to retain their seats in the melee won the fray.

The match between Privates Purdie and Flynn was the most spectacular of the afternoon. The sheets of both the men were completely demolished before Purdie finally succeeded in dislodging Flynn from his horse. At the time the horses of the men completely circled the parade ground with the men looking on each other's heels.

The afternoon's entertainment started off with the tug of war which was also executed on horseback. The two teams that were chosen from the scouts of the fort were Williams, Pryal, Reynolds and Flynn on the one side and Vitkeka, Perdue, Todd and Houston on the other. After two attempts to get a good start, the latter team succeeded in pulling the former team across the line.

The music furnished by the Seventeenth regiment's band was quite an enjoyable feature of the afternoon.

The members of the Atlanta Polo club desire to express their thanks to General Evans and Colonel Van Orde through the Constitution for the use of the grounds and their co-operation.

Bogus Insurance Solicitor Stings Local Ball Players

The local police and the Atlanta ball players are looking after a party named E. G. Yates, who represented himself to several members of the Atlanta team as a representative of the South American Accident Insurance company.

In this guise and with the aid of some application and receipt blanks which, it is said, he really stole from the Atlanta team, he solicited accident insurance from the local ball players, giving them receipts for the money paid on the premiums and then pulling the vanishing act.

C. C. Conley, local agent for the company, in an advertisement printed in The Constitution a day or two ago, warns Atlantans against Yates, explaining the connection for him with their company.

Manager Billy Smith, of the Crackers; Manager Johnny Dobbs, of the Montezuma; Butlers, of the Longs and Bailey and Pitcher Brady are a few of the players who were roped in. There were others whose names could not be learned.

MACON'S LIGHT BILLS TOO BIG, SAYS MASSEE

Claims the City Has Been Overcharged by Power Company That Competes With Him.

Macon, Ga., August 6.—(Special.)—W. J. Massee, president of the Georgia Public Service corporation, which operates a steam electric plant here in competition with the Central Georgia Power company, whose plant is operated by water power, has petitioned council to demand from the latter company a return of alleged overcharges in the city's lighting bills for the months of March, April, May, June and July.

The Central Georgia Power company has the city lighting contract and Mr. Massee claims that a rate of 5 cents per kilowatt has been exacted where the rate should have been only from 2 1/2 cents to 4 1/2 cents. He declares that for two arc lights on the Spring street bridge the city is to pay $100 a year when the contract of the company provides for a rate of $60, and under the new contract, which became effective July 1, a rate of $21.

Mr. Massee further claims that the city has not been given an opportunity to take advantage of rebates for payment of bills before the tenth of the month, for the bills are seldom rendered to the city before that time.

Council has referred the petition to the light committee for consideration of Mr. Massee's demand that a refund be asked and similar alleged overcharges checked in the future.

Madame LeRoy Gives Mystic Advice To Belles and Beaux at Lakewood

Be it known that there is no relation between the science of palmistry and that something called clairvoyance," explains my pretty friend, the debutante, as she tells me of her wonderful visit to Madame LeRoy, at Lakewood, an expert in palmistry. She had gone to Madame LeRoy to see if she could be helped find a lost gold pin—a little pin, the design of a basket of flowers. Madame LeRoy could not direct her to find the lost pin, but she could tell her how to avoid losing other things for she saw in the pink tinted palm of the debutante the lines which indicated carelessness, irregularity and a thoughtlessness which Madame LeRoy urged the still young woman to work against.

The Palmist's Pleasant Surroundings

But it was of Madame LeRoy the debutante had the story to tell for the clever palmist is said in the prettiest site at Lakewood her first set on a wood deck had facing a view that would inspire the future poet to express his most wonderful thoughts. She lives there with her year old son and together they are striking with it birds and the butterflies to live and be well and be happy through the knowledge of palmistry. Madame LeRoy has the glow readings of the palmistry in which possible her own palmistry. She has left herself in the science of palmistry and her advice are most interesting and useful. Like all people interested in these sciences who combines the knowledge of astrology with that of palmistry and her character readings touch on the romance which everybody carries hidden away somewhere. No matter how old how practical you—how old people are they like to hear their lives talked about to hear them self dramatized and exploited.

Interesting Phase of Character

There is always in every human being a little self interest that makes it so interesting to the little boy when the big folk at table tell how he acted when he was a little baby. Tell me some more about myself he will ask. The means of suppress that self interest as he grows older but it is there—always there. That is the reason all normal people like to have their lives read and the story told of their relations to astrologers. It is not that they merely want to know the truth of their selves that would be awful to know but they just like to hear themselves talked about. It is pleasing to the most sophisticated to be told as the hand lies in it of a woman's own general character and to know the truth of it. It is a matter of living which makes you so much the beloved. It is not nonsensical as everyone of us is ready to say do but never theless you do like to hear about your self like to hear just the things Madame LeRoy tells you over there in the shade of the shady side of the lake at Lakewood.

HAIL 6 INCHES DEEP RUINS NEWTON COTTON

Terrific Damage Done to Crop by Storm That Swept the Entire County

Social Circle Ga., August 6.—(Special)—Reports that have come in today from all over Newton county show that terrific damage has been done to the cotton crop by a hard hail storm which hit the county yesterday afternoon. On the farm of E. L. Almond, between Social Circle and Mansfield it is reported that not a single stalk remains that will bear a cotton boll this season. The neighboring farm of William Stanton suffered also almost a total loss of crop. Other farms were less severely affected. The hail storm lasted for thirty minutes and it is reported that at one point, a station called Hitchhiker's store the hail was six inches deep after the storm.

CROPS IN STEPHENS COUNTY ARE BEATEN DOWN BY HAIL

Toccoa, Ga., August 6.—(Special)—A terrific rain hail and wind storm occurred near Toccoa Tuesday night, devastating the farms and destroying the crops to the amount of several thousand dollars. The storm began about 5 o'clock in the evening and continued until late at night. It covered a tract of land some 5 miles long and 2 miles wide. The crops, especially the cotton, were destroyed, and the stalks alone being left standing. Corn was beaten to the ground and rooted up by the hail and wind. Where fifty bales of cotton were expected it is now estimated that not more than two bales can possibly be raised. The loss is estimated to be thousands of dollars.

