It is doubtful if any one opera star who has ever sung in Atlanta has ever been given the tremendous, even spectacular, ovation that was given to Lucrezia Bori, the beautiful Spanish soprano, who sang the role of Antonia in "The Tales of Hoffman," at the matinee performance of grand opera Tuesday.

In years past the greatest ovations have gone to Caruso. The greatest demonstration of admiration ever given Caruso was when the honors were divided between him, Alma Gluck, Dini Gilly and Florence Vicksersham.

MISS BORI FAVORITE HERE.

When Bori sang in Atlanta for the first time two years ago her work was so wonderful that she made herself in every way so very agreeable that Atlanta could not forget. So Tuesday afternoon, after the second act, with the melting strains of the Barcarolle, had ended and the lights were darkened for the third act, in which Bori was to appear, there was a suppressed ripple of applause, anticipating her appearance.

During the act an unexpected thing happened which gave Atlanta a very beautiful and vivid picture of a great Spanish singer. Outside a thunder storm had come up out of the southwest. Suddenly there was a flash of lightning and the lights went out. The music had to stop and all was in darkness. A masterstroke of impetuous some one back of the scenes to throw a spot light upon Bori. The applause which followed rivaled the thunder outside. Bori smiled and bowed her appreciation.

THOUSANDS CRIED, "BORI!"

The applause brought forth the entire ensemble of stars. The audience gave them the demonstration of approval but they wanted Bori all alone. There was applause and applause and applause. Each time came Bori, graciously leading one, and another of the stars of the cast with her, but the audience rose to its feet, shouted its approval and waved its warmest welcome to her.

ANNA CASE WINS HONORS.

But not to Miss Bori alone went all the honors of the performance. The remarkable beauty and the clear, birdlike voice of Anna Case as Olympia, but she was not to be forgotten. Her singing was and repeated applause, and in the wings of the stage she was literally smothered with great clusters of roses.

NOT AN EASY BOSS DID PLATT PROVE TO T. ROOSEVELT

The Colonel Decided That Platt Was Far From "Easy" After Being Forced to Do Latter's Will.

PLATT AND ROOSEVELT SPOT IN CONFERENCE

Letters Show That When Roosevelt Was Governor, Vice President and President He Worked With Senator Platt.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 27.—More hitherto unknown chapters of political history were revealed in the supreme court here today when confidential correspondence that passed between Theodore Roosevelt and former United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, "the boss" on the other, was read to the jury.

It was the former president's sixth day on the witness stand in Barnes' $50,000 suit for alleged libel. The colonel identified the letters and wound up the day by claiming as his own the speeches and interviews published in New York newspapers in which he said some things about the men he called "the bosses." The names of Barnes, Murphy, Guggenheim, Cox, Lorimer, Penrose and others were scattered through these articles.

The letters that passed between Colonel Roosevelt and Senator Platt showed that the two continued to consult on friendly terms while the former was governor, vice president and then president. In a telegram sent to Colonel Roosevelt, while he was governor the senator urged the signing of a bill for exempting from the franchise tax grade crossings of the New York Central and Senator DeWop were "anxious."

Pretty Young Nurse Of Atlanta Charges That She Was Doped

Athens Man May Face White-Slave Charge After Complaint of Miss Cora McGhee.

Staggering into a downtown photo studio of a friend about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, apparently in a "doped" condition, pretty Miss Cora McGhee, age 21, a trained nurse, who mysteriously disappeared from the Grant Park General hospital, one week ago, told her friend, T. L. Cox, who has a photo gallery at 13 1/2 Whitehall street, that she had been "doped" by a man with whom she had gone to Tennessee as a nurse-companion.

So deplorable was the young woman's condition, that Cox summoned Mrs. Barr, wife of the superintendent of the Grant Park General hospital, where Miss McGhee had been a patient for some months prior to her strange disappearance, and took the young woman back to the health retreat with her for medical attention.

The young woman charged a well-known Athens, Ga., man with "doping" her. A Miles Bryant, age 47, of Atlanta, who runs a chain of barber shops in the Classic City, was arrested in connection with this case at the Union passenger depot last night at 8:55 o'clock; he attempted to board a Seaboard Air Line train for Athens. Cox pointed him out as the "doper" and Miles was charged with suspicion. He is undergoing a rigid examination by Night Chief of Police E. L. Jeff and appears to be in charge of R. E. Barry, on the charge that he has violated the Mann white slave act.

Several weeks ago Miles McGhee, verified in a local paper for a position as a nurse-companion. Bryant answered her advertisement under the name of "A. Miles," and was mysteriously disappeared. Bryant admitted that he had gone to Knoxville, Tenn., with McGhee.

Platt No Easy Boss. Colonel Roosevelt replied that he had received the telegram "too late" and that anyway he considered the matter was one on which he should take the "advice" of the tax commission unless it could be shown that they

PATRONS AROUSED OVER CONDITIONS IN MANY SCHOOLS

Tenth Street School Committee to Ask Council for $15,000 for Immediate Improvements and End of Double Sessions.

OTHER SCHOOLS FOUND IN HORRIBLE CONDITION

Julian V. Boehm Fixes the Blame on City Government—Charges Criminal Negligence in Not Providing Modern Buildings.

Declaring that Atlanta's school system is the worst in the country, that the city takes in $3,800,000 and spends $3,000,000 in city officials' salaries, and that "for what others pay 50 cents we pay $1," patrons of the Tenth Street school, men prominent in business and financial circles, Tuesday, voted to appear before the finance committee of the city council tomorrow to ask for $15,000 to improve conditions in their ward.

Charles E. Choate, who presided, reported the findings of the committee appointed at the last meeting to make an investigation of the conditions of the Tenth street school. He said that Miss Dunlap, the principal, told him there were fifteen grades in the school with facilities for only eight; that four grades have double sessions—that is, one section goes to school from 8 to 12 o'clock and the other session is from 12:30 to 4 o'clock; that she has given the double sessions a fair trial and that they do not do justice to pupil-parent or teacher. She said there were 150 pupils attending three and one-half hours of the day and 170 attending four hours.

E. L. Rhodes declared that the building had no proper heating facilities and no lights, and Julian V. Boehm declared that during the committee's inspection they found an inch and a half of water on the floor of the girls' toilet.

Ask Council for $15,000. This committee, composed of Fitzhugh Knox, H. A. Maler, Charles E. Choate and Julian V. Boehm, declared that they could not put the Tenth Street school in condition to accommodate

SUDAN SAVAGERY COPIED BY GERMANS, SHOUTS KITCHENER

War Secretary Charges That British Prisoners Have Been Maltreated, Insulted and Even Wantonly Shot to Death.

IT IS HORRIBLE STORY, SAYS PREMIER ASQUITH

One of the Blackest Spots on Even German Methods of War—Premier Declares Reparation Will Be Exact at End of War.

London, April 27.—The British parliament occupied itself today with discussions on the treatment of British war prisoners in Germany. In both houses a unanimous attitude was expressed for efforts the United States has made to ameliorate conditions.

Lord Kitchener's speech in the house of lords, in which he said "the German inhumanity towards British soldiers was the most notable expression of the day. There were, however, equally striking notes in both houses, notably by Lord Lansdowne, opposition leader, and Lord Cromer, who, in the course of the house of lords, that the British admiral had seen fit to segregate captured German submarine crews, and by Premier Asquith in the house of commons, who declared that at the end of the war the British people would exact reparation. No definite course of action, concerning the treatment of prisoners, was agreed on.

American Officials Aid Prisoners. In the house of commons Neil Prime said that American officials had visited sixteen prisoner camps in Germany and that the reports they received had shown improvement in the treatment accorded British prisoners.

Premier Asquith said: "It is a horrible story from every point of view—one of the blackest spots on even German methods of war. My object in rising is to say with all emphasis and all deliberation that we shall not forget, and we ought not to forget this horrible record of calculated cruelty and crime."

"We shall at the end of this war hold it to be our duty to exact such reparation against the German people as it may be possible for us to inflict. I do not think we would be doing our duty either to ourselves or to the plain dictates of humanity, if we should be content with anything less than a total and complete British Prisoners' Shot."

Lord Kitchener told the house of lords that British prisoners had been insulted, maltreated, and even shot down by their German captors. In a statement to the house on this subject he said in part: "I have been forced to accept, as indisputably true, the maltreatment by the German army of British prisoners. The Hague convention has been flagrantly disregarded by German officers. Our prisoners have been in various ways, and in some cases the evidence goes to prove that they have been shot in cold blood. Our officers, even when wounded, have been wantonly insulted and frequently struck."

Lord Kitchener said that as British officers he had always held German officers in respect, but constant testimony that has come in not only from our own escaped prisoners, but from French, Russian, Belgian and American sources, has brought it home to all who have sifted the evidence that the inhumanity displayed by the German authorities toward British prisoners especially, is beyond doubt."

The war secretary quoted articles from conventions adopted at The Hague relating to treatment of war prisoners and asserted they had been flagrantly disregarded by German officers. He said that as British officers he had always held German officers in respect, but constant testimony that has come in not only from our own escaped prisoners, but from French, Russian, Belgian and American sources, has brought it home to all who have sifted the evidence that the inhumanity displayed by the German authorities toward British prisoners especially, is beyond doubt."

The general disembarkation of the allied forces continues under good conditions. Many prisoners have been taken. A joint war office and admiralty statement issued tonight on the Dardanelles operations says: "After days of hard fighting in a difficult country, the troops landed on Gallipoli peninsula are thoroughly effective help of the navy. The British have taken 400 prisoners. The Allied troops have effected a landing on both sides of the Dardanelles under excellent conditions. Many prisoners have been taken. Their forces are continuing their advance."

ALLIES REPULSED ACCORDING TO TURKS.

Constantinople, April 27.—(Via Amsterdam and London)—The Turkish war department today gave out the following official statement: "Under the protection of warships the enemy attempted to land troops Sunday at four points on the west coast of Gallipoli peninsula. The French fleet and under the fire of the enemy troops occupied the village and have continued its occupation, despite seven counter attacks at night supported by heavy artillery. The general disembarkation of the allied forces continues under good conditions. Many prisoners have been taken. Their forces are continuing their advance."

