Probable That Attorney General Grice and Judge Hart Will Go to Nashville

Following the introduction in the house of representatives of the legislature of Tennessee hy the Hamilton county delegation, a bill for the amendment of the city charter of the city of Chattanooga so as to give the city mutnorit to condemn any property of the railroads in that city except their main right-of-way, Governo, John M Slaton, of Georgia, held a conference baturday morning with Attornet General Warren Grice and Indge John R liart, state tax commissioner with a view to protecting the states property in Tennessee, which is the Western and Atlantic railroad, and against which the Hamilton county bill is directed.

The terminal property of the Westorn and Atlantic along Broad street in Chattanooga is estimated to be worth millions of dollars. The city of Chattanooga claims that these terminals are retarding the growth of the city and the city desires to condemn property, buy it and force the Western and Atlantic to seek terminals

The present bill has already had its first reading in the house and will very probably, come up for second reading some time this weak

FOR KAISER'S BIRTHDAY Amsterdam, January 9.—(Via London.)—The Prussian minister of state, according to a Berlin dispatch to the Telegraaf, has issued a notice that "in view of the seriousness of the times the greater public festivities, such as dinners, theatricals and dances should be postponed on the occasion of the forthcoming birthday of the kaiser, January 27.

"On the other hand," the notice continues, "celebrations appropriate to the significance of the day are contemplated for all creeds."

The Cologne Cazette says that the Germans in Vienna are planning to send by post a million postcards, bearing Empetor William's portrait, to the emperor on his birthday as a millionfold greeting. The Gazette deprecates the idea and hopes its proposers will abandon it.

El Paso, Texas, January 9.—General Francisco Villa today promised Briga-dier-General Scott of the United States

Francisco Villa today promised Brigadier-General Scott of the United States army that he would prevent further fighting on the international border, which has menaced residents of Naco, Ariz., for two months. At a conference at Juarez between the American and Mexican commanders, Villa assured General Scott he would have Governor Maytorena, who has commanded his troops at Naco, Sonora, sign an agreement drawn up recently by the American gerenal.

The Maytorena-Hill agreement, which Villa promises Maytorena will sign, substantially is as follows:

Naco, Sonora, shall be evacuated by General Hill's forces. Governor Maytorena and General Hill both promise not to occupy the town, which shall remain neutral territory and closed to commerce until some constitutional government is established in Mexico and recognized by the United States and until one of the contending factions in Sonora entirely dominates the other. Nogales, held by Maytorena, and Agua Prieta, held by Hill, shall not be attacked for any reason whatsoever. Maytorena's troops shall reture to Cananea or Nogales, and shall not mobilest the movement of the Hill forces from Naco to Agua Prieta.

General Villa is expected to return south to direct personally the campaign against Carranza forces in the east. General Scott will return to Washington, perhaps, after a brief lysis to Naco.

A Villa force will be detached to hold General Hill's force at Agua Prieta, but Patterson Arrives.

Governor Patterson arrived in the city last night in company with Dr. Banks, of New York. Dr. Banks was for many years pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church in New York. He is now giving all his time to Anti-Saloon league work.

Dr. G. W. Young, of Louisville, who also reached Atlanta Saturday, and who speaks in several churches today, will tour Georgia the coming week in behalf of law enforcement. After this itinerary he leaves for Little Rock, Ark., for a similar campaign.

Dr. Young is widely known in Georgia as a preacher on prohibition. For the last three years he was located in Atlanta as superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league and was only recently succeeded by the incumbent, Dr. George W. Elichelberger.

To Dr. Eichelberger belongs the credit for launching the movement in behalf of law enforcement that has absorbed the attention of the state last week, and which culminates Sunday in the Field day at Atlanta.

Six months have been spent in making the arrangements and in obtaining these speakers of national prominence and fame. In preparing for this campaign, Dr. Eichelberger has been aided by an office force of three experts and by a field force composed of the Rev. J. C. Solomon, the Rev. Flanders, of the Savannah district, and C. R. Williams, president of the Exchange bank, at Dublin.

