

FIGHTING FIERCELY, ARMIES OF RUSSIA ARE FALLING BACK

At Several Points the Counter Attacks of Russians Have Stopped the Advance of Germans.

WARSAW NOT YET TAKEN BY THE KAISER'S FORCES

But This Climax to the German Offensive Is Expected Hourly—Germans Fighting Hard to Hold Positions in the West.

London, August 1.—The anniversary of war's outbreak passed without the Germans occupying Warsaw, said to be part of their program. However, news of this climax to the Austro-German offensive in the east is expected hourly, for what little information is allowed to leak through declares the Russians for several days have been withdrawing to the Brest line, leaving small forces to fight rear guard actions so that the main armies may make good their retreat.

COUNTER ATTACKS BY THE RUSSIANS.

These rear guard actions have developed into fairly large battles, as the Russians, whose steadiness has been phenomenal in face of defeat, are offering stubborn resistance and delivering powerful counter attacks. They have prevented Field Marshal Hindenburg from throwing more of his troops across the Narw, repulsed German attacks northwest of Warsaw and driven back to the river some of the invading troops who crossed the Vistula south of Warsaw. In the southeast Field Marshal von Mackensen continues his victorious advance. He has swept aside the resistance of the Russians and forced them to retreat along both banks of the Bug. The Germans already have passed Cholm in pursuit. Thus on the retirement of the Warsaw armies is seriously threatened.

RUSSIANS STOP GERMAN ADVANCE.

During the month of July Berlin says the Germans captured some 3,000 Russian prisoners between the Pilica river and the Baltic sea.

GERMANS ATTACK ON WEST FRONT.

Meanwhile the Germans, who appear to have an inexhaustible supply of munitions, are fighting to retain every position they hold in the west. They have captured part of the trenches lost to the British near Hooge, and are trying to regain what they lost to the French in the Muesener region of France.

AT BLOODY COST TEUTONS ADVANCE.

Geneva, Switzerland, August 1.—(Via Paris)—The capture of Lublin cost General Woych 70,000 men in killed, wounded and prisoners. Four miles north of Lublin the Russians are fighting fiercely, disputing every foot of ground while covering their retreat," says an Innsbruck dispatch to The Tribune.

Pretty Brunette Attempts Suicide In Piedmont Lake

Fights With Her Rescuer, Declaring She Had Quarreled With Husband and Was Anxious to Die.

Despite her desperate effort to end her life by drowning, the life of a pretty brunette, giving her name as Mrs. W. B. Mize, 424 West Tenth street, was saved yesterday afternoon through the bravery of H. D. Walker, a life guard at Piedmont park. She told her rescuers that a difference with her husband at their home, Saturday night, was the cause of her desire to die.

Walker seized the woman, but was unable to get her to the shore on account of the woman's fierce struggles to free herself. Mr. Lee stated that both might have drowned had not the life guard been assisted by two other life guards, Red Enlow and George Baker, who approached in a boat.

TRIES TO END LIFE AFTER HER QUARREL WITH SWEETHEART

"That she had 'tussed' with her sweetheart, whose name she guarded from the police, was the explanation Miss May Johnson, aged 18, of 403 Whitehall street, gave to Officer Lon W. Evans and Grady hospital physician, last night, after an unsuccessful attempt to kill herself by swallowing bichloride of mercury.

Despite the repeated efforts of Grady internists to find out the details of the "lovers' quarrel," Miss Johnson would only reply: "I am not going to mention the name of the man I love in this affair. He didn't make me try to kill myself, although I did it because we had 'tussed.' I am glad that I didn't die, but that is all I am going to say now." The stomach pump was applied, and soon Miss Johnson was out of danger.

Becker Coffin Plate Accusing Gov. Whitman Removed by the Police

New York, August 1.—The police, it was announced tonight, had removed from the coffin of Charles Becker a silver plate placed there by his widow on which was inscribed the charge that the former police lieutenant, electrocuted Friday, was "murdered by Governor Whitman." Mrs. Becker was informed by the inscription was a criminal libel on the governor and was prevailed on to permit its removal.

PROHIBITION BILLS BEFORE COMMITTEE

Unless That Body Acts Today Chairman Will Resign and the Measures Will Be Dead for Year.