This is the second storm that has passed over this tract of land in the last three months. The crops recovered from the first storm only for the reason that they were not developed enough for a storm to do them any permanent injury at the time. It will be impossible for the cotton or corn to recover in the least from the latest storm.

CITIZENS OF MEIGS OPPOSE PELHAM BILL

Thomasville, Ga., August 6.—(Special)—The citizens of Meigs are determined that if they cannot have the new county of Hansell as they have originally planned it they will do everything in their power to defeat its formation with Pelham as the county site at a mass meeting held a day or two ago resolutions were adopted calling upon every citizen of Thomas county to join with the residents of the Meigs district in the effort to fight the bill introduced by the legislature and recommended by the committee. They feel that the citizens of Pelham have stolen their thunder and they had rather stay where they are and be citizens of the parent county than be born out of the mother and made to be part of a new county which they do not want.

Si Spends His Day With Many Good New Friends

Visits Around Town and Is Welcomed With Open Arms Wherever He Goes—Getting in Shape for Today's Reception.

Dear folks, yesterday I was calculating to kinder rest up a little and get good and ready for the speech making and the reception today. But see as I wuz a gittin' up from the breakfast table in comes one of these here accommodatin' salesmen that ye see here there and every which wuz round the town. He sees his names White and he takes me on down to his place for a while. It seems he sells shirts for a big concern called the A. M. Robinson Co. and he takes me in a buildin' that was filled from cellar to buldipole with shirts and by goods of every kind and pattern. I had a mighty fine time with him and his friends there but reckoned I'd have to mosey on a bit if I wanted to see a little bit of what I figured on takin' in. I went on down to another hotel and found a heap of fellers there. One feller taken on up to this room at the top of the place and shows me some shoes called Battle Axe. Sed his name wuz Smith. It seemed like he wuz too fine speakin' a man to have a plain everyday kind of a name like that. The name of the hotel wuz Kimball and it pear'd to be a mighty fine place. The next place went into wuz a hat store called Brown, Brown & Green. Met Mr. Brown and Mr. Green and Mr. Dickmann and a h'il lot more fellers and wuz in a cude he paid for some of their hats but I reckon I kin get along with the old beaver for awhile yet.

When I left home Mirandy asks me to take a look at some of the women's hats so I goes round to see some of em. Mister Chambers from the hat store took me down to show me the way and I goes into a place with the name Ernest I. Rh. Lee Co. on the waders. Reckon the wimmen shore be goin' to look fixed up to their notion this year. I went to two other wimmen's hat stores. One wuz the K. T. company and tother place wuz Whitehall and called Regenstein Co. I figured then as how I'd seen on a hat store in Mirandy's speech so went on over to the H. T. Ten-Cent store. A Mister Lewis treated me dern nice and I kin me all round. I shot as how Mirandy wud be askin' what I got her in Atlanta so made a deal with Mr. Lewis and got a little gift for her here.

The next thing I did wuz to go to dinner and after dinner I did get a little rest. I sleep for an hour or two and then I walked up and down Peachtree street for quite a while. I got

VAUGHAN'S SPEECH VOTED A CLASSIC

Cartersville Merchant Deivers Speech on Leading Topic Which Deserves Deepest Study by Progressive Men.

J. W. Vaughan of Cartersville, Ga., delivered an address at the convention meeting yesterday morning which deserves to stand as a classic on its subject. The leading merchants of the south together with the most progressive and prominent of Atlanta's business men listened to this address with the closest possible attention. At its conclusion everybody asked about it and it was voted to be one of the finest business speeches heard for many years. It was on the leading topic of the day's discussion and dealt with the subject of How Can Merchants Landlords and Bankers Best Direct Their Influence Towards Securing a Greater Diversity of Crops.

Mr. Vaughan's address is here given in full and every business man is advised to read it with the utmost care and to study it minutely.

Mr. Vaughan's Speech
Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen: The doctrine I put all your eggs in one nest and hatch them has nurtured and developed the greatest industries of this nation.

Today its the required talent demanded by big interests. In the realm of humanity you find both the alert and passive mind—thinkers and drones—with an A. B. degree while many park benches in cities are filled with college graduates who in the words of Mark Twain, know everything but how to apply it.

In this ocean of men there is the occasional David flumen genius as well as an abundance of mental barrenness in the field of labor and tenacity.

These super intellects of activity of whatever vocation in the silence of their genius and effort are building the bulwarks of success. They represent the smaller percentage of the population. In their field of specializing and concentration they may have a limited association with those of their craft but our brother in the other calling is unnoticed.

In the whirl of modern progress that has been brought about by the genius of the race and the wants of man, there comes that sociality—the intermingling kind—which gives the kaleidoscope vision but usurping the power of thought. This response to the call of amusement may relax from toll but denotes meditation—the growth of soul—the force of intellect—the birth of interest in humanity. Assembling together is a good. But there is a difference between sociality and interest—one cultivated the other real.

Then there is the change from that of our fathers. Fifty years back we gathered inspiration from conventions our political viewpoint from joint debates religious fervor from campmeetings, thinking from the associations with nature.

Today amidst the modern railroad suburban lines wireless communication phones upon every farm good roads rural delivery a fashion book in every home and the flood of print submerging all we listen with less interest to the statement of others. And that man is called a fool who endeavors to force the splinters of his view point upon another.

Either in the intensity of hatching our own concentration oblivious to all else—or that sociality that supercedes mental vigor causes both classes (the 5 and 96 per cent) to overlook and neglect man's richest privilege—his interest in man.

Diversity of Crops
So with this condition the infliction of the responsibility of seeking and providing a method for the greater diversity of crops presents a subject extending into science, strategy, and pedagogy. The speaker may not be able to dig up a discourse that does not present a thought leading to an inspiration that will enact is a failure. Therefore inviting one to a discussion out of his line brings up the dangerous likelihood of setting big effort and little fact.

Very recently an appreciable customer said to me, "I don't believe at all this blank rot about all this corn being made on an acre and boys getting more than a hundred bushels. It's gotten up for some smooth purpose to fool the farmers." He is a citizen.

(Written Especially for the Convention Firing Line)

After all has been said the one word efficiency expresses more in merchandising than a whole book.