ZUDORA GROWS MORE MYSTIFYING EACH WEEK

The most interesting situation is in the second iccl, where the men gamble for possession of the child.

BUSINESS IS GOOD, SAYS ARTHUR HYMAN

Arthur S H; man, president and general manager of the Hybar Film corporation, which has its headquarters in Atlanta, returned last week from a tour of the principal cities in the south, and brought back with him contracts for Hybar releases aggregating SEC 100

Mr Hyman was much impressed with the signs he saw of returning business revival. He declared that new motion picture theaters are being built in nearly all of the twelve cities he visited, and the owners of those already in operation, he savs, are reporting big attendance records since the first of the new year. All of which, Mr. Hyman declared, portends a general resumption to normal within a short time. The sensational film, "Should a Woman Divorce," shown at the Grand theater last week, is in great demand throughout the south, according to Mr. Hyman.

New York, January 9.—G. F. Stringer, Jr. junior member of the stock exchange firm of Stringer & Co., shot himself and died instantly in his office should also also be stocked. shortly after the suspension of the firm was announced today on the floor of the stock exchange.

To the sensational rise in wheat within the past few days was attributed the failure of the firm by C. A. Decker, its counsel. Mr. Decker said that Stringer & Co, had been badly caught on the short side of the market and had failed for about $160,000.

The firm of Stringer & Co. was organized May 23, 1912. It consisted of G. F. Stringer, Sr., and his son of the included in a blanket pardon, the gove same name. A few minutes before the opening of the stock exchange today, Stringer, Jr., left his own office and entered that of the Guanajuate Development company, in which the firm of Stringer the governor had prepared a special decree granting full pardons to those puroled since January, 1911.

Governor Blease signed the blanket pardon in red ink. He accepted as floor under a desk in the development company's office, with a revolver a few feet away. For more than an hour no announcement was made of Mr. Stringer's death. He had shot himself in the mouth.

The firm did a commission business of small proportions. For some years it had been interested in Mexican properties, especially mining companies. Unsettled conditions in Mexico, it was said, embarrassed the firm financially and its suspension was attributed primarily to that.

Secretary Lane said the Mississippi Choctaws had been to an unusual extent the victims of numerous extortionate contracts, and correspondence in many cases, he said, "indicated that contracts were obtained through missispressentations as to tacts and in some claimants who believed that the persons obtaining the contracts were government agents."

Representative Harrison's proposal to defer the distribution of $7,000,000 among the Choctaw Indians of Oklahoha until congress should have determined the right of Mississippi chains the was voted down in the house today, 79 to 50.

SALE OF THE DACIA NOT LIKED BY BRITAIN

Washington, January 9.—The status of the former Hamburg-American steamer Dacus, loading at Port Arthus, Texas, with cotton for Bremen, Germany, Is receiving official attention here, it was learned today, because of an intimation from the British government that this ship might be regarded as subject to seizure. The questions involved are of great importance not only to Americans seeking to purchase interned German merchant ships, but also to southern cotton interests, now exerting every effort to find imeans of placing the staple in European markets.

It is understood the British embassy has acquired information indicating that the sale of the Dacia was not bona fide. This fact, if established, would be regarded as sufficient grounds for the British government to raise the broader question of the right of the American government to confer registry on any merchant ship belonging to a belligerent after the outbreak of hostilities.

SOARING WHEAT PRICES NOT HELPING GROWER

Washington, January 9.—Smaller loaves of bread or an increase in the price is one likely result of the rise in wheat, in the opinion of Charles J. Brand, chief of the federal bureau of Brand, chief of the federal bureau of markets.

Moreover, Mr. Brand believes the American farmer will not be a first-hand beneficiary of the soaring prices. With good prices and good markets which have prevailed for the last few months, Mr. Brand believes a major portion of the 1914 wheat crop no longer is owned by the farmers, but has passed to the hands of the elevator men and the grain dealers. No statistics have been gathered to support that view, but officials of the department say experience and practice warrant such a conclusion.