With the house plunging along on the appropriations bill, interest will center in the meeting of the house temperance committee, which is set for 9 o'clock this morning.

For the entire session the temperance committee of the house has been unable to agree upon a recommendation for any of the various prohibition measures which have been assigned to it, and Judge W. W. Stark, representative from Jackson county, chairman of the committee, has called this meeting as a final and supreme effort to produce results. Judge Stark has gone so far as to declare that unless he can get a recommendation of some sort from his committee this morning he will hand in his resignation as chairman. The prospects for passage of prohibition measures this year also depends largely on this meeting. Much interest, therefore, centers in this morning's session of the committee.

LEADING MINISTERS RALLY TO BEAVERS' ASSISTANCE AND SCORE POLICE BOARD

DEFENSE MAY CALL EVERY POLICEMAN TO WITNESS STAND

"We Plan to Show We Are Not Confining Our Witness to Men Friendly to Chief," Says Westmoreland.

ENGLISH IS INDIGNANT OVER ACTION OF CROWD

"Our Case Proved," States Hopkins—"Trial Has Demonstrated Groundlessness of Charges," Says Key.

SUNDAY'S DEVELOPMENTS.

Sermons scoring police board and lauding Beavers as efficient delivered by Dr. Dunbar Ogden, Central Presbyterian, Dr. C. O. Jones, Trinity Methodist, Dr. J. F. Purser, West End Baptist, Rev. William Sewell, Gordon Street Baptist, and others.

Dr. Ogden, Dr. L. O. Bricker, First Christian, and Dr. Jones appeal to voters to rally to cause of good government at union meeting of six churches held at Central Presbyterian.

Dr. L. S. Barton, Jackson Hill Baptist, addressing union meeting of congregations of Westminster Presbyterian, Jackson Hill Baptist and Grace Methodist, urges church members to mark for political death every commissioner voting against Beavers.

Rev. A. M. Hughlett, president of Ministers' association, and presiding elder Methodist church, gives out statement declaring Beavers should have support of all church members.

Congregations of three churches in College Park pass resolutions deploring campaign against chief. Prayers for best outcome of trial delivered by Rev. H. H. Harris, Wesley Memorial church.

Bitter criticism of the board of police commissioners for its action in putting Chief Beavers on trial was expressed in Atlanta pulpits Sunday.

In one instance a demand was made upon the public to arise and put an end to the melodrama that is being staged at police headquarters, and in another Dr. Charles O. Jones urged his congregation to "respect its rulers—if its rulers would be respectable."

ASKS MEANING OF EFFICIENCY.

"If all the church members of this city took their religion as seriously as some few do, such a shameful melodrama as is being enacted at police headquarters could not have taken place," said Mr. Sewell.

Atlanta's chief of police, the greatest, and, in many respects, the most efficient, the city has ever had, has been suspended, and for three nights in succession has been on trial on a charge of inefficiency. I would like to know, what this commission means by efficiency, and what assistance it has ever given to the police department or Chief Beavers.

It appears to a careful student of conditions in this city, as I have tried to be for the past five years, that for at least two years some of the police commissioners have been seeking an opportunity to decapitate Chief Beavers, and that, instead of seeking to make the police department efficient, they have tried to make it as hard for him as possible.

Many are made to believe that if Chief Beavers had confined his efforts to rounding up the crack-shooters and burglars of the city, and had not sought to enforce the law against vice, the saloons and locker clubs, this wrangle would not have taken place.

But when the chief began to impartially enforce the law, and had made cases against the glided lockers as well as the dens of vice, then he was accused. The whole matter seems to be out and dried by some of the members

RUSSIA GRIDS SELF FOR LONG STRUGGLE

First Sitting of Duma Promises Work to Meet Requirements of Army—Autonomy for the Poles.

Petrograd, August 1.—(Via London, August 2, 1 30 a. m.)—The first sitting of the duma today promised work aimed at promoting the production of military supplies and meeting military requirements, rather than oratory, re-ordinations or effort to discover those responsible for failure to realize earlier hopes.