It means economy of time and space the accurate and profitable directing of all energy available. The elimination of lost motion and the smooth quiet operation of business like the soft purr of a well balanced engine generating and delivering immense power without a skip and noiseless. This is no idle figure of speech. There are merchants who seemingly are never busy never rushed who have time to greet a salesman or a customer and serve each with utmost thoroughness whose stock of merchandise is spotless no odds and ends no dust on counters a small sales force well trained to see constantly that which needs to be done now and not put off. The idle dollars tied up in merchandise lying season after season in obscure corners under counters on high shelves and in drawers represent 'energy' forced out of service. The only force evident is that silent insidious ruinous force added in interest on each dollar's worth—tick tack tick tack as the clock ticks in interest is added daily. A little more most accumulated a little more out of style less useful each day.

Merchants let efficiency be your motto. Print the word in big letters on a sign in your store study the word's meaning and be efficient yourself. Then explain its wonderful meaning to all your employees. Teach your customers and you can accomplish it and make your way far easier. If ever you go to Griffin, Ga., visit the store of Thomas J. White, pause at the entrance look about you, note the floor—clean the stock, new and in order. The boxes fresh and unstained the glass cases spotless.

This is not a brand new store. For years Mr. White has been in business there. As you enter you are met by Mr. White or his salesman. Politely you are greeted carefully you are served. Note the dress of these men—clean and neat nothing loud or noisy—only quiet smooth well arranged. The cases the racks the shelves the floor the ceiling the merchandise and the men all fit into each other harmoniously not a discord. You know you are in a place of business and feel like trading. Why? No lost motion but efficiency.

SOME 'CUE ARTIST

JAMES R. LITTLE
When it is said that Jim Little will have charge of the barbecue at Ponce de Leon during the merchants convention it is absolutely a case of ful sed. Everybody knows what the result is going to be when he takes care of a big barbecue. It is invariably a good time for all and an entirely satisfied crowd.

J. G. Addy the popular M. C. Kiser company salesman is sending out a neat card to his friends announcing that he will be at home at the home office, 17 East Hunter street for the convention.

C. F. Ralley representing the Lynchburg Shoe company is in the city with his line of sample and states that he is expecting a big fall business.

BIG RECEPTION AT DRIVING CLUB

Car Ride Over City Precedes One of Convention's Popular Events—Piedmont Driving Club Will Be Crowded.

At 3 p. m. today the visiting merchants will be tendered a car ride over the city which will wind up at 5 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club where there is to be a big reception. The reception at the club last year proved to be one of the most popular features of the entertainment. Every man was made to feel entirely at home, and expressed himself as delighted with the whole affair. It is expected that there will not be a single delegate missing this evening.

It is these social gatherings which bring the various merchants in closer touch with the Atlanta business men, the salesmen and themselves. While the morning meetings in the Auditorium are the most important feature of the entire convention and the one thing which will benefit each merchant most individually in that he will learn from him and his business nevertheless the closer touch into which the gathering is drawn through these receptions barbecues etc. tends to draw all more closely together and to bring about that feeling of mutual good will and the spirit of working in unity which is so earnestly desired by all those who have thought about the deeper meaning of the convention.

LOTS OF FUN.

Laughter Reigns When Salesmen and Merchants Meet

Who said that buying goods was a dreary job? The asperation was also lately refuted yesterday when a trip was made around the various wholesale houses. Each one was filled with merchants buying goods and salesmen selling them. And above the sound of pencils scratching on paper and the rattling of handled samples rose loud and clear the carefree laugh and the super-truthful tones of the fish yarn spinner.

When salesmen and merchants get together there are some dandy stories going around and the man who thinks it necessary to scowl when he makes a deal could learn a good lesson watching the wisest merchants of the south buying their goods to their best advantage from the best market for the southern merchant.

Chili Con Carne

of stability and truth. About 35 years of age, with a family. Good for his contracts and that emphasizes much as to character. He lives in Georgia, but is from Missouri. Here it is prudent to say, "The masses move slowly, especially when advice is printed in books."

More than a hundred years ago, thus, after gathering ideas from Hume's essay on the populosness of nations, set about to find out how the ratio of population to substance could affect the future world. The result was appalling. His doctrine of doom reached for fifty years kept the whole of Europe in a state of gloom. His cry was, exhaustion of the soil; the starvation of the world.

A few decades after, von Liebig, one of the greatest scientists of the nineteenth century, whose chemical effort was turned to organic matter, and who perhaps did more for agricultural development than all other chemists, said that "wells were empty, fields were sterile, crops were blighted, and the soil was exhausted."

De Candolle in 1832 declared that the roots of crops deposited an excrement in the soil, but being unable to isolate or more definitely define it, scientists refused to take up and develop the theory.

Less than ten years back, when Sir William Crookes arose before a British convention, with the authority of the greatest scientist of the day, and made the startling statement that the world must cease growing wheat in fifty years because of the exhaustion of the nitrate beds there was consternation again. As the nations of the earth were using the greatest tonnage of nitrates of each powder (to kill men) and the practically new lands of America were absorbing over $100,000,000 annually in commercial fertilizers, the governments caused new surveys of the nitrate beds; our thinkers went back to the doctrine of Malthus, soil deterioration, with Liebig's mineral tonic showing signs of exhaustion.

But Mr. Frederick Irving Anderson, in the "Farmer of Tomorrow," a most interesting publication, just off the press, backed by no less authorities than Director Milton Whitney, Dr. Frank Cameron, Dr. Oswald Schreiner, Edward G. Shorey and the federal bureau of soils, after a long and exhaustive study of the soil, state that "soils do not wear out."

Now, listen to this statement: "The soil is the one indestructible, immutable asset of the nation. It is the one resource that cannot be exhausted; that cannot be used up; that may be impaired by abuse, but not destroyed."

It is said that China, with her 4,000 years of farming, supporting a population vastly larger than us, and a per acre density out of all comparison, has not exhausted her soil. The question is, "Is the fatigue in the soil a poison, just as fatigue in man or animal is poison and produces a toxin?" It is answered by this fact, that after single cropping this complex compound has been found and isolated, and when injected into any soil renders that soil unproductive. This acid has been known to science for some years, as it is termed by the scientists, "produced in the soils and caused them to be infertile is a distinct addition to knowledge."

This discovery and the loss of millions for the lack of knowledge and diversify brings me to ask you, a local investigation of this subject, and you who are present, to join me with interest, in approaching with greater force, as to how we may organize to contribute our part in hastening so imperative a necessity.