The Turkish official statement respecting the operations declares that although hostile forces were landed at Kum-Kaleh and advanced under the protection of the warships, they were driven back to the coast, several hundred men being killed. The Turkish war office also asserts that the allied forces pushed the troops Sunday at four points on the west coast of Gallipoli, and that one of the landing parties was forced to retreat to the ships.

March On Constantinople Begun By Allied Forces; Kum-Kaleh Is Captured

Large Numbers of British and French Troops Have Landed on Both Sides of the Dardanelles and Are Advancing.

STIFF RESISTANCE BEING MADE BY TURKS TO ADVANCE OF ALLIES

Allied Warships Are Co-operating With the Land Forces—Kum-Kaleh, Which Has Been Occupied by French Troops, Is at Entrance of Dardanelles on Asiatic Side.

London, April 27.—The march on Constantinople has begun, British and French troops, after landing on both sides of the Dardanelles under what are described as "excellent conditions," have taken many prisoners and are continuing their advance.

The British war office and admiralty announced that "the troops landed on Gallipoli peninsula are thoroughly making good their footing with the effective help of the navy."

Paris officially announces the occupation of Kum-Kaleh, on the Asiatic side of the strait, by French infantry and artillery. That the Turks offered desperate resistance to both the landing and occupation, although they were under the guns of French warships, is indicated by the fact that the Allies have seven counter attacks and employed heavy guns.

The number of troops on this expedition, which is in command of General Sir Ian Hamilton, is not known, but it is those already landed last week, forward and strengthening their positions, the disembarkation from the transports still goes on.

The Turkish official statement respecting the operations declares that although hostile forces were landed at Kum-Kaleh and advanced under the protection of the warships, they were driven back to the coast, several hundred men being killed.

The Turkish war office also asserts that the allied forces pushed the troops Sunday at four points on the west coast of Gallipoli, and that one of the landing parties was forced to retreat to the ships.

RUSH OF GERMANS HAS BEEN HALTED AND ALLIES ATTACK

Effort Being Made to Drive the Kaiser's Troops From the Ground Gained in the Vicinity of Ypres.

GAINS ARE REPORTED FOR ALLIED TROOPS

Much Anxiety Is Manifested in London—Some Observers State That the Fate of Calais Still Hangs in the Balance.

London, April 27.—One of the most vital struggles of the war is still in progress on a restricted front stretching northward from Ypres in Belgium.

Contradictory are the official statements concerning the fighting in the vicinity of Ypres. It would appear that the German offensive north of that city, which brought them a gain of nearly three miles, has reached its limit; and that, although the Germans hold most of the ground they gained, the question now is whether they can retain it.

The British troops are now said to have taken the offensive and are striking toward St. Julien, which the Germans captured while the French on the British left not only have pushed the Germans from St. Julien, their new lodgment on the west bank of the canal nearest Calais, but have crossed the canal and hold Het Sas, on the east bank.

The German official communication today which records no progress for the German troops, admits that the British took the offensive toward St. Julien, but insists that the successive attacks broke down.

Some sections of the British press picture the belief that the crisis in the new battle, or series of battles, for the French coast has passed, but others are of the opinion that the end is not in sight.

The fate of Calais still hangs in the balance, says The Evening News. The Germans are not disheartened. They are not starving and they are capable of a great sustained offensive in Flanders.

OFFENSIVE TAKEN BY THE BRITISH.

London, April 27.—The following report from Field Marshal Sir John French, commander of the British forces at the front, under today's date, was given out here today: "Yesterday all German attacks north-east of Ypres were repulsed. In the afternoon our troops took the offensive and made progress near St. Julien and to the west of that place. The French co-operated on our left and further to the north they retook Het Sas. In the course of yesterday's fighting our artillery took full advantage of several opportunities for inflicting severe casualties on the enemy. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report. In addition to the destruction of Courtrai Junction, mentioned in The Communicé last night, our airmen yesterday bombed successfully stations and junctions at the following places: Tourcoing, Roubaix, Ingelmunster, Staden, Leensmarek, Thieit and Roulers."

BELGIANS REPEL GERMAN ATTACKS.

London, April 27.—The following Belgian official report dated April 24, was given out in London today: "Last night our infantry repelled

In addition to gunshot wounds they are suffering their eyes are swollen from the poisonous fumes of the German gas bombs. These men say that as soon as they breathed the noxious gases they suffered from inflamed bronchial tubes and feared acutely their eyes stinging and their throats contracting. Some became unconscious almost immediately. Others scarcely conscious staggered away. The connecting trenches were choked with fugitives who hid their faces in their hands. Many were compelled to climb out and make their way toward the rear over the open ground. As soon as the Germans perceived this they opened up an intense rifle and machine gun fire. It was this fire which caught the wounded brought here today. They were picked up by French reserves who counter-attacking, retook the greater part of the evacuated trenches. The narratives of the wounded differ. Physicians attribute this to the psychological effects of a shell which the Germans threw bombs which on exploding distributed the gases, but the majority speak of having observed a thick lemon-colored smoke arising in front of the German trenches and then hanging close over the earth and propelled by a gentle breeze crept toward the French earthworks scarcely a hundred yards away. The physicians believe so pernicious harm is likely in the case of those who were not stifled to death. Most of the survivors even will recover without treatment, although in some cases pneumonia or bronchitis may follow.

Attached to a Revolver
Concealed Under Cowl's Coat.

Bridgeport, Conn. April 27—Arthur Healan Cowl, of New York died at midnight in a local hospital from a bullet wound in his head. According to the story told to the police by his supposed fiancée Miss Emily Wheeler she played an innocent part in his death.

The police version is that Cowl came from New York today and went to the Wheeler residence in Stratford near here spending the evening with Miss Wheeler. He gave her an engagement ring but before she could say anything he handed her the end of a ribbon. The other end of the ribbon was attached to the trigger of a revolver which Cowl had concealed under his coat.

Miss Wheeler asked what the ribbon was for and Cowl replied that it was a surprise. At his request she pulled the ribbon which caused the revolver to explode and the bullet struck into Cowl's brain.

Miss Wheeler summoned help and Cowl was taken to the hospital. Cowl recently had returned from a trip to Bermuda where he went to recuperate from a nervous break-down.

VAUDEVILLE MANAGERS SUED FOR BIG DAMAGES

New York, April 27—The country's leading vaudeville booking agencies are defendants in two suits for $600,000 damages filed today in the federal court here charging conspiracy in their refusal to book certain attractions offered by the plainiffs.

The suits are brought by Charles F. Fox and the Metropolitan Booking Agency in this city, London and Brussels and Clifford C. Fisher, who has similar offices in London and Paris, against the United Booking Offices of America, the Central Vaudeville Promotion Company, H. B. Mainelli Ltd., Paul Keith, Fred K. F. Pactor, Edward F. Albee, John J. Murdock, Morris Weisfeld, J. and Martin Beck. The petitioners allege that they have suffered damages of $100,000 each, and under the Sherman law seek treble reparation.

It is alleged that since the vaudeville managers have refused to book damage suits brought by the Mainelli company against the United Booking Office, and others, the sole right of license and license to book foreign acts on the Keith or Orpheum circuits has been vested in the Mainelli concern.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with acid. Says a well known authority who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid but become weak from the overwork they are obliged to do. The acid builds up and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system. When your kidneys ache and feel like a lump of lead and you have stinging pains in the back of the spine it is a sure sign that the acid is building up in the blood. If you are full of sediment of the bladder is irritable and you are obliged to urinate at night when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid of mouth, rheumatism, and weather get from you phantoms about four ounces of Salts take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before or after each meal and in a few days your kidneys will get fine. This famous Salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with nitrate and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys to neutralize the acids in urine thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure. It makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little of Salts to keep the kidneys clean and active.

New Japanese Demands
Said to Be More Menacing
Than the Old.

Tokyo, April 25—(3:30 a. m.)—With the new draft of the Japanese demands on China in the hands of the Chinese foreign minister interest is aroused in the nature of the modifications Japan has made to the original document. President Yuan Shi Kai and his advisers have examined the demands as intended but no decision has been reached and they are likely to be the subject of further discussions.

Group one of the original demands has not been altered from the form to which the Chinese government already has agreed. This group relates to Shan Tung province.

The group dealing with South Manchuria to see articles of which China also has agreed remains unchanged. The second article of group three dealing on property rights and interests of the Hanvayung company is eliminated but its first article of that group is to be struck from the Japanese viewpoint requiring that China shall promptly compel shareholders of the Hanvayung company to accept the formation of a joint company, which shall include the two nations.

The Japanese demands have accepted the Chinese proposal regarding group four which provides that the Chinese government shall not of lease to any third power any inland port or harbor (long the coast).

The Chinese government's proposal with respect to group 4 was to the effect that while it was willing to make public declaration that China should never cede or lease a port harbor or inland to another power it would decline to pledge itself to that effect to Japan.

New Proposal More Menacing

The new draft entirely reconstructs group five in a manner which the Chinese representatives declare is more menacing because they say the Chinese demands are more stringent than which Lu Cheng Hsiang, the Chinese foreign minister made in the conferences with the Japanese minister Iki Hiroki and M. Ohtani and which it is alleged the Japanese are attempting to designate as the basis of the final settlement. Further it is declared that the Chinese foreign minister permitted himself to be drawn into a discussion of these demands which Yuan Shi Kai had instructed him to refuse to discuss.

Group five comprises seven articles relating to the employment by the Chinese government of Japanese as advisers in political, financial and military affairs. Opposition of the Chinese police the right of Japanese ownership of land in the building of hospitals, public works and houses, the purchase of minerals of war from Japan, various railways and mining rights as well as the right of the Japanese to propagate Buddhism in China.

At the beginning of the conference the Chinese proposed the taking of final minutes but to this the Japanese representatives declined to accede. As a result both Japanese and Chinese kept records of the various articles to be taken from time to time the Japanese plenipotentiaries it is asserted insist that the Japanese initial certain statements which have been done.

Japan Advisers for China.

With reference to article one of group five Japan equives upon one of China declaring that when the important issues arise the Chinese shall refer to appoint many Japanese advisers. This peculiar wording is the understanding to which the Japanese and Chinese plenipotentiaries committed themselves.