The temper of the deputies was moderated, party differences were minimized, there was an absence of gloom or factitious enthusiasm. Speeches of the president of the chamber, M. Rodzianko, and the emperor were applauded from both the right and the left. The Polish people, the allies, the ambassadors and General Ruzsky, the commander in the Galician campaign, were cheered.

The outstanding feature of the session was the declaration in the name of the emperor by the premier, M. Goremykin, that the Poles shall receive autonomy.

Announcement that amnesty had been granted Vladimir Bourzoff, the revolutionist, who returned from Paris for hospital service, but was immediately arrested, was well received.

Russia Not Discouraged.
London, August 1.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says: "The duma was opened today by imperial ukase in the presence of a brilliant assemblage, including cabinet ministers and members of the diplomatic corps. Michael Gladkovitch, Rodzianko, president of the chamber, convening the session, said the more terrible the war became the more Russia was imbued by the firm and unshakable determination to bring it to a successful issue."

"This," said M. Rodzianko, "necessitates complete unity of all classes and the development of the productive resources of the empire."
M. Rodzianko made suggestions to the chamber to make suggestions to the government as to how this could be effected. The president greeted diplomatic representatives of the triple entente powers, who were cheered by members and by the galleries. The demonstration reached its climax when, in the name of the entire Russian people, Rodzianko thanked "our new ally, the brave Polish brethren, first to receive the blows of the automobile club."

"The army," M. Rodzianko concluded, "sets up a brilliant example on how to fulfill our duty to the country. It is now our duty to work day and night to supply this army with everything it needs, but to do that it is necessary to make changes. We will do this to the complete ruin of the enemy is accomplished."

Sergius Sazonoff, the foreign minister, after reiterating that all the evils done showed that Russia and her allies were not responsible for the war, reviewed the political situation. But he warned the members that it was difficult to touch upon problems "still under negotiation."

Striving for Common End.
There had been few changes, M. Sazonoff said, in the relations between Russia and her allies since his last address to the duma. Then combined action by the separate states had not been organized, but now the forces of each state were being employed to the best advantage in striving for a common end.

M. Sazonoff referred, amid cheering, to Italy's participation.
"The," he said, "long have wished to free their fellow countrymen from the foreign yoke. If the example of Italy had been followed by the other states it would have contributed to the speedy conclusion of the war. Nevertheless, the time for supreme decisions has not passed, and it is to be hoped that advantage will be taken of the time which still remains by those nations which other-wise cannot find a solution for their national problems."

Recently there has been much talk of the state of mind of Sweden. Our sincere desire to maintain with her the best of neighborly relations is well known to need any confirmation from the same time we are aware of the intricate relations which have caused to Swedish commerce through that country being situated in the midst of the belligerents. I constant myself with placing on record the correctness with which the Swedish government maintains its neutrality and safeguarding its national interests.

Anglo-Swedish negotiations proceeded at Stockholm while they are confined to business matters, have given proof of the undoubted desire of both sides to reach a settlement and we sincerely hope a successful conclusion soon will be reached."

German Methods of War.
Referring to German methods of waging warfare, M. Sazonoff said the Germans had stopped neither at the wholesale poisoning of our soldiers nor the extermination of our women, children and peaceful citizens whose cries could not fail to arouse sentiments of sympathy in the hearts of all men.

"These feelings," the foreign minister continued, "spread beyond the ocean to the United States, where the American feelings revolted against such horrible occurrences as the sinking of the Lusitania, which cost so many American lives. This attack, which has no parallel for cruelty or absurdity in an inextinguishable blot on the name of Germany."

"It is difficult to say whether more energetic measures will follow President Wilson's note to Germany, but it is already evident that American public opinion is demanding a more energetic action, in spite of efforts Germany is making to gain American sympathy."

Situation at Dardanelles.
Speaking of the situation on the Gallipoli peninsula, M. Sazonoff said: "The allies, with unshakable tenacity, see the approach of the longed-for moment when a close and solid bond will be established between us. The Turks, scenting the approaching storm, have endeavored to undermine the allies' will in their power with exceptional cruelty. The Armenians are suffering unnumbered persecutions, which, however, have not broken their spirit; for the Armenian volunteers are fighting with us."