Without my discussion, diversity is coming. Not by tradition as handed down from generation to generation by the eastern European farmers, which is called the art of farming, but by the modern scientific method in the laboratories and dissecting rooms, through banks, commercial bodies, business men, county fairs, corn clubs, schools and permanent demonstration methods in every county.

If these forces are to be used, and I see now no other, let me urge upon you to go hence upon this impoverished subject, being conscious of the fact, as business men, if you wish to make the average farmer turn up his nose just tell him how to farm. Your efforts must be unselfish—an interest in man-which is the only great economic interest to your county and state. But first of all, you, with the so-called instructors, must know what you are talking about. When a great deal of knowledge covers the ignorance of the subject there is danger and boomerang at the meeting.

Land Capacity Not Tested. The adding of acre to acre and scratching it is not farming, but speculation. Planting the same staple crops in abundance to our overworked capacity is not farming. The great majority of the wealth of the landowner today is from that increase of land values, and higher-priced farm products, not farming. His confidence in ultimate higher values for the soil absorbs there every meaning and very often a liberal credit, leaving no income figured for deeper preparation or modern methods. In truth, "the capacity of our lands now under cultivation has never been tested."

"Catch the farmer when he is young," says Mr. Bolton Hall. The future of tillage lies with the boys. So, seeking a knowledge for the business interest and an organized method of education has never been tested.

Why should not every rural and village school have at least ten acres of ground, not to play upon, but to work in. Establishing there the complete outfit for home instructing the child in the higher standards of the arrangement and keeping of the farm houses and machinery as well as modern, practical farming? The system of education that does not begin the child in its early years with practical lessons and associations with the soil and plants is incomplete. Every year much is said and printed about public schools, the pay of teachers, and even an occasional hint at compulsory education, being much along the parallels of the years before. But if the German youth must sacrifice of his precious time a number of years for army service in order that a nation preserved, why should not each American boy—the Georgia youth at least—be compelled, however rich or poor, to serve a period in the army of nature and the productions from the soil, under experts who follow not the path of tradition, but science? Why not enter more freely into the research of vocational education for the very reason as now stated by some who have guided the destiny of young men, have realized that there is danger in a land that suffers from over-education and crowding the professions?

And in the instruction of this child in his practical school, (or any other) teach him the essentials of systematic saving, not in trunks or mattresses, but through the first avenue to business—banks—and you create a thinker.

Lend your interest and assistance to school fairs, boys' clubs and the canning industries.

While you teach the child, you must show the man. Demonstrate a practicality and you secure followers.

Find some soft spot—some hidden crack—an adroit method—in all an inoffensive way to bring before the farmer knowledge, demonstration and practical results that a taste to his appreciation may arouse his interest. Do not tell him how to farm.

Value of Demonstration. Next to organization and your effort your greatest adjunct is the demonstration to be found in nearly every county. A few are very valuable, but the majority are not. The authority having the appointing power certainly cannot know the character, energy and fitness of all the many applicants. Therefore, some non-political organization of economic interest, of which we are discussing, should nominate at least. The requirements of a demonstrator should be scientific—a graduate from some reliable agricultural college of undoubted integrity, possessing energy, broad experience and endowed with the priceless attribute of knowing how to impart.

Appointments to pay political debts; favors by position to erect a political following, is the curse of government. The authority that considers only merit without affiliation is the ideal, but seldom is. The complaint of inefficiency and poor work done by some of these demonstrators there should be an effort to conserve more faithfully the expenditures therefor. But it is so easy in all legislative and philanthropic bodies to move and effect the distribution of the money you didn't make! When in truth it requires brains and demands an interest. Here let me urge you not to censure our governor and legislature for cutting down appropriations, but to demand that they should be paid in, and they should be praised.

Abandon the one-year lease which is becoming a curse towards a tendency of non-interest in rural civic betterment, and you assist in the changing of drifting popular fancy to a more permanent basis of schools, churches and diversity. This no doubt is your most difficult problem. The Master said: "You have the poor always with you." Dr. Felix Adler uttered "There is no hope for the poor," while President Cleveland exclaimed: "Charity is responsible for their apparent contented dependence, which is the thief of self-respect," referring, of course, to metropolitan conditions largely. However, this not a barren task, for farm efficiency and diversity, the best range of observational education.

Encourage the help in the ownership of smaller farm units, and you begin diversity. The average farmer does not usually notice how much he raises per acre. He owns or leases plenty of land, and the question is, how many acres can be packed. Credit on Diversity. Extend credit upon diversity and not upon the bulk of one possibility. Here Mr. Merchant and Banker is to blame for doing business the old way. I suggested that to one of our very successful planters last week, "What is your plan to do," he said, "to make these tenants diversify." But when I began to analyze his farm, asking how many mules (25), number of tenants, their condition, and if he did no credit there and on the side, "They would have to work for daily wages," and then he abandoned the subject as too deep, leaving me without a scintilla of information beyond corn from his farm. Another said: "Go on and talk all you want to, and I'll plant all the cotton I please." These men are the best landowners in my county, making money, but foolish over the ignorance of book farming.

The vital economic fact that so seriously concerns the individual, state and nation, statistics, is dry rot to the average citizen. The by-product of loss twenty years ago, of the millionaires of the South, is the millionaires of today. I dare say, one farmer in a hundred has not run his research into the loss to this nation by the cattle that was slain in 1912, and that there was an average weight of one hundred pounds of beef that those slaughtered in 1911, aggregating a loss of over forty million dollars, that the killing of over eight million calves each year is a loss of nearly five billion pounds of beef, or that the rapid decline in the number of cattle upon the farm, offers the most flattering prospects for him who takes cattle raising as a part of his diversity.

Today the landlord in a general sense is not attracted or practically interested in this matter. He farms like pa did, or plants corn and cotton because his neighbor does.