In article two of group five Japan not only requires the right of the Chinese to leave lands in the Chinese territory themselves as being far from satisfied with this, because this article which is a separate clause that relating to Buddhism would have the effect of opening the entire country to the Japanese individually, as well as under religious auspices.

Article three of group five relating to police administration has been withdrawn but the new articles demand appointment of police advisers and also joint Chinese Japanese tribunals for land disputes in Manchuria besides a delegation of military men to Japan to advise on the conduct of China's armaments.

The new draft of article five says that China must grant to Japan the right to place Japanese advisers and subject to Japan reporting an arrangement with an unlimited power to place Japanese advisers in China. These concessions unless it can be shown that they already have been granted to another power, which it says in question are lines connecting Wu Chang with Liu Kiang and Nan Chang between Wu Chang and Hang Chow and between Nan Chang and Chiao Chau.

Veto Power Given Japan

Article six of group five as amended says that China must give Japan a veto power in all matters which shall receive a concession and that no foreign capital shall be employed in the interest of Luken without Japan's consent.

Regarding Buddhism as set forth in article seven the Japanese demand Japan's right to discuss this in future date.

The four articles in the new Manchu group provides that no foreign loans may be secured by Mongolian taxes without Japan's consent, second no railway or telegraph lines shall be opened without Japan's consent third the opening of a number of treaty ports is required, fourth farming privileges to last year.

Japan already has secured concessions for the construction of four rail ways in Manchuria.

When on Monday last Lu Cheng Hsiang received the new draft of the demands he intended to discuss the question with the Japanese minister but M. Hiroki replied that his instructions were to enter into no discussion. Lu Cheng Hsiang asked him to define the limits eastern or inner Mongolia. M. Hiroki declared that he was without instructions on this point.

The tripartite conference composed of Russian, Mongolian and Chinese representatives now about to terminate at Khabarovsk is expected to delineate the limits of outer Mongolia which declared its autonomy and was recognized by Russia during the Chinese revolution.

Scenes of Bewildering Beauty at Piedmont Driving Club When Society of Whole South Mingled With Stars of Opera BALLROOM CONVERTED INTO VERITABLE BOWER OF BEAUTY

A scene of bewildering beauty was presented at the Piedmont Driving club last night when the club's hospitality to opera visitors was expressed in a dinner previous, the largest at which the club has entertained at any time during previous opera festivities. The spring foliage had made canopies of the branches of the trees hanging over the circular side of the terrace, and the boxed evergreens outlining the terrace had placed between them boxes of growing plants showing blooms of all colors. Japanese lanterns hung in festoons from the trees, and between the vine-covered columns of the ballroom porch, while electric lights studied the vines covering the sides of the old stone walls of the club, this part marking the very heart of the club—where, twenty-five years ago, the small, one-story structure, did well in housing a company of one hundred people. Among these people were Presidents Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, on two occasions President Roosevelt, in later days President Taft, and Woodrow Wilson when he was president of Princeton university. Now, on the driveway where the members formerly came in carriages, victorias and tax-cabs, and where Colonel Lowry used to make that famous turn with his coach and four, a wonderful terrace is placed, and it was on this terrace artists and visitors walked between the dances. In the spacious ballroom, the loggia and dining room dinner was served at 8 o'clock and later the tables were removed from the ballroom and the dancing began. An orchestra was provided in the ballroom, and on the terrace. Mr. James H. Nunnally, president of the club, and Mrs. Nunnally, and Mr. Brooks Morgan, vice president, received the guests on their arrival, and dinner began at 8 o'clock. Instead of the usual long table at which formerly the stars of the opera have been entertained, the officers and directors of the club, and the board of directors of the Musical Festival Association, entertained the stars to parties of ten and twelve, this affording the Atlanta hosts and hostesses the pleasure of meeting in a social way the gifted people, now guests of the city. The ballroom was hung with garlands of smilax and above each of the columns defining the sides of the ballroom were wall baskets of pink roses showered with white snap dragons and sprays of spirea. Each table had as centerpiece a basket of pink flowers, roses, carnations and a luxury of sweet peas used. The candlesticks had shades of pink and the symbols of music and opera were expressed in tiny souvenirs at each place. The menu included the delicacies of the season, with fruits as ornate as delicious. The service was without flaw, and the scope and beauty of the entertainment reflected great credit on the club management and the superintendent, Mr. W. E. Richardson.

SAM SMALL TACKLES CONGRESSMAN MEEKER

Worcester, Mass., April 27.—The question of national prohibition impracticable was debated at a dinner of the Worcester Economic club tonight by Congressman-elect Jacob Meeker of Missouri, and Samuel W. Wood of New York, lecturers of the Anti-Saloon league.

Meeker, who opened the debate, said: "My contention is, first, that anything that is not fundamentally right cannot be practically applied to any legislation. It is morally wrong for any individual to sell liquor to a man who is not a friend of his, or which he may keep in his house, or which he may use at the community table in observing the sacrament."

Small answered Meeker's contention that prohibition would violate personal liberty and would confiscate property of the liquor men by declaring that neither he nor any other prohibition advocate wanted to infringe on personal liberty, or desired to confiscate a single stick of the liquor dealer's property.

He championed prohibition on grounds of morality and declared that the thirteenth amendment to the constitution had been proclaimed, so the sale of liquor should not cease until it had been abolished by constitutional amendment.

Small predicted the coming of national prohibition.

a commission the colonel after protesting, agreed to do so and added, "I am not an easy boss."

The colonel, when vice president asked that his friends be "taken care of" by the senator after Colonel Roosevelt was in the cabinet, said the cabinet to be selected by the mayor-elect of New York, Seth Low, was written of.

The name of William Barnes, the colonel admitted, did not appear once in all this correspondence.

The letters between Mr. Barnes and the colonel covered a period between 1906 and 1910. Their tone was friendly and friendly and was almost bordered upon the formal. The appointment of men to office and a review of political events were discussed and the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde elements Colonel Roosevelt considered.

Barnes later in a letter the subject of questions which resulted.

Opposing Lawyers' Claim.

Model broke out between the opposing lawyers several times. The Roosevelt counsel fought against the admission of the letters.

When the colonel was asked about campaign contributions from steel companies, the New Haven railroad, Harvester company, the Steel corporation, the American Powder and Iron company and whether he, as president of the United States, had ordered the attorney to investigate or bring action against the company and competition by the steel corporation, was under discussion when Colonel Roosevelt said:

"New, please stop with that. We will be all summer trying to get it out."

"We may," replied William Ivins, chief counsel for Mr. Barnes, "we did not start this."

"Yes you did," declared Mr. Bowers heatedly.

"Yes you did," returned Mr. Ivins. "Colonel Roosevelt made the first publication."

The belief prevailed here tonight that the cross-examination of the former president would consume time tomorrow. Mr. Barnes was in court again today.

Scarcely all of the Barnes-Roosevelt letters, reading of which was begun at the opening of the afternoon session, had to do with appointments, and were addressed to the white house, or written on white house stationery.

In a letter dated in 1908, Mr. Barnes asked Colonel Roosevelt if he could do anything for a Colonel Hamm, who wanted to be appointed to an office.

"I would do what he could for the man, and that it was delightful having you and Mrs. Barnes."

Roosevelt thanked Barnes.

In another letter dated September 26, 1910, Colonel Roosevelt wrote about appointments of Mr. Barnes. The tenor of all letters was friendly, but in some cases almost formal.

In the next letter Colonel Roosevelt thanked Mr. Barnes for his efforts "in the election." Colonel Roosevelt, in reply to a question by Mr. Ivins, said the election mentioned was that of Governor Alington.

In another letter Colonel Roosevelt said he wished he could attend a dinner to show his appreciation of Mr. Barnes' efforts to make Albany county a banner county for the republican party.

Coming down to 1908, one letter had to do with the appointment of a postmaster.

On May 22, 1908, Colonel Roosevelt wrote Mr. Barnes that he had held up a memorial when he heard State Speaker Watworth was interested. The letter ended:

"Look here! In regard to the last part of your letter, do you think I have gone back into the kindergarten class 1910 the letters written by the colonel began to appear upon the stationery of The Outlook. Colonel Roosevelt, in one letter, invited Barnes to visit him in the magazine office in New York.

"Do you remember," asked Mr. Ivins, "what took place at a meeting in a New York hotel between yourself, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Ward?"

"The Hyde element is Barnes."

"Had you dreamed then that Mr. Barnes had a Mr. Hyde element in him?"

"Wasn't it my testimony that that element was not there?"

"No," asked Colonel Roosevelt.

"Do you remember when Mr. Barnes retired from the state committee?"

"Yes, I remember that."

"Don't you remember he retired when there was a failure to elect Mr. Pringle chairman?"

"I don't know."

"You testified you met Mr. Barnes at the Lincoln dinner in 1912?"

"It was in 1911, was it not?"

"That's what I said."

"Yes, I remember that."

"Now, I want you to read your testimony as marked here. Have you anything to correct or amend?"

"I am not sure he was chairman."

"Is that all?"

Roosevelt Not Sure.

"Yes, in it is all, except as I just told you. Oh, I'm not sure he was not in the official position as leader of the republican party. There is nothing else."

"Now, you testified that if he (Barnes) would act in the spirit shown by Thurlow Weed every one would support him."

"That's right, I think the letter came from Mr. Barnes himself. I'm not sure."

"Isn't it a fact that Mr. Barnes was showing the letter, which was written by Weed to Abraham Lincoln, to a friend when you were both looking at it, saying, 'I'd like to see that?'"

"I don't know. I think I had seen a copy of that letter before. Did I say a letter from Weed to Abraham Lincoln? Maybe it was from Lincoln to Weed. I don't know how it came."

Mr. Ivins produced a photograph of a letter. It was from Lincoln to Weed.

"You told Mr. Barnes you wanted him to be a Weed instead of a Platt, despite your relations with the latter?"

"Yes."

"Did you, while president in 1909, or before, direct the attorney general of the United States to bring a prosecution against the steel corporation?"

"I don't know."

"Did Mr. Pringle, Judge Gary and Mr. Perkins contribute to your campaign?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever instruct the attorney general to bring any action against the New Haven railroad?"

"No, I don't know."