"The execution of these horrible sufferings by the local Greek population, cannot but excite the indignation of the Hellenic people and government. The latter will have to solve the question whether it is capable of coming to the assistance of its fellow countrymen in Asia Minor without joining the forces fighting for right and justice. I do not doubt that the governments still neutral the governments will be found fully in accord with their aspirations, their vital interests and their past."

"I must refer particularly to the pressure Rumania has undergone at the hands of Austria-Germany. Despite their efforts, the Rumanian government is resisting temptation, and we continue with our country relations of friendship, the strengthening and development of which are objects of our reciprocal care."
M. Sazonoff concluded with a reference "to the miracles of bravery and devotion" of which Serbia had given proof.

1812 Is Recalled.
The war minister, M. Potvinoff, said: "At this moment the enemy is concentrating enormous forces against Russia and is successively enveloping the territory and military districts of Warsaw, the strategic contour of which always has been the weak point of our western frontier."
"Under circumstances we, perhaps, shall yield to the enemy a portion of this region, falling back on positions where our army will prepare for a resumption of the offensive. All's well that ends well, 1812 was proof of the fact that we shall perhaps give up Warsaw, as then we gave up Moscow, in order to insure a final victory."

M. Goremykin, the premier, after speaking of the enormous sacrifices entailed by the war, said:
"The government being firmly resolved to make all these sacrifices, has sent you to explain the real state of things and consult you regarding the means for vanquishing the enemy. The war has shown that we are not sufficiently prepared, in comparison with the enemy. To overcome him the whole development of our national forces is requisite."

Promise to Poland.
"This is not the time to set forth the program for the amelioration of the internal life of Russia in time of peace, which will be realized with your assistance, but I should like to touch upon the question—that of Poland—which cannot eventually be realized in full until after the war."
"In these days the Polish people should know that their organization was definitely and irrevocably decided upon by the manifesto of the grand duke, the commander-in-chief of the army, at the outbreak of the war. The Polish people, chivalrous, noble and faithful, deserve unlimited sympathy and respect. The emperor has charged me to declare to you that his majesty has ordered the cabinet to elaborate bills granting Poland, after the war, the rights to organize freely its national social and economic life on a basis of autonomy under the aegis of the emperor of Russia."

"Together with the Poles, the other nationalities of our great and immense Russia have exhibited fidelity to the mother country. Accordingly, our home policy should be permeated by the principle of impartiality and benevolence for all faithful Russian citizens, without regard to distinction of nationality, creed or tongue."
"Let us unite in the joint effort to which the monarch and I have pledged our government is firmly convinced that sooner or later victory will be ours and the faith in the whole of Russia. Let us unite in one single program—that of victory."

PLANS ARE APPROVED FOR BIG DESTROYERS
Washington, August 1.—Plans for six big cruiser destroyers, authorized by the last congress, have been approved. They will be the first vessels whose design has been influenced by the European Naval information from abroad was scrutinized closely by constructors before the plans were drawn, says a department statement.

The vessels will have a maximum sustained sea speed of 30 knots, they will displace 1,125 tons, measure 310 feet over all, have a width of 36 feet 7 inches and a mean draft of 8 feet. Each destroyer will carry four triple torpedoes, a 4-inch battery of four 4-inch guns and two 1-pound anti-aircraft guns. Bids for construction will be opened October 6.

DR. JACOBS TELLS OF RISE AND FALL OF PERSIAN EMPIRE

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe university, delivered the third of his series of special sermons at the Central Congregational church Sunday morning to a large congregation.

The appearance of the first Aryan nation in history—the Persian empire—was the subject of Dr. Jacobs' sermon, and beginning with a description of the physical Persia at the time, Dr. Jacobs briefly touched upon the legends and characteristics of the people.

He stated that the real history of Persia began with Kalkhoros, known to the Greeks as Cyrus, and with the conquest of the Medes and Persians under him.

The whole tragic but intensely interesting drama of the rise and fall of the old eastern nations, their rulers and the practices of their peoples was brought out by Dr. Jacobs until up to the time when Persia had reached a point where she could go no further, and the years of decadence with luxury, idleness and wealth began to tell on her people.

"It is the same mad search for pleasure," said Dr. Jacobs in conclusion, "which is the chief menace of our nations, our state and city today."