Agriculture has been neglected as a profession and it is said "that there is very little systematic farming in the United States." Therefore, the tenant who looks to the possessor of the land as an ideal, spends his entire expenditure in the day, and the farmer, that never knows what the soil is doing, or can be made to perform. Chambers of commerce, boards of trade have spent their best effort to secure conventions, land offices, or direct some national project their way, with practically no effort exercised towards a study of giving assistance to the natural resources and raising the standard of efficiency of the agricultural interests of its county. Multiple a position and add to 500 per cent in the farm yield, and isn't it better, or at least equal, to a few factories? Now, I am not decrying industrial advancement, but just lamenting that all the organized commercial ginger overlooks the possibility of the acre, and the man that ought to be upon it. "One of the first objects is to train men to take a piece of land and cultivate it the right way—demonstrating what an acre can do. The mental horizon of most men does not radiate to the vision of even a farm. Big scale farming is not proportionately prospering. Producing an abundance of one or two staple crops, lets in too much buying, defests economy in the home and launches the child on a sea of dependence upon other sources than the farm.

It's a common saying "that the southern farmer spends his life fighting grass to make cotton to buy hay." The northern brother is no less excused in his complaint that "these pesky briars" he has to cut out of his fields to plant corn to net $15 per acre, when these raspberry bushes would make the same acre net $500. This retrograde us with the alfalfa disease of the last five years, and the many conclusions "it won't grow in this country," when, in fact, it grows abundantly and profitably as the result of knowing how and fixing for it. County fairs create rivalry which adds abundantly to a county's wealth. A few counties are preparing to make a record showing this fall. Organize one or two county we have three farmers' clubs, limited to a membership of twelve to fifteen, and composed of our highest type of citizens. They assemble once a month at the homes of one or other for discussion of farm methods, talks from visitors who might be invited and enjoying, through their stop-overs, the hospitality of their host. We business men delight to be honored as their guest. While I am no critic of the social features and elaborate repasts seem to have deprived and driven away many valuable discussions. I asked once at one of these meetings "if a given acre would produce a certain yield, how much deeper would you plow and to what extent would your fertilizer increased to double that yield?" It might have been a foolish question, as it elicited no answer. My interest was to know if those who would establish and maintain a testing plant for the industry, together with a demonstration center, leaving possibly a profit thereafter.

Therefore, facts as to what has and is being done by the intensive method of others, must be presented with vigor, persistent, patience, that the uninterested and unlearned individual may catch in your essay, booklet or the headline of your effort that vital suggestion which will arouse attention by your 10 or 18-point type thunder.

Pursue Best Method. Determine the best method and pursue it. Just as the ad man convinces by plain simplicity, merit, need and price, brief but boldly told, so your effort should be impregnated with living, vital facts, causing men to ask questions, seeking to know the success of others. To bring about diversity you not only need the organized business interest with landlords, but the press, as I have intimated, and your weekly effort must create a hunger for it. Printers ink pays if we use it. The simple, brief story, and a few facts as to the man who made 257 bushels of corn per acre; the three bales of cotton production, instead of one-half; four tons of alfalfa hay; $1,000 worth of strawberries per acre; $5,000 in hogs from a Georgia farm; $11,000 not cleared on thirty-three acres of cotton; the worn-out land of the New England states now raising her average wheat yield to twenty-five bushels per acre; the nation's average acreage gone down to 15.8; the preacher who inherited a 15-acre abandoned farm, now makes it support thirty head of cattle and nets $1,500 annually therefrom, with plenty of others making $300 to $1,000 per acre.

In relating or publishing your facts to stimulate and encourage, you must be prudent to appreciate that some are astonishingly alarming, and you will have to exercise the caution of the Irish girl. After landing in this country and taking a permanent place, she wished to write home, asking her good landlady for help. As she dictated to her landlady, "O! get meat for dinner once each week." "Why, Bridget," said the landlady, "you know we have meat every day." "Yes, miss, if I was to tell 'em that they wouldn't believe it at all, at all." So know what you are doing and don't get tired of effort, nor loose the faith established by many who have succeeded in spite of gloom.

The tenant is in ignorance, the landlord needs conversion, the merchant is not posted, so this leaves the banker in the favored attitude to meet the condition of advancing the millennium of diversity.

Without jest, the family physician shares the sacred secrets of the home. So does the banker become the priest to who we confess our business and commercial confidence. The landlord is an overseer of tenants; the merchant in the advance of the finished product, compelled to detail the hidden efficiency; the banker enters a conservative silence as soon as he changes from another vocation to that of keeping and investing men's money. He has the ear of the public more than all others. Why not go further, and therefore above all others, needed in the councils of instruction in diversity.

I have for years maintained that the small town and country banker occupies the most favored pinnacle for the development of his country's condition, and I believe he is doing less in proportion to his opportunities than all other men. Of course, there are some exceptions. Breathing the confidence of the community he ought to share a higher purpose than soliciting deposits, studying credits and making loans which is essential to dividend requirements. A study and interest in every possible increase, the gathering of data thereto, the spending of some means and force to develop and elevate the possibility of every creation of wealth, with a fixed plan of instruction to the child in the rural schools or settlements, and centered in that which will produce wealth and provide customers 2, 5, 10 and even 20 years hence, is a duty the banker owes to his community. Nothing less, Commerce of course must be protected, but it's more able to care for self. The broadening scope of a banker's influence in his field of labor brings a solidity of confidence and strength that will accrue to his bank, as well as to his personal remuneration.

So with these intimations, Mr. Chairman, it's organization by the commercial banker for an education to the child, patience and care with the tenant and demonstration and publicity for the landlord.

And as we find our efforts meeting her reward, may we hope to share and feel the sentiment as expressed by Governor Hearst: "I cannot bear to go to my grave until I see imparted to my nation the spirit that will make agriculture not only the support of men's bodies, but an inspiration to their intellects."

HOW A CAT HELPED TO MAKE PIANOS

In spite of the warnings of history we are rapidly dividing mankind into a staff of mental workers and an army of purely physical workers. The physical workers are becoming more and more automatic with the sure result that their minds are becoming more and more inactive.

It should be noted that where this work is done under conditions which interfere with their work, the rating is much higher than where such is not the case. When we walk our habit casts control the action but we can walk and think at the same time.

These employees were the most discontented in the firm and were constantly shifting to other occupations. Various means—such as rest rooms and decorated surroundings—were tried without success.

When girls left this firm and went elsewhere where there was no cat they quickly returned. Production increased and peace reigned. The commercializing of a woman's home instinct for a cat probably energized the work 10 per cent.