"The evidence was designed to prove that Colonel Roosevelt himself did not favor an alliance between politics and business. The objection was overruled.

Colonel Roosevelt answered the question in the affirmative.

"Did you ever hear of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company?"

"I did."

"Did you approve of the acquisition of the steel corporation of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company?"

"I did."

"Did you ever order an investigation of the American Harvester company?"

"No."

"Was Mr. Perkins in that company?"

"He was."

"Did you ever order an investigation of the American Powder company?"

"I don't know."

"Was T. Coleman Dupont in that company?"

"I don't know."

"Was he a contributor?"

"I don't know. You told me he was."

"Did your relations with Mr. Barnes continue friendly until after February 19, 1912?"

"They did."

"Didn't you have discussions as early as April, 1912?"

"Discussions, yes."

The following letter from Platt to Roosevelt, dated February 6, 1906, then was read:

"I have hardly had time to give the consideration it deserves to your letter of February 1 and the matters involved therein and am inclined to take more time for mature deliberation. The vice presidential question is a very important one and a great deal depends upon it."

"Did you discuss the question in pursuance of that letter?"

"I did."

"In his reply to the letter dated February 7, 1906, Colonel Roosevelt said:

"Your very kind note has just been received. I note that you expect to be in New York on Saturday. If convenient I will call on you at the Fifth Avenue hotel at 3 p. m."

"I saw Mr. Barnes and told him I had written to you that I would not take the vice presidency, but that I wanted nothing said until I had a chance to talk matters over with you. I would a great deal rather be anything but a professor of history than vice president."

CASE

Be guided by this NAME

When you come to buy a car remember that what you see—the mere appearance—is not all to consider. Nor is it wise to be over-impressed by specifications. The things you never can see—the "hidden" values—determine the worth of a car.

So the final, the real, inquiry is, "What about the Company that makes the Car?" Be sure to find out about the Company as well as the Car.

The CASE Company was founded in 1842. For over 70 years it has kept its faith with men all over the world. CASE machinery is acknowledged as a standard by which others are judged. You profit by the ambition of the CASE Company to perpetuate a worthy name.

The CASE Car—remarkably handsome—is built from real specifications. Its viable values are backed by its invisible values. Back of every statement is the word—the bond—of a tried, successful concern.

Depend on Us Hidden Values

By the same reliance upon our word that others have, you can depend on us to put into your CASE Car materials and workmanship not to be found in other cars at this price.

So we can point out to you CASE features found in cars costing much more. It would be well to ask in detail just why we can afford it. The answer is simple.

The parts you never see—really, they are of first importance. Their performance usually goes unnoticed. But should they fail! You can see the genuine leather upholstery, the flash and some parts of the car. But do you know that the transmission gears are made of the proper steel? What about the quality of babbit in the bearings of the crankshaft? In all these questions you are in the hands of the manufacturer. For such our word, for years, has been sufficient.

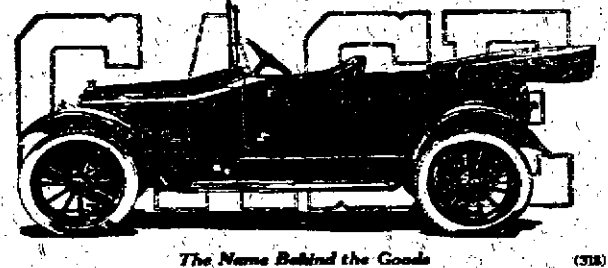

Least in Price

Of the popular priced cars, the CASE Car costs you least, we maintain, because of "extra" accessories which in these cars is regular equipment. Our price is $1350—less 5 per cent if cash—and the CASE Car comes equipped with extra tire and tube on Rim with Tire Cover, Weed Non-Skid Tire Chain and 8-Day Clock. As a business proposition, surely it is unequaled.

Let us have the opportunity here to tell you more about the CASE Car.

"I don't know. I think I had seen a copy of that letter before. Did I say a letter from Weed to Abraham Lincoln? Maybe it was from Lincoln to Weed. I don't know how it came."

Mr. Ivins produced a photograph of a letter. It was from Lincoln to Weed.

Mr. and Mrs. DeGivie Give Pretty Afternoon Party

Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeGivie entertained two hundred guests at a tea-dance yesterday afternoon at their home in Ansley Park. The occasion was marked by a charming hospitality, by the brilliancy of the party assembled, and the beauty and fashion of the ladies who appeared for the first time this season in real garden party attire.

The guests were received on the terrace surrounding the spacious home. With Mr. and Mrs. DeGivie were their guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Henry DeGivie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Murray and Mrs. Hearst's guests, Misses Goodrich, Hamilton, Cochran and Segourney.

Furnish and potted plants decorated the terrace, while within the dining room, living room and library were converted into a ball room, where the guests enjoyed dancing. In the hall-way was an effective decoration of wild rhododendron. In the dining room carnations were used. A buffet table in the end of the room decorated with flowers and tapers in the substantial and delicacies which filled silver platters. Silver baskets held bonbons and cakes and a soft light beamed from tapers in silver candlesticks with their shades of pink.

The sun parlor was embowered in green, and here punch was served from a silver punch bowl surmounted by a platoon of carnations.

On the terrace there were small tables where the guests enjoyed their refreshments, and within and without there was an atmosphere of hospitality and pleasure.

Many of the popular visitors in the

EVILS OF TENANCY IN THE SOUTHLAND

Depicted by President Joyner at Chattanooga Conference—Says Church Is Decadent and Rural Schools Inefficient.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 27.—President J. Joyner, of the Southern Conference for Education and Industry, delivered his address to the conference at the night session in the city Auditorium. He declared the evils of tenancy in the South and declared that the rural schools have not the power to train leaders for the various callings of the South.

Mr. Joyner presented statistics gathered by committees of the conference, and the Board of Education of the University of Tennessee, showing that only one out of four farmers in the South are able to read. He said that the average literacy of the South was given as 33.3, or about one-third of that for the country at large.

"In large areas of the South, one-half of the white farmers are tenants, and the average is 36 per cent for the whole farming population," said Mr. Joyner. "This means that in the entire South one-third to one-half of the farming population are tenants. In most of the rural communities, therefore, there is a very large shifting, shiftless and senseless population."

Mr. Joyner said that the tenant farmer is a man who has no interest in his land and who does not improve it. He said that the tenant farmer is a man who is not interested in his land and who does not improve it. He said that the tenant farmer is a man who is not interested in his land and who does not improve it.

SUFFERED AWFULLY NOW QUITE WELL

A Lady's Suffering Was So Intense, That At Times, She Was Unable To Straighten Her Body.

Walnut, N. C.—"About 12 years ago," says Mrs. S. W. McClure, of Walnut, "I began to fall in health, getting worse all the time. I wasn't able to do my work, suffering awfully at times with pains in sides, especially the right side, and none of the time was I well.

Sometimes I could not straighten up my body for the intense suffering. I suffered more or less all the time, and was irregular.

As Cardui had helped others, I started trying it. I bought six bottles, and after using two or three bottles, I commenced improving, getting better all the time, until I was entirely well.

I became strong and healthy, gained flesh, weighing 120, being just a shadow when I commenced taking Cardui. My work is a pleasure, and I feel like doing my work since my cure was permanent, and I have been well and strong ever since.

Cardui is a fine medicine for suffering women, and I recommend it to all my friends who have womanly troubles."

Thousands of women have written to tell of the help Cardui has been to them. Cardui is a most feminine tonic, acting especially on the womanly organs. It has shown itself of great value to sick, weak women. It is surely worth a trial.

Begin taking Cardui today.

Cities of Death and Fear Left in Wake of Russians

Thousands of Women and Children Carried Off to Russia, and Civilians Killed and Outraged.

Königsberg, East Prussia, April 3.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—Thousands of persons, homeless, thousands of buildings burned to the ground and hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of "lifers" worth of damage done—such is the toll of the Russian invasions of East Prussia, which culminated recently in a raid on the little city of Memel in the northernmost corner of the province.

Along every road of the East Prussian border, hundreds of wagons filled with fugitives were hurrying with what had been left to save from their homes. Their numbers were added to the thousands who earlier had fled in similar fashion and now are quartered all over Germany.

Along a line of 150 miles as the crow flies, and for a distance toward the border there now remains only a succession of ruins. The East Prussian authorities estimate that about 400,000, the number of horses taken at Memel, were carried off in similar fashion and now are quartered all over Germany.

These same authorities appear to have been discredited again, for in many cases have proved to be the products of excited imagination. Careful investigation, however, has established beyond much doubt, according to German statements, that thousands of women and children have been carried off to Russia and that civilians have been killed and outraged.

Cities of Death and Fear.—Königsberg, East Prussia, today presents not the appearance of Belgium with its shell-ridden towns, but a desolation of a different kind, all devoid of inhabitants. The extent of the damage varies only in degree from Memel, the city of the "City of Fear."

The town of Memel had in a mass of hundreds of wagons piled into the city. The occupants of these wagons, indicated by a terrific fear of the Russians and the desire to save themselves.

Though nominally a city, Memel really is a large town, with the one main street common to towns everywhere. That street bore the traces of the Russian invasion, for every store window was smashed in, and the goods were looted.

Of comparative nutritive values, Dr. Hutchison, the famous dietitian, says that meat contains practically 75% water, macaroni only 10%. In other words, when you pay $1.00 for meat, you pay 75c of that $1.00 for water.

to Memel had seemed bad enough, but they could not be placed in the same category with conditions north and east of the city. The Russians had moved in two columns, driving the inhabitants before them, and the way led due north to Nimmereu, almost on the Russian and only a few hundred yards from the German-Russian border, over which the Russians had passed a few days before. The force had included, according to all accounts, 500 Cossacks, followed by civilians who completed the work of war.

Half a hundred Russian prisoners were seen during the work of razing their 271 dead fellows when the Associated Press correspondent left Memel. The route led back to the front, a commissioned artillery officer, plodding along toward the hospital in "Tilitt," which culminated recently in a raid on the little city of Memel in the northernmost corner of the province.

Not a Few of the Writers Are Well Known Outside of the Empire.—Berlin.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—According to lists published here nearly 200 German writers are doing yeoman service for their country in the front lines. They are doing the work of the hospital and the ambulance corps, or pursuing their calling behind the front as newspaper men.