Manager Billy Smith, of the Crackers, did not return to Atlanta yesterday morning, as expected He will arrive Monday morning, being delived because of some personal business. Bill will be the busiest little man in Atlanta upon his return, mapping out the affairs of the Crackers for the coming season.

First and foremost, he will have to attend to the figuring out of his contracts for his players and getting that maled to the prospective candidates before February 1. If they do not spring training.

Then Billy will have the work of a sewer that has been a bone of contention and a disgrace for the risk several seasons.

The poor weather of December made to be working on the sewer a matter of impossibility and the work will have to be rushed to be completed in time before February 1. If they do not spring training.

Now is The Time Your Overland

TINODAY motoring is popular the year around.

The old fallacy of not geting your new car before spring is a thing of the past.

In fact motoring right now is far more beneficial and much better sport.

So get that notion out of your head—make up your mind to get a car now—and listen to why it should be an Overland.

Price considered, the Overland has greater value than any other car in the world.

That's a big statement but, nevertheless, a fact.

To begin with, the Overland has the high tension magnetothe most dependable and uniform system of ignition. Many cars have only the cheaper battery ignition.

It has larger tires than many cars of our price. They are 34 inch x 4 inch all around.

Then there is the simple driving arrangement. All electric control buttons are located on the steering column. On many cars the control buttons are located on the dash which is unhandy and often mighty inconvenient.

In bad weather the Overland can be made just about as comfortable, cozy and snug as a closed car. The side curtains fit perfectly and give complete protection from draughts, rain or snow.

The list of Overland advantages is long—too long to give here.

Our dealer will gladly explain' and demonstrate everything.

Remember-now is the time for motoring.

SENIORS TIE SOPHS

In the third round of class football games at Tech, the seniors fought the sophs to a 0-0 tie and the freshmen succeeded in trouncing the subs, 13 In the senior-soph conflict the former team put up a much stronger fight than anyone had expected. They came of a victory.

The soph team did not put up the class of ball that it exhibited against the juniors. Their team work was rather off and there'seemed to be very little pep in their play. They were able to make very few first downs until they started their march to a goal in the last period.

For the seniors, the work of Montogue, Smith, Riefsnider and Crutcher featured. Montague and Smith did good work on the offensive, while Riefsnider and Crutcher were the mainstays on the defensive.

Myers did the best work for the sophs. He was practically the only man who was able to make gains, at times ripping off some, nice runs. Bird and Harkins broke up a number of the line and nailing the runner for a loss.

The process of readjustment is about completed. The shock that shut down the portals of trade and dammed up this big cash asset is passing. The locks to the dam are slowly raising. Cotton is flowing out. Gold is flowing in!

Within the next week or two the process will be facilitated. The south is liquidating debts, and putting on more speed each day. The south, even now, is getting back to normal. The district managers of both Bradstreet's and Dun's report less failures in the south, in proportion, than in any other part of America. And this, despite the stampede following the European war and the need for readjustment.

A PARTY WARNING.

The headquarters of the republican national committee in Washington has issued an analysis of the recent fall elections, in which it is sought to establish that had the contest been upon national issues alone the republicans would probably have won. The statement also claims that democratic success was made possible only by the intervention of the remnants of the bull moose vote which, the prophecy is made, will by the time of the next presidential election be absorbed into the republican

The estimate is partisan, of course, but it is uncomfortably close to the truth in some respects. Undoubtedly the scattering bull moose vote cast in the fail elections helped the democratic party to retain its hold on the house. The bull moose vote was not the only factor. In this country there is a reluctance to swap horses while crossing a stream or, in other words, to repudiate an administration while there are dangers of foreign complications.