A B Sommers a dry goods merchant from Conyers Ga. was one of the prominent visitors who registered Tuesday. Mr. Sommers has been coming to Atlanta on his buying trips for some time and stated that he wouldn't miss a convention for anything.

AN AGE OF SPECIALIZING

The tendency of modern thought and business methods is to specialize, and thus get the benefit of concentrated brain power, that cannot be obtained in a general distribution of thought over many lines.

A Surgeon does not treat medical cases, an Oculist does not operate for appendicitis, but each concentrates on his particular line, and the results are shown in the marvelous strides in knowledge in this generation, when compared with any and all others.

SO IN BUSINESS

A man concentrates his attention and ability on one line, and becomes an expert, accomplishes things that were not considered possible in the old days of generalization.

And in this you find the reason that Floyd, Lehman & Co., whose Wholesale Notion House is located at 62-64 West Mitchell St. and who have a sample room, 106 Kimball House, are pleasing their trade so highly.

They are specializing on Notions, which includes White Goods, Linens, Hosiery and Furnishing Goods, and are doing it well.

Visiting merchants will find it interesting to look over this line.

PHONE GIRL STRIKERS CALL ON LEGISLATURE
St. Louis, August 6.—The strike investigation committee of the lower branch of the municipal assembly was again called on tonight to act in the local telephone strike, a settlement of which was announced by Bell Telephone company officials and labor leaders yesterday.
Edward Wood, secretary of the executive board of the local electrical workers' union, in asking a conference with the house committee, declared the telephone company was making unfair discrimination in taking back striking telephone operators.
General Manager Hiss of the telephone company, said tonight he would welcome an investigation. He said he would keep all his promises to the girls, but it would take a week to arrange for their return.
A committee of telephone girls and three of the striking maintenance men in joint conference with local No. 1, of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers tonight approved of the settlement arranged by the latter body yesterday.

NABBED FOR LEAVING WIFE AND BOARD BILL
Eufaula, Ala., August 6.—(Special.) Walter Johnson, alias Walter Clayton, was taken into custody today at Albany, Ga., by Deputy Sheriff Will Teal of this county, on warrants charging him with wife desertion and slugging a board bill in Clayton, this county.
According to the officer's statement, Johnson spent a month in Clayton, working as a painter, and during that time married Miss Lena Culpepper, sister-in-law of Circuit Court Clerk Cox. Two weeks later he deserted his bride of a fortnight, jumped a month's hotel bill, came to Eufaula and had not been heard of until a few days ago, when the Barbour county authorities located him at Albany. According to Sheriff Teal, Johnson has been married several times previously and has deserted all his wives.

FIRE DESTROYS SMITHY STRUCK BY LIGHTNING
Woodstock, Ga., August 6.—(Special.) From 8 o'clock until 10 last night, during the worst electric storm ever witnessed here, lightning struck J. T. Wright's blacksmith shop and corn mill building setting it on fire. It was burned to the ground during a heavy rain. J. M. Dobb's undertaking establishment was in the same building and all of his funeral supplies were destroyed. Neither of the men carried any insurance. The loss is estimated at $2,500.

MRS. HEARD AND SON BURIED AT VIENNA
Vienna, Ga., August 6.—(Special.)—Mrs. Julius P. Heard, Jr. and her little son, Linden, killed yesterday when their automobile was struck by a train on a crossing near McDonough, were buried here this afternoon, following funeral services at the Vienna Baptist church. An immense crowd from this and other counties was in attendance.

Girl Hit by Auto.
A small girl was run down by an automobile driven by Lewis Carhart on Whitehall street near Hunter street Wednesday morning. The girl refused to give her name, after being taken to a nearby drug store, where it was found that her injuries were not serious, and no arrests were made.

Primary at Dawson.
Dawson, Ga., August 6.—(Special.)—At a municipal primary held here today for three aldermen, the following well-known citizens were elected without opposition: S. A. Brim, J. S. Lowry and J. D. Weaver.

Gonzales Reaches Havana.
Havana, August 6.—William R. Gonzales, of Columbia, S. C., the new American minister to Cuba, arrived here today and was greeted by many Cuban officials and the staff of the legation. Mr. Gonzales will probably present his credentials to President Manócal next Friday.

WOMEN JURORS BARRED IN "WHITE SLAVE" CASE
San Francisco, August 6.—Maury I. Diggs, the young Sacramento architect whose elopement to Reno, Nev., with Miss Martha Warrington in company with Drew Caminetti and Lolla Norris, precipitated a nation-wide scandal, sat behind his attorneys in the United States district court today in his usual faultless attire facing the charge of violating the Mann white slave act.
When court opened eleven jurors, mostly men with grown boys and girls temporarily passed yesterday, were in the box. None of the defense's ten demurrer challenges had been exercised.
Drew Caminetti also sat with Diggs and the attorneys who are conducting the defense.
No Women Jurors Wanted.
Among the scores of spectators yesterday there were only three women. It developed after the United States marshal had called loudly through the corridors for "B. E. Donaldson" and "N. J. Abbott" that the two missing veniremen were women.
"It is just as well," said Judge Van Fleet. "No women would be accepted as jurors in this court."
It was rumored in the courtroom today that the wives of Diggs and Caminetti would sit beside them when the taking of testimony begins.
Attorneys for both sides inquired particularly into the family life of the veniremen yesterday, the unfailing questions being:
"Are you married?"
"Have you many children have you?"
"How old are they?" and "Are they boys or girls?"
The courtroom was crowded to capacity. Only four women were among the spectators. Judge Van Fleet forbade photographs to be taken in court.
Speedy Trial Likely.
When court adjourned it seemed certain that a jury would be empaneled tomorrow and attorneys are predicting that all the evidence would be in by Friday evening.
Eleven men were in the box, but the first venire had been exhausted, and it was necessary to send out a call for a special venire of twenty talesmen.
Just before the venire was exhausted Matt I. Sullivan announced that the government was satisfied with the twelve men then in the box, and would "raise no further challenges, but the defense is interposed. It is the government and it became necessary to adjourn court while the call for another venire was out.
Thus far there has been no indication in the examination of talesmen of the tactics to be pursued by the defense.

LOBBY "PRODDED" FOES IN CONGRESS

Emery Relates How His Employers Threatened Legislators—Kept Track of Records of Congressmen.