TROOPS TAKE CHARGE OF STRIKE SITUATION
Massena, N. Y., August 1.—Three companies of the state militia from Malone and Ogdensburg arrived here today and took charge of the strike situation at the plant of the Aluminum Company of America. In a last night one workman who refused to walk out was killed.

Sheriff Day, of St. Lawrence county, who was called to Massena at the first outbreak, was unable to control the strikers. With deputies and policemen he charged strikers at a bridge entrance to the plant, but was driven back. In his counter a policeman was severely clubbed.

Finding it impossible to control the 2,400 strikers, the sheriff called on Governor Whitman for troops, and the three companies reached here at noon. The strikers, harried behind the bridge, were charged by the troops and dispersed.

While there was promiscuous shooting near the factory, the militia took no part in it, the encounters being between strikers and employees who had refused to join them. The troops are expected to remain here until quiet is restored.

LABOR BODIES OPPOSE EMBARGO ON MUNITIONS
Washington, August 1.—After a two-day session here, a convention called by labor's national council and comprising representatives of organized farmers and labor bodies, adopted a memorial today to President Wilson, his cabinet and members of congress, asserting the convention's support of the national administration in every patriotic effort and using that every means be employed to keep the country out of the European war.

Oliver Wilson, master of the National Grange, presided.

Attempts of peace council delegates to pass resolutions urging congress to authorize the president to place an embargo on shipments of war munitions to belligerent countries, failed.

BUSINESS AND LEGISLATION.

Among the many helpful lines along which the Georgia Manufacturers' association, a comparatively new but comprehensive organization under its classification, is seeking to advance the interests of its members and business conditions generally, perhaps none is more important than that dealing with legislation.

Secretary W. W. Horne, of that association, calls attention in a communication published today to the fact that every session of the legislature now witnesses the introduction of many measures, and sometimes the passage of them, which throw unnecessary obstacles in the way of business progress, and which are sometimes "revolting to every sense of business propriety."

Unfortunately, the charge is true, not only as to Georgia, but of almost every other state in the country. Legislators too often appear to be impressed with the idea that they must regulate. Many of them put their views regarding business questions and problems in the shape of bills which they introduce, and whose passage they urge, more often than not when they are unfamiliar with or ignorant of the matters with which they deal.

In one way and another measures of this sort have, from time to time, gotten by and gone on the statute books. Others come along; some of them are passed. Each one, considered alone, may not be so serious or dangerous in itself, but in the aggregate they inflict an ultimate burden upon business which becomes too heavy for it to bear.

Conditions of this sort make it imperative that business men should organize for their own protection; that they should band together for the purpose of taking a direct and active interest in public affairs; for the purpose even of directing business legislation.

Notwithstanding individual legislators are frequently short-sighted in dealing with business problems, legislative committees and legislatures as a whole are usually broad and open-minded. There are men among them of weight and influence who are ready and willing to listen to business men and to throw the weight of that influence in the direction of business advancement.

It is this that makes the situation hopeful, that makes possible the preservation of an even balance. It is this fact, too, which opens the way for the legitimate activities of such organizations as the Georgia Manufacturers' association, whose officers and leaders, as men of integrity and influence, can show wherein certain measures are bad and others are good, wherein the legislature can really exert a helpful influence upon business, at the same time fully safeguarding the public, thus conducing to the prosperity and well-being of the whole state.

Every law enacted injurious to any branch of business exerts an effect which goes beyond the business itself. It reaches the employee, and its influence is felt in the home, often in the amount of food upon the table or clothing upon the back.

If legislators would think about this aspect of the matter and look ahead to ultimate effect, not only would they hesitate in the enactment of harmful laws, but, we believe, there would be an end to deleterious business legislation.

INSURANCE AGAINST WAR.

Developments in the European war affecting this country and agitation growing out of them for better preparedness on our part for any conflict that might be forced upon us, has opened the way for calm and thoughtful reception of President Wilson's request just directed to Secretaries Garrison and Daniels, of the war and navy departments, respectively, for a report upon a program of national defense.