After all this is said, it stands out that there is today virtually no third party in this country. From present indications it will not be revived in any formidable numbers by the time 1916 rolls around. The democratic party cannot, therefore, count on the kindly intervention of the bull moose, as it did in 1912 or 1914. Unless all signs fail, it must stand or fall upon its own record, and the merits or demerits thereof.

These facts are recognized at Washington, as is shown by the pressure the president and his advisers are bringing to confine congress to a short and businesslike session and sound policies. The people have given the democratic party a tentative vote of confidence, shown a willingness to let the administration finish out its term to the tune of a "square deal" and congressional support. Whether that vote of confidence is to be extended over another term of four vears depends much upon the course of the democratic party in congress.

A TAX REFORM PIONEER.

The legislature of Virginia is meeting in extraordinary session to wrestle with and, if possible, solve, the problem of tax reform. It is significant that Governor Stuart, of that state, in his inaugural message, recommended tax reform, or equalization, patterned almost verbatim upon the law that has succeeded so admirably in Georgia as to disarm even its most virulent critics. Governor Locke Craig, of North Carolina, is, at the same time, recommending to the legislature of his state that the tax commission be given plenary powers to compel the listing of personal property for taxation.

In nearly every American commonwealth, and especially in the south, the issue of tax reform is a perennial and pressing one. Southern states have been particularly remiss in the matters of fiscal management and taxation. As a result, public credit here and there has suffered, and when necessity arose for state loans financiers would only advance money, in many cases on short time notes, and even then at expensive interest rates. This is not to reckon with the manner in which state administration and the development of state institutions, such as schools, etc., have been embarrassed by the increasing disparity between need and income. And it is not to reckon with dissatisfaction of the average citizen at antiquated and unjust tax Not one dollar from mineral wealth, systems, which exacted undue levy from certain classes and let others off with a modicum of what they should pay.

Contrasted with these widespread southern conditions. Georgia has reason to be proud of her tax equalization law, enacted Since the editorial was written the value summer before last against much opposition

The demagogic attempt last summer Plans had been made based upon 12 and | to inject it into politics fell flat. And so obviously fair and equitable is the law, toward the small as well as the large taxpayer, that the legislators who originally were the law's bitterest opponents eventually became its staunchest friends. The plan to repeal it died a-borning.

We review these facts for the benefit of our sister states, now confronted with troubles Georgia is gradually putting behind her. In genuine tax equalization, not yet perfect, but a far step in that direction, Georgia is the pioneer state in the south.

A GOOD YEAR FOR "ADS."

In a personal letter written recently, one of the biggest corporation heads in America

This (1915) is going to be a record year in newspaper advertising and all forms of publicity, or I misread the sense of the average business man. We are recovering from the shock of the European war. We are about to enter an era of expansion. Publicity helps expansion, is a first aid to every going business and puts ginger into trade. The house that cuts down its 1915 advertising appropriation is saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung.

These views are thoroughly sound! The

These views are thoroughly sound! They apply to business not only at home, but abroad. The day when advertising was considered experimental or a luxury belongs in ancient history. The publicity expert and advertising are as much the assets of the modern business as its good name, its bills receivable or its stock in trade.

Economies elsewhere may be reasoned out and justified on a basis of logic. Economies, or a surfeit of them, in advertising means simply that the house practicing them will be at a disadvantage with its more enterprising neighbor. It is well, too, to remember that advertising now may be done not only with an eye to the present, but the future as well. This principle applies intensively to the southern states. The belligerents in Europe are clamoring already for cotton. That is one of the chief commodities which has not been declared contraband. Corton is moving with increasing speed, and at higher prices, in the south. All this spells the oncoming of prosperity in every channel of business, since we have not as yet sufficiently divorced ourself from the dominion of cotton to discount its effect on southern business

The principle applies, too, to the eastern and western firms doing business in the south. Money is flowing into this section, Its needs are accumulating. The shadows of the past are being forgotten. Confidence is re-enthroned.

The lesson of all this is that the house in Atlanta, Chicago or New York, that wishes to take full advantage of conditions will not neglect printer's ink. Now is the poorest time in post-bellum history to be guilty of that error.