Not a few of them are well known outside of Germany—men like Ernst von Wolzogen, who visited the United States several years ago, and wrote a book about his American observations. Dr. Walter Bloem, whose novel "Das Leben des Theobald" has sold more than 100,000 copies in its sales; Rudolf Hertog, whose "Die Tage der Kämpfer" has done into great popularity within ten years; Richard Dehmel, the poet who was elected to the age in 1907; and Volzger, who wrote the play "Die Vögel."

Distinctions have also been conferred on other writers, who, though not in the war themselves, have given moral support to Germany's armies by means of their pens. Thus Richard Hauptmann and Ernst Lissauer, the author of the famous "Song of Hate" against England, have received the red eagle order of the fourth class.

The same decoration was also given to Ludwig Gumbler, the Bavarian novelist, upon his recent visit to the emperor at headquarters in France. Some of the writers at the front have already brought out books about their experiences in camp hospitals, apart from the vast flood of newspaper articles emanating from less ambitious writers. The famous "Die Front" has brought out "An Der Spitze" (Merchandise) (At the head of my Company) and "Die Front" (The Front) by Johannes W. (Walt) Journeys, a Knight of Malta—work described as of real literary merit.

Here is a fair comparative cost of a meat and a Faust Macaroni dinner for a family of six, showing a clear saving of 85c in favor of macaroni—for 1 meal only:

Table with 2 columns: Item, Price. 3 lbs. of sirloin steak at 35c a lb. $1.05, Bread and butter, say $1.15, One pkg. Faust Macaroni $0.10, One can of tomatoes $0.10, Bread and butter, as above $0.30, Total $0.85.

...the evidence, and cause the best in the evident desire to hold something back—it is insane and useless, convincing to nobody; and, carried out upon these lines, it would have been better never to have held it.

Already there has been an effort made in certain quarters to discredit the investigation; the word "whitewash" has been used in connection with it, even before the inquiry was fairly begun. The Constitution takes no part in these insinuations; we prefer to believe that the committee appointed to make this inquiry is composed of men who propose to do their duty to the city as they see it, and to present a finding in accordance with the facts developed.

Nor has the Constitution made any charge whatsoever against the conduct of the department. It has taken only the position that conditions as to crime in Atlanta demand some remedy; and whether that remedy should be applied to inefficiency in the department as at present organized, or to failure of council to supply adequate men and equipment, is a matter for the committee to determine after it has learned all the facts.

The Constitution feels, therefore, that it is in a position to point out to the committee, without prejudice, the importance of an open door investigation, if it would elicit the public confidence.

The people of Atlanta are entitled to the fullest possible protection—to a feeling of personal and property security—in their homes. If they are not getting it, they have the right to know the reason why, to know wherein the protective system which they maintain is lacking and just what remedies are proposed for its strengthening.

If the doors of the inquiry room are closed, the best they can hope to do is to substitute the committee's judgment for their own. With a free and open investigation these two opinions may finally be in thorough accord; but if there is one thing more than anything else which will have a tendency to pull them apart, it is the executive session. There is nothing which more quickly breeds suspicion or casts doubt, than the door closed upon an official public inquiry. The sooner the committee realizes this and gets away from it, the better will be public reception of the evidence adduced and the decision based upon it.

Either open the doors or quit!
Upon no other basis will the people of Atlanta be satisfied with this inquiry into a system which involves the protection of their lives and property, and for which they are paying the bills.

PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE.
No more opportune time for the Pan-American conference on finance, which convenes in Washington May 24, could have been selected. This conference, called as the result of congressional action which provided for its expenses, including entertainment of the regularly appointed delegates from each of the Latin-American countries, is presumed to deal chiefly with the financial relations between themselves and the United States as well as similar relations one with another. But from the made to contribute music to the further extension of inter-American trade relations. There is scarcely a doubt that it will be given that turn.

THE TRUCE OF MUSIC.

We have heard much of the music of the march—its inspiring, stimulating effect on regiments in and out of battle, but the following story, credited to "a soldier of Belgium," tells of music that resulted in a truce between bullets:

It was a miserable night. A heavy rain had filled the trenches. Suddenly out of the darkness came a voice. It was a Welsh ballad called "Hob y deri dandol" sung in a fine tenor voice. It was the cheeriest sound I ever heard. At the end a round of applause came down the trenches. But imagine our surprise to hear clapping and calls for more in good English from the German trenches. Thereupon the Welshman gave "Alina Gwyn."
"Meantime we realized that not a shot had been fired by either side during the song. We had forgotten all about war. So a bargain was struck with the Germans that if the Welshman would give us another song, neither side would fire any more until daylight.

Just how the men were permitted to carry out that musical program is another story, which the narrator does not talk. But the third song was the Welsh national anthem—the first time it was ever heard on that dismal French morass."

Comments of the various commanders on the incident are not given. The inference is that the soldiers themselves were both the musical and military directors on that occasion.

Our old friend, Doc Cook, says he is going to climb another mountain. And they're needing war correspondents with imaginations that haven't been overworked.

It is now a war of the taking of hills, and they've only got to GO.

Probably the Colonel thinks that front page rights at the particular time are well worth a possible $50,000.

American mules at the war front will give a good account of themselves in that Spring Drive.

Notwithstanding the market reports, there is no "easy" money. It's all hard licks and long reach.

Germany must admit that the its been in this country is quite as good as it's cracked up to be.

Where is the old politician who used to read his enemies out of the party?

Both sides in the war claim the earth, but they are too busy to fortify it.

Now, if the Colonel continues to "knock the ground from under Barnes," the unfortunate gentleman won't have standing room.

No special "Mayday" poets now. All months look alike to them.

It will require weeks of indiscriminate tipping to make Huerta a hero to the bell-boys.

It seems fitting that the Grub Street poets should sing songs of bread.

The Unenlightened East.

Every true son of the south has in his heart a shrine to the memory of this unknown benefactor of the human race. As compared with her—no mere man could have reached such "gastronomic" heights—all of Dixie joins in agreeing that Billat-Savary was an amateur. From "Uncle Remus" on down the long list of the South's authors and artists and poets there comes no note of discord to mar the chorus of praise. "But what in the world is 'petitcoker'?"—New York Herald.

The question is up to the Hon. Bridges Smith, Mayor of Macon, who is expected to send an eloquent, illuminating answer to the unenlightened East.

The Sweetheart-One.

I.
What is de Rose's sweetheart gone—
Springtime bonnet wid de ribbons on?
De Rose at yo' window wait fer yo',
De Vilet say dat his love is true.

II.
De River say: "Heah's yo' lookin' glass,
An' yo' look so purty ez yo' gwine pass,
Ef yo'll wait whar de Vilets shine in de dew
I'll give yo' face ter yo' sweetheart true!"

III.
But no one knows de sweet, sweet way,
Whar de Rose's sweetheart gone today,
An' de Rose won't bloom in de mawnin's sight,
Till she come fer ter make de mawnin' bright.

And the Hawk "Circles."
The editor of the Bald Knob Eagle answered the call of the woods recently, and then tried to tempt his brethren with the following eloquent flight:
"All day soft, velvet clouds have flecked the sky above us like bonny boats on an empyrean sea; every field and forest is fanned by the wings of a southern breeze; the wanton mocker tunes his note to the cadence of every sound in bird world; numberless insects drone in the fallow fields to the music of tinkling cowbells; the imperial rose parts its rich red lips to the busy bees, and high above us, in the upper air, the hawk circles, circles, circles, the only living creature whose thoughts are wicked on these mellow, opulent days."

Trouble Blowing.

De Hurricane want ter find de way,
Ter de Mean Man house, whar de Mean Man stay,
An' Lightnin' tell 'em dat he'll shine a light,
Till he sweep de Mean Man's house fum sight.

The Unreasonable.

This, from the philosophy of the Bentz-town Bard:
"All roads lead to spring beauty, birds and blossoms and the ripping music of brooks, the flash of swallow-wings, the white flower of the dogwood—and yet some men cuss because their eggs are not cooked right."

The Best on the Road.

World so wondrous green and wide,
Joy and grace to win it,
When you reach the busy side
Stay—one golden minute.

Little Sermons.

Folks dat waits fer de wagon has got faith,
But mighty little judgment.
De sof' places in dis worl' comes out er de hard places whar yo' labor trims down.

...to throw Carmen's flowers away, when a noise is heard in the factory. The girls all rush out. Two of them have quarreled. One is wounded—her assailant is Carmen. Jose is ordered by the officer in command to take her into custody. She sings, and is taken to the officer instead of expressing contempt. He resolves on sending her to prison; and, fearing further mischief from the little temptress, orders her hands to be tied, whilst she goes to write the order for Jose to conduct her to prison. During his absence she bewitches the unfortunate brigadier till he promises to permit her to escape, and meet her at an inn near the ramparts. Don Jose and two soldiers escort her. At the foot of the bridge a sudden push from Carmen throws Don Jose down, and, in the confusion which follows, Carmen, aided by the laughing girls, escapes.

The second act displays the inn near the ramparts. Carmen is there with her friends, the gipsies (some of them smugglers as well). They sing and dance. Some officers and soldiers are there also. The captain is fascinated by Carmen, but she pays him little attention till she hears Jose's imprisonment for assisting her to escape is ended. A new arrival, Escamillo, appears, the victorious bull-fighter of Granada. Soldiers and gipsies warmly welcome him. He, like the rest, devotes himself to Carmen, who con-

Carmen, and not knowing Jose, reveals his passion to him. A fight is about to take place, but Carmen and the smugglers rush in and separate them. Escamillo, biding his time, bids them farewell after inviting them to the approaching bull-fight at Seville. Jose upbraid's Carmen, who disregards his threats; and the sudden appearance of Michaela, who, by the aid of a guide, has sought him out to hasten to his dying mother, compels him to leave Carmen. Torn by love, jealousy, and duty, he hesitates, but duty prevails, and he follows Michaela, while the song of Escamillo is heard in the distance.