No one would attempt for a moment to conceal, or minimize the rapid growth of public opinion in favor of a more extended and adequate system of national defense. In a position of natural security, with 2,000 miles of ocean on one side of us and twice that distance on the other, it has been practically impossible for us to foresee any set of circumstances which would make necessary a formidable navy or standing army.

Circumstances connected with the European war directly or indirectly affecting us have shown us how it may be possible for a quarrel to be forced upon the United States, no matter how peacefully inclined or how right their contention may be. We do not anticipate such an outcome; we have every reason to believe that diplomacy will find a satisfactory way out of every difficulty the European struggle has raised up for us, or that the future may bring.

Nevertheless reason has developed why we should consider and adopt a program of adequate defense. The public mind has come to believe it is now more necessary than ever, and it would be a means of establishing that mental tranquillity at home so essential to national well-being and progress.

Insurance against war is what we want, and it is all we want. Two factors in that insurance are our natural isolation and our well-established inclination to peace. We are not going to trample carelessly or wantonly on the rights of any other nation; nor are we going to flare up, as has already been demonstrated, when somebody does something to us, and hit them in the face.

The third factor in that insurance against war is, of course, a navy and an army, and principally, a navy, that will answer every purpose of national defense, whenever occasion might call for it. For aggressive purposes we need neither. Our important consideration then is, how far shall we build to make the national defense perfectly secure?

Among European nations that could attack us, having to come over here for the purpose, there is not one that will possess sufficient strength or resources to do it for years after the close of the present war. Nor do we believe there will arise occasion for any of them ever to attempt it. But, admitting the possibility of it, we should, of course, be ready for a successful national defense.

Every circumstance and condition surrounding us or that has arisen, however, furnishes abundant evidence that there is no occasion for hysteria upon this subject. There does not exist today any more reason than there did ten years ago why we should have the overshadowing navy of the world, or a standing army that would be a constant drain upon the national resources.

The Constitution believes in full and complete preparedness for national defense, but it does not believe we should even put ourselves in danger of the chip-carrying habit. Protection does not mean the cultivation of a military spirit. Let us have the armored cruisers and the dreadnaughts we need to keep the possible invader out; not enough to tempt us to cross oceans and lay waste the lands of others. Let them be well built and speedy; therein are the qualities of service. To this we should add a fleet of modern submarines which, strung out along the coast of either ocean, would give good account of themselves in dealing with any possible approaching enemy.

Our navy, our whole system of defense should be modernized and kept modernized. This is equally important with its growth—such growth as is necessary to afford us insurance against war.

There will be found wide differences of opinion as to the extent to which preparation should go within these general lines all the way from the demand of the jingo who would like to see this country the terror of the seas to the "peace-at-any-price" statesman, who would spike the guns and wet the powder. There is a conservative middle ground which would build for an effective defense. We should have that; it would be foolish, extravagant and dangerous to go beyond it.

People with the fire of genius, in search of a wider field, draw the line at ten acres under a summer sun.

They threaten to crowd the war arena so after a while there won't hardly be room to fight.

UNCLE JULES SAYS

NO MATTER WHATS IN STORE FOR YOU, YOU'LL GET TO THE END OF THE ROAD SOME DAY... AND REST WILL BE ALL THE SWEETER BECAUSE THE ROAD WAS LONG.

When a feller has the blues. 'Taint no use to ask his views 'bout the country—how it goes, Ef it hails, or ef it snows; Cotten up, or goin' down, 'World stopped still, or whirlin' round, Never cares for any news When a feller has the blues.

Sun may do his best to shine, Blossoms purple on the vine, Winds may sing in music sweet, Rivers ripple at his feet, And they whirl in, in boughs along, They may whirl in, in boughs along, World stopped still, or whirlin' round, But he's lonesome as you choose When a feller has the blues.

Then it is we know we're human, Then it is the smile of woman, Is the only welcome light, That comes twinklin' through the night, Ef that smile of hers has bound you, Ef you feel her arms around you, Be no happy as you choose, With "Good mornin' to the biges'."

Says the fair biographer of The Memphis Commercial-Appal: "It is one of the amazing things of life how a man going to a restaurant with an idea of pie and milk in his mind suddenly finds his appetite keen for roast beef, sliced tomatoes and a bit of watermelon or ice cream, when he meets a friend who invites him to lunch."