AMERICA NEEDS A "BOOK."

With all the old world nations, and even our old friend Villa, issuing "books" colored "white," "green," "blue" and every shade of the rainbow, and setting forth their respective causes to the world, America needs also a "book." We are in no hurry about it and in no panic about it. But it would be refreshing if some competent congres sional or other source would collaborate and reconcile the widest divergent views as to the naval and military needs of this country that have sounded forth from Washington.

The idea is suggested by the remark of Rear Admiral Knight, before a congressional committee, that disparities of army and navy needed "reconciling." We are not so sure about that. But we do know that the discrepancies in reports from Washington as to the vulnerability and invulnerability of this country, the poorness and the greatness of its pavy, the hope and the forlornness of its standing and reserve armies, has the average American hopelessly fuddled.

Sooner or later we are going to have to remodel or modify our military and naval establishments. That is sure as anything can be, but it will not come in its entirety, if congress and the president are wise until after the European war has given us the benefit of its lessons. The verdict may be for or against hig armament, for submarine or dreadnaught, or a combination These factor's are as yet unsettled.

But when the time comes for a decision it will be the taxpayer that makes it, and at present the taxpayer stands bewildered in the midst of a flood of conflicting information. There ought to be, and there doubtless is, some way to sift and edit this information, without bias: to take stock, so to speak, and let us know exactly where we stand from the naval and military and scientific points of view.

Therefore, give the country a "book," of whatever tint. The time to get busy on it is now, when the average reader is wide awake and information is on the bargain counter of every genuine and take expert in the

AN UP-TO-DATE IDEA OF INDEPENDENT WOMAN OF TODAY.

By Isma Dooly.

"The Independent Woman" was the theme Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, selected when he recently addressed the Alabama Girls' Technical institute.

The address, though brief, entirely, conrisely and practically handles a subject about which so much has been said without thought or reason that I should like to reproduce it here in its entirety.

When it is considered that Mr. Harrison so much represents the type of man who is their opinion of the "Independent Woman," as well as the southern woman, as she is today, he representing a family standing for the highest culture and achievement, his address becomes a contribution to the educational philosophy of the movement. Varied Opinions.

Too often when men discuss or write about women they argue from their knowledge of one element—the one they most dislike or the one they most idealize. Asked to express their opinion of the "independent woman," they will grow impassioned in a tirade against women voting. They will sentimentalize about the place women should occupy. and conclude with the noble sentiment: "No woman should work." The educational specialist will reason convincingly that no woman can be a good cook until she has advanced far enough in a college career to understand the science of chemistry, while some of our Georgia legislators have been heard to argue that women didn't even have to learn to cook, learning even in a direction so conducive to masculine comfort might destroy in some way that primitive ideal some noble sons of the soil hold in regard to women.

Neither one of these, the educational specialist nor the small town legislator, are philosophers. Both are arguing from the standpoint of what each one wants woman and neither reckoning with facts and conditions as they are.

If when men are arguing about what training a woman should have they would forget for a moment the matter of sex, and reason about woman as an individual and as an actual factor in the process of civilization, they might be able to argue in time about "The Independent Woman." As it is, it is only the man who sees the place of woman as the mother of the race, as the factor of civilization, and not as a segregated human something set apart to "stay put," while everything else evolves, who can rationally talk about what she really is, and what her training should be

The Right Viewpoint.

It is because Mr. Harrison sees woman in her place in relation to the world and civilization that he is fitted to discuss her in her relation to present-day activities. Whether it is better for woman to be invested with the new responsibilities crowding in upon her, studying the school question, the sanitation of the home and saving her money to buy a fireless cooker, or whether she should have gone on greasing her bair by the light of a tallow candle with the girls of the family around her while her husband and sons read by electric light in the next room is not the question. In the processes of evolution, woman's place has changed. It is not a defiant attitude created by woman herself, but the conditions around her have changed. Rather than obstruct the change or progress by an obstinate hold on traditions of the tallow candle variety, she has just been carried on cheerfully in the tide of events and become gracefully the "Independent Woman," and as such this splendld type must be helped in her courage and obligations.