Act the Fourth.—The bull-fight is about to begin at Seville. Escamillo is there with the fearless Carmen, in great splendor. He departs to prepare for the arena, and Carmen's gipsy friends, Frasquita and Mercedes, hasten to warn her that Jose is in search of her. She will not conceal herself and resolves to brave him. Jose comes. He vainly tries to reclaim the old love. Carmen will not listen; refuses his passionate appeals, and flings his love-token (a ring) at his feet. At last, maddened with her exclamation of joy at the populace proclaiming the triumph of Escamillo in the bull-fight, Jose stabs her to the heart, and Carmen falls dead as the victorious Escamillo enters.

MANY AUTO-OWNERS ENTERING TOUR TO BROOKS COUNTY FAIR

The Animal Industry convention, to be held at Quitman May 25 under the auspices of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, with the Brooks County Industrial club in direct charge of all arrangements, will be the greatest boozing meeting for the upbuilding of cattle and hog raising ever held in the south. The first animal industry convention, held in Quitman May 26, 1914, was attended by over ten thousand people and 1,100 decorated floats were in the parade, illustrating the various phases of hog and cattle raising and meat production. Brooks county is this year preparing to entertain not less than 15,000 visitors, who will come from all over Georgia and from Florida, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Experts from the United States department of agriculture and the departments of agriculture of several states will deliver instructive addresses, and moving pictures will be shown illustrating methods and results in raising hogs and cattle. Moving pictures will be made of the floats and other exhibits to be shown throughout the United States to advertise the splendid potential possibilities of the animal industry in the south.

The American Hereford Cattle association will put on during the Animal Industry convention the first association show ever held in Georgia, the finest registered Hereford cattle from all over the United States being exhibited.

Arrangements are being perfected by the Brooks County Industrial club to send thousands of invitations throughout Georgia, Florida, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee. The individuals will grant very low rates from all points, and thousands are expected to come to Quitman in automobiles, as the weather in May is usually better than at any other time of the year, and the roads should be in most inviting shape for comfortable touring.

Applications are pouring in for bookings for stays in the "Seeing Georgia" auto tour, to start from south Georgia, and Atlanta with the objective point Quitman, and the time of arrival the morning of the Animal Industry convention.

COMMITTEE IN ATLANTA TO URGE ROME ROUTE FOR DIXIE HIGHWAY

As an evidence of their interest and enthusiasm for the Dixie highway, a delegation from the Rome Chamber of Commerce came to Atlanta on a special car attached to the Southern's noon train and presented the claims of the Rome route to Commissioner Clark Howell.

The party was armed with blueprints and ammunition with a plentiful supply of facts and figures. T. E. Grafton, president of the Rome Chamber of Commerce, headed the party, along with John M. Graham, chairman of the Dixie highway committee, J. D. McCartney, managing editor of the Rome Tribune-Herald, was spokesman for the delegation. The committee represented varied lines of business, and included some of the most prominent men in Rome.

for the decision of the commissioners on May 20, but are already at work, as mentioned by the speaker. The interest is such that in Chattooga county, in addition to the county road force, citizens with men, teams and hay scrapes are volunteering work, and are busy six days in the week. The county commissioners of Floyd and Walker have guaranteed to complete a permanent macadam road with width and grades complying with the specifications of the engineers of the Dixie highway within six months. Chattooga county makes similar pledges within six feet, and the road through the two counties will be dedicated to the Dixie highway system not later than May 1, 1916. If the Rome route is selected, Freedom from roads and a high dry roadway for twelve months in the year were cited as certainties. Floyd county, with the bridge funds to that amount, having been set aside by the county commissioners.

Said Mr. McCartney: "Rome is the logical midway stop for tourists between Chattanooga and Atlanta, and it has ample hotel and garage facilities. Our new quarter, a million dollar hotel, the Forrest, will be opened on May 20—the same date upon which we hope you commissioners will give us the Dixie highway."

Passer Through Historic Spot.
The Rome route will pass through Chickamauga park, which makes its historic appeal in a call that cannot be denied to the people of the middle west, whose troops were much water running between the sandbars to serve as a chaser for a thirsty man in New York.

It is a shocking waste—as shocking as the devoting of the vast resources of a great university to the education of a few boys and young men who has not succeeded in learning 30 per cent of the Ten Commandments.

The Platte is a great river in the spring, and awes the spectator by its breadth and majesty. But it is not highly valued in Nebraska, because when it is most needed, it isn't there. It is like the young recruit from the bush league, who bats 400 in the spring practice, and then strikes out four times hand-running with men on bases, after the season opens. As a river, it is the poorest pinch-hitter in the world. The Platte spends only on the first hot day and has depended on wells for its moisture the rest of the summer.

Many movements for the abolishing of the Platte have been started, but have failed because of the opposition of the bridge companies. It is the thinner because for a bridge in existence, but one of the most effective.

RIPPLING RHYMES

BY WALT MASON.

KNOCKING BOOZE.

"I'll gladly hit the water cooler," says George, Great Britain's worthy ruler, "and cut the budget out as an example to the ladies who blow the shillings of their duties for porter, beer and stout. By foreign foe we are endangered, and Boozelike some fierce dog unengaged, is raising hob at home; it coils not, and keeps men from tolling, and keeps them hot with useless boiling, as they blow off the foam. We're running short of ammunition because our workmen's condition recalls the soldiers in the 'provocation' now seems ample, and so I'll set a good example—no long cold drinks for me. Thus thus with all the warring nations, they're finding out that liquid rations are fruitful of despair, far more than all the other conditions recall, the submarines down under water, the alships in the air. In Russia now no vodkas flowing, we see the thirsty moujiks going to tap the helpful wells and France, the Volatle and merry, prohibited the old green fairy that sent the Kaiser to hell. The German soldier heard the Kaiser informing them it would be wiser, to give the pump a show; thus all the rulers are deciding, that 'Barleycorn' the long abiding, means trouble, strife and woe."

engaged in the great conflict; Rome is rich in legend and story, from the time of Desoto and the Indians, on down to the present. As for the future, the Berry schools, nationally famous; and Shorter college, make their claim. The grave of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, in Myrtle Hill cemetery, a daughter of the south, is a shrine of sacred interest to all.

The interesting fact was mentioned that the people of Alabama do not propose to be left out of the good roads movement and plans are being made to tap the Dixie highway at Rome, and then through to reach Birmingham via Gadsden and Anniston. Contracts were let this week for three more miles of fine highway between Anniston and Piedmont, Ala.

In reply Mr. Howell stated that the claim of every route would be given the most careful consideration, and that as a result of the interest and enthusiasm that had been aroused by the Dixie highway the greatest possible impetus had been given to good roads in the south. He called attention to the maps, laws, guarantees and other information that must be in the hands of the commissioners by May 10 and was assured by the Romans that the necessary data would be forthcoming on schedule time.

FITZGERALD-WAYCROSS ROUTE GIVEN BOOST

A meeting in the interest of the Fitzgerald-Waycross route, consisting of delegates from all counties that are traversed by the proposed route between Macon and Jackson, through these two cities, will be held Friday, April 30, at Fitzgerald. The holiday will be attended by several hundred people.

"We are going to build a magnificent, all-year-round road," said Mayor Austin, "and it will be the short line between Macon and Jacksonville. This road will be built whether or not we are on the route of the Dixie highway. Of course, we expect to be on the route, and will work enthusiastically to that end. A magnificent presentation of every detail of the Fitzgerald-Waycross route will be made before the convention in Chattanooga May 20."

Keep the Children Bright and Happy

Happy youngsters must be healthy. The digestive organs of children get out of order as readily as do those of their elders, and the result is equally distressing. When the bowels are clogged with an accumulation of refuse from the stomach the child naturally becomes cross and fretful from the discomfort, and is often punished for temper when medical attention is really what is needed.

The next time your child is cross and unhappy without apparent reason, try giving it a mild laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild, pleasant-tasting combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, and is especially recommended for children because of its freedom from all opiate or narcotic drugs and its gentle action. It is sold in drug stores everywhere. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 152 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

That Is Greatest Problem Before South, According to Dr. Knapp—Duty of Cities to Country.

Muskogee, Okla., April 27.—Agriculture as a sectional problem, railroad rates and the work of the federal department of agriculture through its national marketing committee were the leading topics discussed at the second day's session of the southern commercial congress today. The attendance was largely increased by the arrival of scores of delegates who were unable to attend the opening meetings.

"Cash markets for locally grown produce should be established," the country is the important thing and leading a hand to help the country to prosperity, a city is helping itself, to Self-supporting agriculture is the largest problem offering itself to the south for solution, according to Dr. Bradford Knapp.

"To solve it, cash markets for locally grown produce should be established," he said. "Loans should be made upon condition the farmer will make his farm as nearly self-supporting as possible."

Duty of the Cities.

Dr. Knapp pointed out that it is the duty of cities to make constructive contribution to the country surrounding them.

"The country is the important thing," he continued, "and in lending a hand to help the country to prosperity, a city is helping itself to prosperity."

The speaker pleaded against the one crop system and pointed out that millions of dollars worth of fruits, vegetables, live stock, hay and grain imported annually into the south could be raised as cheaply there as elsewhere.

Colonel Robert M. Hixson, a planter of South Carolina, the American farmer generally is "ill" and "stuck that sticks his head in the sand and won't see." He asserted that the farmer of today refuse to use business judgment and supply that for which there is a demand in such quantities as are needed.

Colonel Hixson urged the protection, through governmental or state agencies, of agriculture in the southern cotton states by warehouse systems modeled after that of South Carolina, under which a farmer, by paying a fee, can obtain a certificate of storage, on which he can negotiate a loan.

J. Warren Smith of Columbus, Ga., of the United States weather bureau, read a paper by Dr. C. F. Marvin, chief of the bureau, telling of the work of the department for southern commerce and agriculture.

He said a centralized bank would not last for a year because the people would not have the same local representation they have in the present system.

"A financial panic such as that of 1907 is now impossible," Mr. Hamlin continued. "In time of financial stringency, a farmer's property can be sold for a real elastic, real local currency. The federal government should issue bonds in such times to put out enormous sums sufficient to dispense any idea of panic."

Dr. Charles Brand, chief of the division of markets and rural organization of the United States department of agriculture, declared that the southern farmer and ranchman realized the need of being more provident. The time is passing, he said, when products of the farm and ranch are taken to market and then bought back as food stuffs.