Washington, August 6.—How the National Association of Manufacturers "prodded" members of congress to support legislation the association favored and opposed those who threatened its interests was explained to the house lobby committee today by James A. Emery, general counsel for the association. Emery was the principal witness of the day before the lobby investigators on both sides of the capitol. He began a preliminary statement to the senate committee of the objects and aims of the association, and on the house side he concluded the identification of the two hundred letters called from the organization's file by the committee.

Discussing the political activities of the association, Emery said that the body itself did not engineer congressional campaigns. The association kept track of the records of congressmen, he added, and when the time for their re-election came notified its members in the individual districts and the campaign work was done by the local members.

How Bartholdt Was "Prodded."

A letter written by Emery to F. C. Schwedman, secretary of the president of the National Association of Manufacturers in 1910, is quoted as showing the fact that Congressman Bartholdt was very "effectually prodded from St. Louis" in connection with a vote on proposition to exempt labor unions from prosecution under the Sherman law.

Emery, in a letter to Schwedman, said: "I am glad to say that your man Bartholdt was very effectually prodded from St. Louis because he came to us and said that he would not only personally vote, but that he would do his best to get some other votes. I don't think he relished it, but he stood there and voted like a little man."

Members of the committee conducted a rather lengthy examination to determine just what method of "prodding" was employed by the association. The witness explained that letters and telegrams were started from the headquarters of the congressman sought to be influenced by communicating with the members of the association in the congressman's district.

Vigorous Protest Wanted.

As an instance of this sort of activity, Emery introduced a telegram sent by Emery during the fight against this same labor union proposition in 1910, to A. V. Williams, of the Minnesota Employers' association. In St. Paul, which urged him to "please give us a vigorous protest by wire as possible to Congressmen Davis, Nelson, Stearnson, Miller, of your state. All are supporting Hughes' amendment preventing enforcement of the Sherman law against labor organizations."

Activities in relation to the Hughes amendment, the investigation of the Taylor shop management system by the house labor committee, the bill to allow the formation of unions by employees and various other legislative propositions as well as the interest of the association in the presidential platforms in 1912, were outlined in the letters presented today.

F. C. Schwedman, former Representative from Massachusetts, now senator from Massachusetts; Henry W. Towns, of a New York manufacturing firm, and others figured in the documents. One of the letters disclosed that Representative Williams characterized the "everlasting and eternal war" between the National Association of Manufacturers and the National Civic Federation. In a letter dated January 27, 1910, Mr. Schwedman wrote to John Kirby, president of the National Association of Manufacturers:

"May the continuation of your campaign bring about the thing which is most desirable at the present time in our economic situation, that is the downfall of the civic federation."

WORLD PRAISES LIVING MORE THAN DEAD NOW

More People Visit the Grave of Pasteur Than That of Napoleon, Says Witham.

"The man who lives for his country and not the man who dies for it is getting the praise and admiration of the world," declared W. S. Witham, Atlanta banker and churchman in an address on "Impressions of Zurich" at the Wesley Memorial church last night.

Mr. Witham attended the world's Sunday school convention as a delegate of which there were 2,500 representing 30,000,000 people in every section of the United States. He spoke interestingly of his tour through England and Germany.

"The convention was the echo of God's everlasting love," he said. "It was a wonderful gathering of men of the world. It took two years to plan the program. I found big men at the convention—not altogether bishops and churchmen—but big men in business. There were two members of parliament, two lords and representatives of various nations."

Mr. Witham made the assertion that more people pay tribute at the grave of Pasteur than at the grave of Napoleon. He referred to Emperor Wilhelm as a Christian, and declared that he is taking the gift of God. Mr. Witham declared that in Hamburg and Berlin it seemed as though everyone was rich.

In London, he said, there appear to be but two people—King George and Lord Broughton. Mr. Witham told a number of interesting incidents which came under his observation in the foggy city.

NO SECTIONALISM IN COTTON RATES

Southern Senators Resent the Charge by Lippitt About Tariff Revision—H. Smith Makes Vehement Denial.

Washington, August 6.—Senator Lippitt, of Rhode Island, aroused democratic leaders of the senate to spirited replies today when, discussing the cotton schedule, he charged that discrimination against England in favor of the south, and that it was haphazardly prepared.

Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, vehemently denied the charge of sectionalism, declaring that the tariff schedule was prepared by the finance committee. He called attention to the fact that the sub-committee which considered the cotton schedule was composed of Senator Johnson, of Maine; Senator Hughes, of New Jersey, and himself. Senator Stone, of Missouri, referring to Senator Lippitt as a cotton manufacturer, remarked that the time had passed when representatives of the interest could write the tariff laws.

"Before the distinguished senator from Rhode Island greeted this body with his official presence," said Senator Stone, "he was before the committee of the house and senate representing this very industry in the credit of the legislation of the past that the representatives of the cotton, wool and steel and other interests were permitted by the committees of congress, actually to prepare the tariff schedules."

Entering Upon Different Era.

"We are entering upon a different era. We desire, as far as possible, to subserve the well being of the manufacturers, but the fact must be recognized that we have none by the tariff when the interest can prepare their schedules. Doing that in the past has produced an economic condition in which the business of the country has been placed in the hands of these monopolists. Because of it the American people have just elected an election entered their vigorous protests."

"Assaults made upon this bill along that line, superfluous, contemptuous, will have no effect in deterring us or in changing the fixed purpose to make a tariff in the interest of American people."

Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, asked Senator Stone to name some of the monopolies referred to. "Perhaps," Senator Stone replied, "the senator would like me to mention the steel industry, the wool industry of the cotton mills of New England, whose stocks have sold at 200 or 300 per cent because of the enormous profits under the operation of these outrageous tariffs."

"There is no monopoly in the cotton industry, the senator knows," said Mr. Weeks. "If not monopoly, exploitation," Senator Williams, of Mississippi, suggested.

Lippitt on Hoke Smith.

"So far as the cotton schedule is concerned, it was made by southerners," said Senator Lippitt. "I say it in no disrespect and in no criticism of individuals. I know that Senator Smith, of Georgia, who took a prominent part in the subcommittee deliberations gave it his very best consideration, but no man can come out of the training of the law, where he has never been accustomed to dealing with these mercantile questions, and in a few weeks become an expert maker of tariffs."