The Change.

"There are those who deplore this hange," states Mr. Harrison after discussing the status of women at different periods of time and conditions which have changed the status of woman in the industrial constructive south. "They talk about the sphere of woman being in the home. So it is and always will be for the great majority of women. But limiting the sphere of woman to the home presupposes that each woman shall have a home and that the home shall be maintained. Unfortunately, this ideal arrangement cannot be brought about for all There will always be the woman without a man as a bread-winner or a pri ate income of her own. Under old conditions, if she was not to become a public charge, almost her only refuge was in domestic service. Now, if she has qualified herprogress will be largely dependent upon her ability and Industry."

With wisdom Mr. Harrison continues: "I should not be understood as decrying the training of woman for the home. On the contrary, I believe that should be an indispensable feature of the education of every girl, and I am glad to know that it is an important part of the curriculum of this students. school. Every woman, whatever her station in life, should be a trained housekeeper, Even though she may do little or none of the work with her own hands, she should! know how everything ought to be done, not only in the kitchen, but in the whole house, from cellar to garret, and should under-of household sanitation and hygienic living, of temper. With domestic science as a basis, the further education of a young woman should depend upon her individual circumstances. The college or university and the fashionable finishing school have their proper places. but there is a broad field of usefulness for school such as this, with courses designed to fit the girl to be a bread-winner. even go so far as to say that, in addition to being a trained housekeeper, every woman, chether she expects to have to support herself or not, should have such an education as will enable her to do so if the necessity one hears of, and change the conversation shall arise. She will face life with more confidence and will not be entirely helpless if the death of a man bread-winner in after years shall leave her penniless or with inadequate resources and possibly with tamily of children."

A Step Further.

"Every woman, whatever her station in life, should be a trained housekeeper' plain spoken but a great truth. I would go sten further and say that if this truth were applied to the training of the girl of today. there would not be the appalling number of munities of the country, and there would be to see that the old art of entertaining in the fewer children dying of preventable diseases, fewer women with nervous troubles and fewer men forced to subsist upon restaurant pre and skimmed milk for their midday meal. The Vision of Light

BY FRANK L. STANTON.

THERE was the shadow of old Despair In Time's gray chimney corner there: His patient and troubled eyes grew dim As the life-fire flickered its last for him: And he shivered to hear the far farewells Of the midnight winds and the morning bells; For he was brother to weeping years And his gift to the world was the gift of tears, And he heard the call of the Darkness far. Where never an angel flushed a star-

"The task is ended, the fight is done; Victory lost, or victory won; Where should the old and weary roam?-Over the hills of Night, come Home!"

A ND bending there to the fire's last gleams In the sad, gray ashes he hid his dreams. Nor knew, as one by one they died, That phantom-forms stood near his side-Ghosts of a thousand sleeping years Of love and laughter, and storm of tears. And they cried- gray guests of his life's last night: "There comes a herald of Morning light: Out of the darkness--up from the strife Over the jubilant hills of life! He waves his magical wand, and see The stars and suns of a world to be!"

A ND there was heard, by hill and glen, Shouting of captains and cheering of men; Not as of armies in battle-strife, But Life that thundered at Gates of Life! And the gates swung wide, and a thousand lights Of Hope and Courage flashed from the heights: Untrampled fields before them spread The answered prayer of a world for bread; And Love was Light, and Hate was dead.

And the ghosts of the years, with their comrade gray, Passed from the Vision of Light away, Under a heaven of stormless blue Passed, with the dream of a world made new; The bells of Hope to Heaven ringing And all the stars of Morning singing.