"Co-operative societies throughout the south are being organized to utilize home products. As the result, the financial crisis will be averted and the young people will be offered a broader life," he said.

Transportation Great Problem.

Ficas that railway freight rates from the markets of the central west to the gulf ports shall now be made a basis for rates from the same interior points to the ports of the Gulf of Mexico, and that the freight on the Gulf of service performed were made by J. S. Daugherty, a capitalist of Houston, Texas. Mr. Daugherty asserted that transportation is an unsolved problem of the nation.

"Other things being equal, as you increase freight rates, you decrease the income of the producers," he said. "It has a particular bearing on grain since the export price is fixed monthly. If the price paid the farmers of the entire country for their grain."

The speaker cited statistics from testimony of witnesses in the interstate commerce hearing in Chicago as to the average cost of shipping wheat from wheat from Omaha to Galveston should cost 40 per cent of the cost of shipment from Omaha to New York.

The question of whether each section of the United States shall have an equal opportunity to develop its resources and participate in the resultant prosperity, or whether selfishness shall triumph over justice," he asserted.

National Marketing Committee.

The scope and purposes of the national marketing committee, organized in Washington several months ago, was outlined by William S. Goodwin, a member of the committee and a representative in congress from Arkansas.

He pointed out that owing to a lack of some central marketing intelligence, the American farmer today receives but 25 per cent of the price paid by the consumer for his product. He laid stress on "the enormous waste in perishable products."

Mr. Goodwin laid the blame not entirely upon the middlemen, but asserted that "the producer should learn to market his crop in accordance with the requirements of trade and the consumer should learn better purchasing methods."

Agricultural education and agricultural co-operation as agencies to bring agriculture to its proper place were urged by J. J. Gander, a banker of Lakeland, Minn., who said he brought the greeting of the north to the congress.

Hamilton Landa Reserve System.

The country is smiling with prosperity as a result of the Federal Reserve bank act and as the system grows older the smile will grow into a laugh, according to Charles S. Hamlin, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank board.

Hamlin pointed out that while formerly "we had the worst financial system in the civilized world, we now have the soundest."

He answered advocates of a single centralized bank by asserting that because of the large territory involved twelve decentralized banks are preferable to one centralized bank, and that the federal reserve board holds all the authority of a centralized bank for Mississippi.

Bridge the Gap.

"Bridge the gap between the ordinary country boy and girl and the agricultural college or industrial institute and farm," Dr. Charles Brand, chief of the division of markets and rural organization of the United States department of agriculture, said.

"By a series of successive steps, we in Mississippi, he said, are bringing the future farmer and the future girl's wife up through an agricultural industrial education, starting in the grade schools by corn clubs and finishing in the universities."

Mr. Blakeslee told of the resultant achievements in agriculture, saying that the state is paying millions of dollars annually which formerly was paid for agricultural products produced outside the state.

Although the place of the 1916 meeting of the Southern Commercial congress will not be determined until a meeting of the board of directors a few months after the close of the present convention, spirited contests already have arisen. Overtures have been received from Little Rock, Ark., Cincinnati, Charleston, S. C., Chattanooga, Tenn., Knoxville, Va., Raleigh, N. C., Baltimore, St. Louis and Richmond.

A CLAIM FROM

THOS. H. JEFFRIES

(Candidate for Ordinary)

To the Voters of Fulton County---

I was not induced to enter the race for Ordinary by any meeting or any ring. I am not a member of any ring, neither am I supported by any ring.

Having served many years in a subordinate position, I have a laudable ambition to better my condition and surely I have as much right to make the race for Ordinary as the Coroner.

The charges of Ring and Political trickery are untrue and without foundation and are made simply for the purpose of prejudicing the voters of this County against me and are simply cheap political "Clap-Trap."

I believe the voters of this county are too intelligent to be caught by any such specious and demagogic appeals and that they will fittingly rebuke these efforts at the polls.

Speaking of rings, Mr. Donehoo came to me and besought me to join him as his Clerk upon his ticket for Ordinary, and proposed to share equally with me all the profits of the office.

I presume if I had consented, there would have been no ring; as I declined, there must be a ring or Mr. Donehoo would not have anything to talk about.

As to claim that the office of Ordinary should be filled by an attorney, I say

First, the law does not require it.

Second, Judge Wilkinson, who filled the office so long and ably, was not an attorney, and Third, eighty per cent of the Atlanta Bar are supporting me over my opponents, who are both attorneys.

Cordially,

PETITIONERS WIN EMPIRE LIFE CASE

Agreement Reached Taking Affairs of the Company Out of Hands of Officers and Directors.

The long drawn out battle to force the insurance department of Georgia to take the control of the Empire Life Insurance company out of the hands of its directors and officers which was instituted by the filing of a petition by Judge James R. Brown before the insurance board of Georgia last August, resulted on yesterday in a complete victory for the petitioners.

On August 16, 1914, Judge James R. Brown, through his attorneys, C. T. & L. C. Hopkins, W. Carroll Latimer and Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman filed a petition with General William A. Wright, insurance commissioner, alleging the insolvency of the company charging that its condition was hazardous to its policyholders and the public, and asking a hearing before the insurance board and that the insurance commissioner be required to take charge of the business and affairs of the company.

The hearing argument and consideration of the petition before the insurance board convened of Governor Warren Grice and Insurance Commissioner William A. Wright occupied three months and a series of evidence presented by both sides to the controversy the company frankly admitting its inability to pay accumulated death claims or to meet its contractual ob-

Men Pay Homage to Mother's Friend

"I am not surprised to observe the number of men who come into the store to purchase Mother's Friend remarked a leading druggist.

It is a happy thought to send a hubby to the drug store. Mother's Friend is applied externally to the abdominal muscles. It is a gentle soothing lubricant penetrates to the finest network of nerves beneath the skin and has a marked tendency to relieve the muscular strain to which these broad, flat abdominal muscles are subjected. The cords, tendons and ligaments are thus permitted to stretch to their corresponding strain so often involved during the period of expectation. This in part accounts for the entire absence in many cases reported of nausea, morning sickness and other distress such as flatulence, the ordinary form of lubrication is neglected.

Mother's Friend has been highly recommended by a host of women who know from experience and by men who know from observation. Write Bradford Regulator Co. 208 Lamar Bldg. Atlanta, Ga. and we will send you a valuable little book to expectant mothers.

For Ordinary

In offering myself for this important judicial office, I make the following statements. I am standing for reform and economical administration in the interest of the public. The office should be conducted on business principles, and not for a division of its large revenues among political helpers. I am fighting a ring which is banded solidly against me. It is strong and powerful but I unhesitatingly say that it does not stand for what is best in local politics. The man it is supporting has been in office for thirty years and is drawing a salary of five thousand dollars. No injustice will be done to let him remain where he is.

Petition Refused by Board

As a result of the hearing the board refused the petition to require the insurance commissioner to take charge of the company.

Governor Slaton as chairman of the board said in his opinion that while the company was in his opinion, insolvent, it should be allowed an opportunity to voluntarily reinsure its business while the insurance commissioner contended that the company was solvent and that it was able to pay its policyholders in full.

Shortly after the decision of the insurance board denying the petition of Judge Brown for the insurance commissioner to take charge of the company, the insurance commissioner voluntarily filed a petition in Richmond superior court alleging that the condition of the company was hazardous to its policyholders and asked an order of court turning over the company to him for full administration.

Upon this application, the officers and attorneys of the Empire Life Insurance company acknowledged service admitting the allegations of the petition and consenting that the assets and business of the company be taken from the control of its officers and directors.

Original Application Received

The attorneys for Judge James R. Brown and other intervening creditors and policyholders thereupon allowed their original application for the appointment of a receiver by Fulton superior court, alleging that Richmond superior court had no jurisdiction over the company or the case.

To the assigned petition of Judge Brown and his associates the attorneys for the Empire Life Insurance company filed a demurrer which was overruled by Judge Ellis his decision being made upon the appeal of the company of Georgia, upon the appeal of the attorneys for the company.

Messrs Austin and Smith then filed a writ of prohibition alleging that the insurance company was not lawfully empowered to administer the company under orders of Richmond superior court and upon the hearing the writ of prohibition was granted by Judge John T. Fulton superior court.

The attorneys for the insurance commissioner Messrs King & Spalding as attorneys for the insurance commissioner of New York at this juncture filed an intervention adopting the allegations of the petition in the J. R. Brown case and asking for the appointment of a receiver for the company upon which intervention was granted by Judge James W. English as temporary receiver for the Empire Life Insurance company with instructions to file in his data the names of the Augusta proprietors of the company.

Adjustment Reached

As the insurance commissioner was undertaking to sign a bill of sale of the company's assets to the jurisdiction of the courts and as the situation was further complicated by the Judge of Richmond superior court who enjoined all actions by Captain J. W. English as receiver appointed by Fulton superior court, it soon became apparent that the interest of all the parties connected with the Empire Life Insurance company, creditors, policyholders and stockholders required some means for solution of the legal tangled and at the instance of counsel for the insurance commissioner an adjustment was reached on yesterday under the mediation of William A. Wright as insurance commissioner consented that the affairs of the company should be taken from the control of its officers and directors and administered by the insurance commissioner as prayed for in the petition of Judge James R. Brown which had been denied by the insurance board.

The insurance act of 1914 under which the petition of Judge James R. Brown was filed contains no special provision for the allowance of attorney fees in cases where an insurance commissioner takes charge of an insurance company under direction of the insurance board but as the original petition had been denied and the present action was taken by a consent order under a consent order of the judges of Judge James R. Brown and the insurance commissioner the order provided for the payment of $12,000 attorneys fees of C. T. & L. C. Hopkins, W. Carroll Latimer and Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman in filing the original petition in behalf of Judge James R. Brown and his associates.

It was incorrectly stated in an afternoon paper on yesterday that the consent order ends the litigation of the Empire Life Insurance company, and counsel on both sides announce that the order does not affect the litigation in any respect except to terminate the insurance commissioner with the authority originally prayed for in the Brown petition which has been denied by the insurance board and to terminate the controversy involving the control of the company.

Robert C. Alston represented the insurance commissioner while the Empire Life Insurance company was represented by Messrs. Howell & Heyman, H. Jones Little, Powell Smith & Goldstein and except upon the hearing before the insurance board by Messrs. Brandon Slaton & Phillips.