The Sweet Command. "Love thy neighbor as thyself," You read it o'er and o'er, By Love's dear hand, A sweet command, I love my neighbor more; I love her so that she shines, Kissing her red lips through the vines.

Love thy neighbor as thyself, I like that scripture sweet, I do fulfill, That scripture's will, With my heart's every beat, I love her as the glad winds race To roses, smiling in her face.

Love thou thy neighbor as thyself, Preach from the text no more! The broad sea's calm, Between our souls, And shore is far from shore! Yet still in grace our souls may grow Because we love our neighbor so!

The Homeward Way. The Bentzton Bard has this lyric of the homeward way: "Deny me all that men may crave, The power that turns the wheels of state; Crush me beneath the rolling wave Of delicate or desperate fate; Wrap sorrows round me as a gloom, And rob me of my even chance— Just so the green grass and the bloom Still in a little garden low, And that beside my window low, Some waiting face of cheer and light Leans with love's soft and gentle glow To greet me homeward in the night."

Delivers 53-Year-Old Message. (Laurel, Del.) Dispatch to The Philadelphia Record. A belated message, 53 years old, reached the relatives of the late James Rignin, in Laurel, last week, when, according to a promise made on the battlefield, William Thurston, a civil war veteran of Philadelphia, visited the relatives of Rignin in Laurel, and told of Rignin's death in the battle of Gettysburg, and his last message to them.

MANUFACTURERS TAKING MORE INTEREST IN LEGISLATION.

Editor Constitution: Your readers have from time to time observed that the news columns of your paper items of comment and information regarding the activities of the Georgia Manufacturers' association.

With more or less certainty the business man looks annually to having his attention directed, during sessions of the legislature, to the introduction and advocacy of measures in the general assembly that are revolting to every sense of business propriety.

Rocking the Boat. We have already been admonished by those in high places to rock the boat. This is an admonition universally approved and applauded. Unmistakably there is no evidence of disposition on the part of the business man to rock the boat.

Of Great Value. This bulletin service has proven of the greatest value to the industrial enterprises of the state in safeguarding the interests of the manufacturer against the enactment of many injurious laws.

Resolution on Lost Bills An Extraordinary Incident. Editor Constitution: The loss of senate bills 37 and 38, a few days ago, while in the possession of the committee on rules of the senate; the adoption of a resolution by the senate under which Senator Justice, clerk of the supreme court, was summoned to the senate chamber and the members of the rules committee made to declare on oath that neither of them knew how the bills were lost.

Bernhardt's Wish. (La Cri de Paris.) Madame Sarah Bernhardt (whose leg was recently amputated) is cured. To see her walk one could doubt that she had been maimed, thanks to the miracles of surgery and mechanics. She is much more courageous than her former self. She looks at her articulated leg and smiles. "It pleases me," she says, "and it would please me entirely if it should be celebrated by two of my best friends—one a poet and the other a painter. I wish that the adorable Edmond Rostand would celebrate it in a little poem and that my faithful Clairin would make it the subject of a beautiful drawing." Rostand and Clairin have been apprised of the wish of the grand tragedienne and it is said that they will not delay to respond to it.

Woman Suffrage in Old Georgia.

Woman Suffrage in Old Georgia. If some gentleman were to arise in either house of the Georgia legislature, and remark that for seventy-six years of Georgia's history the women of the state were perfectly qualified voters of the commonwealth, and could have constitutionally demanded the right to cast their ballots at any polling place in the state, that gentleman would be regarded as having suddenly parted with his senses.

That, of course, was done before the ratification of the thirteenth amendment, proclaimed December 18, 1865, as well as before the ratification of the fourteenth amendment conferring citizenship upon the negroes, which was proclaimed July 28, 1868.

Meantime, however, by order of Major General Meade, we had the Bullock constitutional convention of 1867-8 in Atlanta, which declared "all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and resident in this state, to be citizens of the state, and further provided that every such 'male person' as qualified 'shall be deemed an elector.'"

The fact I am trying to emphasize is this, that under those constitutions of 1788 and 1798 there was no restriction of the suffrage on the basis of sex.