"I do believe that in the consideration of these schedules the gentlemen of the south have had the ear of the committee and the result is shown in the bill with the products of the south protected. I think they ought to be protected, but I also think some consideration should be given to the luxuries of the cotton trade made in New England."

No Enormous Profits.

Fifteen per cent duty for article fabrics of the northern cotton mills, Senator Lippitt asserted, was prohibitive. The textile schedules of the bill he said, were the result of incomplete mastery of the subject. The senator denied that the textile industries of the country were enormously profitable. He said there was scarcely a mill in New England whose stock could not be bought on a basis materially less than its reproduction cost.

Senator Lippitt proposed as a substitute for the cotton schedule the rates of the Dingley bill. He said that this schedule would leave the average duties of 30.4 per cent, against the rates in the pending bill ranging from 7.1 to 30 per cent.

Further progress in consideration of the bill was made today, the metal schedule being practically completed.

TAX EQUALIZATION BILL IS PREPARED

determine upon a third man, the governor of the state is called upon to appoint the third member from some county in the state, which is not affected by the returns.

The county boards are to consist of three members and will be a real effective board without jokers. The board is to see that all property is given in at its real value and is given more power than the board provided for in the Sheppard substitute in order that it may see that this is done.

Find Unretraced Property.

These boards are authorized to employ an agent to help them to round up or discover unreturned property and for whatever unreturned property is discovered by said agent he receive a commission of what he collects. In all cases it will be the financial interest of the agents to discover unretraced property.

This morning the substitute will be sent to the state printer and the committee will probably meet again in order to perfect the measure and place of official "do pass" recommendation upon it. There is little doubt of the senate standing by its committee.

Sixteen Men Overcome.

Meanwhile an alarm was spread through the tunnel and 400 laborers made a frantic rush for the shaft, where they fought for places in the lift.

KILLED WIFE'S AFFINITY; IS ACQUITTED BY JURY

Lathrop George, Who Shot McClellan in Wife's Bedroom, Pleads Self-Defense.

Savannah, Ga., August 6.—(Special.)—Lathrop George, charged with the murder of Henry McClellan, whom he claimed had raped his home, was declared not guilty tonight in the superior court.

Repeating his former statement that he deliberately went to his wife's home to kill McClellan because he had raped his home, George undertook to make out a case of justification. He pleaded self-defense, declaring he had no idea McClellan was at the house when he went there.

The killing occurred about a month ago. From statements George made at the time it was presumed he would base his defense solely on the unwritten law. George, who has been separated from his wife some time, went to his former home and found McClellan in his wife's bedroom, where the fatal shots were fired. The wife was in the back yard.

George admitted on the witness stand that he fell strongly against the other man for the great wrong he had done him, but claimed he had no thought of murder and would not have fired at McClellan if the latter had not cursed him and advanced threateningly. A large number of witnesses were examined. The case has attracted a great deal of attention in Savannah.

NO ARRESTS ARE MADE FOR TRAIN ROBBERY

Birmingham, Ala., August 6.—No arrests were made by the many special agents, detectives, postoffice inspectors, policemen, deputy sheriffs and others working on the robbery by two well-masked men last night of the mail car on northbound fast passenger train No. 4 on the Louisville and Nashville railroad.

Two of the clerks who were on the car robbed have been brought back to Birmingham to give all assistance in the capturing of the men and identifying any suspects that might be taken in. Detectives believe that the robbers are men with Birmingham or have headquarters here. No statement is made as to how much money the robbers got away with, though it is believed the sum was small.

Detectives appear confident that the robbers were acquainted with the train and mail car operations and knew the fact no stops of the train between Calera and Birmingham, and also how to stop the train from inside the car.

Postoffice Inspector Pills authorized a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the two men who robbed the Louisville and Nashville railroad mail car last night.

DAVENPORT FAVORED FOR AMERICUS OFFICE

Washington, August 6.—(Special.)—Representative Crisp recommended Davenport, brother-in-law of D. F. Davenport, for appointment as postmaster at Americus. The resignation of Frank Mitchell, the present incumbent, has been called for by the postoffice department.

There were several other applications for the place. Henry Mitchell, a brother of the present incumbent, was ruled out because the postoffice inspectors had recommended his demotion to a $1,100 clerkship. A. B. Howard, another candidate, withdrew in favor of Mr. Davenport.

PENSIONS ARE FAVORED FOR EPISCOPAL PRIESTS

New York, August 6.—A pension approximating half pay for every Episcopal clergyman more than 65 years old and financial aid for widows and orphaned children of clergymen are recommended in a preliminary report issued today by the commission on pensions of the Episcopal church of which Bishop Lawrence, of Massachusetts, is chairman.

The pension plan, which has been framed by Menell Sayre, an expert of the Carnegie foundation, after an exhaustive investigation by the commission of every pension system in the world, embraces in its scope the entire body of 5,500 clergymen employed in domestic and foreign fields. A fund of $7,000,000 would be necessary at the start and $600,000 would be expended annually thereafter. The annual obligations would be met, under the plan, by a tax on individual churches approximating 1 per cent of the amounts laid in salaries and scientifically graduated with respect to the ages at which their rectors were ordained.

Los Angeles, Cal., August 6.—As a sequel to the declared intention of United States immigration officials to begin action against Charles Victor Hall, millionaire oil operator of this city, in connection with the alleged illegal residence of Marie Rita Sentans, a Parisian flower girl, it was announced today by Hall's attorney that Hall and Miss Sentans planned to be married before divorcing their whereabouts.

Since the sensational trial of Mrs. Hall's divorce several months ago, in which Miss Sentans, who appeared as Hall's ward, was named by the wife of the oil magnate, government agents have been investigating the status of Miss Sentans' residence in the United States.

Out in the Open

If you are up in your advertisement reading—if you are a close observer of the trend of merchandising methods as set forth daily in the advertisements of this and other good newspapers—if you have lately experienced unusual satisfaction in your shopping and business dealings you doubtless know the underlying principle of fair play that actuates present-day merchandising.

It is the principle of service. It spells satisfaction for the consumer and success for the merchant. People who have something to sell now tell you openly all the interesting facts about their products and their wares. The most direct method used is newspaper advertising, because newspapers now advertise every line of human activity. It is to newspapers that you turn for information. And, consequently, advertisers tell their story out in the open, where it will be sure of a careful reading by interested people.