The claim of Messrs. Brand Spratt, Little and Powell Smith alleged to have been rendered by the company as officials is set for hearing before Judge Ellis at a date to be determined at which time the matter and amount of compensation will be determined of the court.

Wheatley Arrested As Georgia Banker Thought Wrong Man

Atlanta, Ga. April 27.—(Special)—Telegrams received here today from New York announce the arrest at Lincoln Neb. of an opera singer named Wheatley in connection with the wrecking of the American National bank in February 1914 for which a fair Cashier Mack M. Lowry first Assistant Cashier George D. Wheatley and assistant Cashier Carter Ingham Hawley are now under indictment by the federal grand jury at Maccon. The arrest at Lincoln of the York telegrams infer that the New York telegrams is evidently a case of mistaken identity.

Wheatley, Cashier G. D. Wheatley Jr. left America in January 1914 two days prior to the collapse of the American National bank and has successfully eluded arrest though detectives have scoured the country in search of him since his flight from Maccon. He is now being sought for information which they hope might lead to his capture.

Many here believe that Wheatley to be in Spanish Honduras where extradition could not be effected. A reward of $200 is offered for his capture and the case will probably come to trial in May.

Former Cashier Mack M. Lowry who had charge of the bank at the time of suspension was indicted upon charges of embezzlement and the grand jury is out on bond and has left America to reside elsewhere.

WILSON NOT INVOLVED IN BANK CONTROVERSY

Washington, April 27.—President Wilson does not consider that the legal controversy between the Riggs National bank and the treasury department officials involves any administrative action. He told callers today that in his opinion the powers of the controller of the currency were perfectly clear and whether or not he thought he thought a question for congress to decide.

An informant said he was speaking in touch with the situation, but that the department of justice was handling the case and would continue to do so.

Joseph E. Brown Camp Carried Old Wartime Pike in the Parade

In the mention of the confederate camps that took part in the Memorial day parade the Joseph E. Brown camp was in the procession with a large delegation and made one of the best showings as to number.

It is one of the most patriotic camps of the United Confederate Veterans and is always on hand when loyalty to the memory of the war is to be shown.

One of the most interesting relics of war times carried in the parade was a Joe Brown Pike presented to Adjutant W. P. Archer of the Joseph E. Brown camp by Miss Saurie Brown daughter of the war governor. Miss Brown was offered $100 for this relic by the Memorial society at Washington. The weapon is composed of a steel blade about 18 inches long and 2 inches wide sharpened on both sides and fastened to a wooden pole about 4 feet long. The confederates forged these themselves and used them in capturing guns charging the enemy with these open life weapons and overcoming them before they had a chance to reload.

This interesting relic will be taken to Richmond by Mr. Archer who will carry it in his pocket there at the reunion of the old soldiers on June 1.

R. R. COMMISSION ASKED TO REGULATE "JITNEYS"

Georgia Railway and Power Co. Wants Jitneys Declared Public Service Utility.

The Georgia railroad commission was asked Tuesday by the Georgia Railway and Power company to declare the jitney bus service a public service utility and to make such rules and regulations as the commission sees fit.

The petition of the street car company was supplemented by a similar request made by several prominent citizens of Atlanta.

In its petition the street car company says among other things that the jitney has a worse passenger load than through overcrowding they even violate the common law governing automobiles and motorcycles and they do not furnish equal accommodations for all sexes.

The citizens petition is of the same nature declaring the jitney bus traffic in its present state is dangerous to patrons and public alike.

Its signers are as follows: C. E. Currier, James E. Floyd, George R. Donovan, St. Elmo Williams, David H. Grant, E. Allen Davis, J. H. Shaw, John W. Grant, R. H. Maddox, Chas. LaComarino, Frank E. Buck, L. C. Hamilton, H. M. Atkinson, Jack J. Spalding, Robert Adair, Thomas K. Glenn, J. S. Arkwright, J. P. Allen, J. Haverly, J. C. Hamilton, J. H. Jones, H. S. Johnson, W. L. Pool, H. A. Chandler, George Mace, Gordon Eber, W. H. Eason, E. Allen, H. S. Johnson, J. S. Adams, A. M. Berk, Lewis and Charles A. Sisson.

The Georgia railway and power company will doubtless give the jitney people a chance to be heard from before the petition of the street car company is acted upon.

to time through the American ambassador. Recently some of our officers have been subjected to solitary confinement in retaliation for the supposed treatment of Germans in this country. The High Commission does not intend to permit the confinement of prisoners of war, except as an indispensable measure of safety, and I hope before long to obtain some vindication for which these officers are now being treated by Germany.

Germany Indelibly Stained.

"Germany has for many years posed before the world as a great and noble military nation. She has abundantly proven her military skill and courage. But surely she is no longer to be regarded as a standard of military honor and conduct which would gain the respect and admiration of the world. Instead, she has stooped to acts which surely will stain indelibly her military history and which would vitiate the barbarous savagery of the Persians of Sudan.

Germany Government Real Guiltier.

Lord Lansdowne said he deplored the fact that the admiralty had been forced to take recourse to releasing the captive German submarine crews. The real guiltier, he declared, were the German commanders who had ordered their ruthless commissions. He added that sufferers at the hands of Germany might be compensated by levying on German property in Great Britain.

Lord Cromer, former British agent and consul general in Egypt, declared there was a strong feeling in the army against the policy of granting leniency regarding the treatment of German submarine prisoners.

Lord Lucan, president of the board of agriculture, stated in behalf of the government that the special treatment for captured German crews had been adopted, not as a policy of reprisal, but as an expression of the highest regard for the approval of Germany.

The treatment of the submarine prisoners, however, conformed to the provisions of the Hague convention. He was glad to announce, Lord Lucan added, that the German government had agreed to release the prisoners. He said that the government hoped that Mr. Gerard also would be permitted to investigate the treatment of prisoners held in prison as a reprisal against Great Britain's treatment of German submarine prisoners.

AMERICAN WOMEN REACH THE HAGUE

And Conference on Peace Begins—Nearly Thousand Women Present, 51 of Them From America.

The Hague, April 27.—(Via London.) Forty-two United States delegates to the International Women's Peace congress, who had been held upon the steamer Noordam because of Great Britain's order stopping traffic to Holland, arrived here today. The delegates reached The Hague in time for the opening meeting of the congress tonight, at which an earnest desire to bring the world's war to a conclusion and insure a durable peace was strongly expressed by delegates belonging to both belligerent and neutral nations.

51 Women From America. Besides the 886 Dutch delegates, the gathering, presided over by Aletta Jacobs, comprised 51 women from America, three from Austria, nine from Denmark, five from Belgium, five from Germany, five from Hungary, twelve from Sweden, fifteen from Switzerland, one from France, two from Great Britain and one each from Chile, Armenia, Italy and Canada. Stippling addresses of greeting were sent by Anita Augspurger, of Manhattan; Madame Tubiers, of Denmark; Katherine Courtney, of London; Olga Mieser, of Vienna; Anna Klemm, of Stockholm; Mrs. J. J. Lane, of Boston; Vilma Gluecklich, of Budapest; Rosa Genoll, of Milan; Dr. Kellka, of Norway; and Mia Boissevain, of Amsterdam.

Thrill Stir Audience. A thrill stirred the audience as the women of the various nations offered sympathetic references to the sorrows and hardships of their sisters. Dr. Lane, of Boston, aroused the enthusiasm of the delegates when she declared that womanly feelings were above all race hatreds and that the German women stretched out their hands for friendship and international love. Mrs. Courtney reciprocated with assurance that English women recognized the women of other nations as sisters and were heartily thankful to the neutral states for calling the gathering, declaring that all women in their hearts wished for peace. This was the first time the women of the world's peace congress body has been in a position to make themselves heard in an effort to bring the great war to an end. Mrs. Courtney concluded the women who were going to say what they thought of the war, not as national, but as women. Olga Mieser, of Vienna, also disparaged race hatreds, saying the women should help each other with sympathy and endeavor to end the war, a war which she said was not a fight, but which had caused them great suffering.

Faith in Power of Women. Mrs. Andrews said that never before had such faith in the power of women to effect a great change been manifested. Every woman in the United States, she declared, sympathized with the objects of the congress. Vilma Gluecklich, an American delegate, argued that women would not be worthy of "their coming franchise" unless they obtained the right to do something to abolish the war. An address which held her auditors spell-bound was delivered by Signorina Genoll, of Milan, who declared: "Speaking with great earnestness, she said she saw the horrors of war impending in Italy. The men, who were starting because of the stopping of trade, demanded to be sent to the front to fight, where they would be certain to obtain food, she said. Even the Italian Peace society had declared in favor of war. But the women of Italy were praying against such a calamity befalling them. Messages from every country, except Belgium, were read by Dr. Boissevain."

Salutation as War Annihilator. Dr. Aletta Jacobs, in her speech of welcome, said that the congress never called itself a peace congress, but an international congress, in order to protect against the war and to discuss ways and means by which war shall become an impossibility in the future. Dr. Jacobs said finally she thought the most powerful means to attain this end would be the introduction of woman suffrage in all countries.

Bobby's Fruitless Search. (From Judge.) Bobby heard his mother tell his father that her mother, who was all was in a comatose state and she must go to her at once. Bobby immediately ran for his geography and looked diligently for some time. Finally he brought it to his father and said: "Father, I can't find the state of comatose in here. Will you?"

No exception has been taken to that use in America. No inquiry has been addressed to the French correspondents of the papers, whether the news was true or not. No denial of these charges, however often repeated, has been made by the allies. But as soon as the Germans used the same kind of weapon in the battle around Ypres, the denunciation of Germany for following the practice of her adversaries has been rampant and the most inventive sort of epithets have been employed. The rights of nations have been violated and the Hague conference was called into the field again to prove the utter disregard of all rules of civilization warlike by this country. This is exactly what the German complains of, that the press of this country very often measures with two standards; that what is sauce for the goose is not sauce for the gander. This is why Germans protest, and why they do not believe in the impartiality of public opinion in this country, and why they do not take kindly to the attitude of the United States to play a mediating role in the present world struggle.