Now, however, many good women are eager to exercise the elective franchise, but a constitutional barrier is in the way. As a woman obviously she cannot qualify as a "male citizen," and hence the polls are closed to her.

The arguments made against admitting her to the electorate are pitifully sentimental and futile of conviction. The arguments she marshals in favor of her demand for the franchise are as strong as Harvey's steel and are daily producing a wider and wider conviction among the men of the nation.

Failure to Exempt College Endowments From Taxation Will Be Calamity to State

Editor Constitution: If the constitutional amendment which submitting to the people the exemption of college endowments from taxation does not pass the present general assembly it will be a great calamity to the state of Georgia. It will be a great loss to the people at large, and to the best interests of the educational advancement of this state.

The educated men and women from these institutions build up the wealth of the state. They are the backbone of the state, and to establish them free of any charge to the state. It is only asked that the endowments which shall be used to educate our sons and daughters may be untrammelled by taxation, and that the state should bestow such endowments, when they are filled with untold blessings for the youth of Georgia.

The Atlanta Medical College. The Atlanta Medical College has blessed the state of Georgia since its beginning, in 1854. The illustrious roll of its distinguished doctors and surgeons have brought honor and credit to the state in medicine and surgery in this state.

Will Draw People Here. Besides, the establishment of large educational institutions will draw a great number of people to our commonwealth, who will be attracted by such advantages.

Our state will receive taxation on the wealth they bring. It will be far greater than any loss by exemption of taxation of college endowments.

It is only asked by this constitutional amendment that the question be submitted to the people. Who would deny the sovereignty of the people to vote upon this question? Can anyone say that he should determine this question rather than submit it to the people? Will he say that the people have a better right to pass upon this question? Surely they will have the right to do so! Let them have the opportunity for the best interest of the state and this people.

It will be a great blow to the educational advancement of the state if the constitutional amendment which submits the question to the people is denied. May it never be!

Twenty centuries. God only knows how many centuries more the fight may go on. "One thing is plain—our duty is to our present generation. Our opportunity is here now. We have a short working time, waiting time, and a reaping time. BULL MOOSE PARTY TO FIGHT NEXT YEAR

Victor Murdock Says Progressives Are Going in to Win—National Convention to Be Held Early.

Mount Pleasant, Iowa, August 1.—Victor Murdock, of Kansas, chairman of the progressive national committee, made the following statement today: "I have just completed a three months' personal canvass of the situation with the progressives in the central west and on the Pacific coast, and after making it I am ready to say that I believe that the progressives are going into the 1916 fight as a party, and to win."

Moreover, a meeting of representative progressives held this month in New York city, reported the same conditions in the east that I have found in the west, and they are lining up for the next battle. This also has the sentiment of the progressive national committee. We will hold our national convention early and nominate a ticket.

Battles Over Platforms. "The great convention of 1916 will not be over candidacies but will be over platforms. The storm will rage not in the committee on credentials, but in the committee on resolutions. The Bourbon republican leadership will not only insist on a stand-pat platform, but will insist on a stand-pat and unequivocal endorsement of the administration of William H. Taft, including the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill.

"LE DIABLE AU COR" FOR FRENCH SOLDIERS

Paris.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)—The president of the French republic regularly receives his copy of "Le Diable au Cor"—which might be translated "The Devil of a Snow"—one of the many newspapers published by the French soldiers in the trenches, addressed to him as: "Raymond Poincare, Captain of the Alpine Chasseurs."

"My Dear Comrade," he writes: "I thank you for sending me regularly 'Le Diable au Cor.' But I particularly thank you for sending it to me in envelope upon which, under my name, appears the title which is dear to me. The president has written the Alpine Chasseurs a letter to thank them, not alone for sending him their paper, but for the courtesy title they have given him."

"Every time I open such an envelope, I feel a little thumping of my heart and experience a great emotion in which joy and melancholy are mingled. I gain very happy in thinking that I am not really to be one of you, at the head of one of your valiant companies, in these terrible hours."

"I am not bound by other duties, how proudly would I don your uniform and go to the front with you, with you I almost yield to the temptation not to leave you."

"I am not bound by other duties, how proudly would I don your uniform and go to the front with you, with you I almost yield to the temptation not to leave you."