Constitution's Optimism Brief Is Lauded by New York Financier

J. H. Beals is a prominent financier of New York city, with investments of many descriptions and of country-wide scope. For many years he was one of the leading spirits of the American Press association. listed among the dominating news agencies n America. He is now retired, but keeps a personal supervision over his investments, including heavy holdings in Atlanta real estate. Incidentally, he is a regular reader of The Constitution, looking to it, as do many in his and all classes, for reliable news and

If some research work could be accomplished in the homes of these people who give rise to the hackneyed question. "Is marriage a failure?" it would be found that much of the "incompatibility" is due to badly prepared meals by an untrained, slovenly servant, while the young housekeeper (so-called) had to seek the "movies" for her interests, and soft drinks to quiet her nerves. More wholesome cooking at home and less light lunching uptown would do away with a great many of the soda water affinities of the social gathering from troubles servants to the more interesting one of how, despite hard times, Darby and Joan are happy at home.

A Problem.

I believe the greatest social problem that confronts us today is the inefficiency of the average housekeeper, not only the ignorant one of the "submerged tenth," but the more fortunate one of the upper ten. Both have the obligation of the home upon them; to hold it together and make it livable.

In the families of both are daily failures com- It does not require the old and experienced home is on the wane, because women trained in keeping the home in its dally program are unwilling to expose their short comings to the select company, among whom there are still the good housekeepers

HOW YOU CAN OBTAIN A TRIP

The plan evolved by The Atlanta Constitution whereby you can take one of these wonderful trips as outlined is as simple in understanding as it is easy of execution. Although The Constitution has a large circulation, there are some who at present are not subscribers. They want the Daily and Sunday Constitution, but have put off ordering from day to day. The Constitution desires your assistance in locating and placing these people on its subscription list, and for this favor you are to be liberally rewarded.

Points will be given on each new subscription payment to The Atlanta Constitution according to the schedule given above and after you have obtained the required number of points a wonderful trip to the greatest of all expositions will be yours.

You may nominate yourself or a friend as a candidate for one of these trips. The names of all candidates nominated will be published in The Daily Constitution from time to time, giving their respective standing.

Each candidate on nomination will be credited with 100 points free, and will be provided with an authorized Constitution receipt book. These receipt books may be had by applying to the Circulation Department of The Constitution. Each candidate obtaining one of these free tours may take the trip to San Francisco any time during 1915 he or she may desire. The exposition opens on February 20, and closes December 4, 1915.

Special arrangements have been made with the McFarland Tourist Agency to furnish the various trips we are offering and the starting point of all of the successful candidates will be Atlanta. For an additional 850 points $25.00 cash

For an additional 1,700 points. 50.00 cash And additional cash payments on the same basis.

We want to have it understood that our guests who take the Northern trip may have an opportunity to visit Yellow Stone Park on their return trip, yet, it is not included in our offer. This side trip will cost $55,00 extra, or 1,800 additional points, as fully explained in the description of trip No. 3.

Pike's Peak will cost $5.00 extra, or 200 extra points, and Crystal Park will cost $3.00 extra or 150 extra points.

Candidates are to understand that this is not a contest and the winning of a trip by one candidate in no way involves the winning of another candidate. There are enough trips for all, and any person who obtains enough points, as outlined above, will receive a trip regardless of the work accomplished by other candidates. Any candidate who secures one-half of the required number of points to earn one of these trips and who is unable to continue the work, will be given credit pro rata for his or her points registered, and can, by paying the difference in cash, receive the trip offered; or any candidate who fails to win a trip will be paid a cash commission of 10 per cent if the amount of new business is under $100.00, and 20 per cent if the amount of new business exceeds $100.00 of his or her total collec-

The Constitution does not expect something for nothing, nor does it desire to involve the good people of this vicinity in any plan resulting in remuneration for some and loss for others. By this plan the candidate is at least sure of the commissions, although one of these trips is easily within his or her reach This subscription proposition is based purely on new subscriptions. Points will not be given on old subscriptions. Any combination of circumstances by which The Constitution does not gain a new subscription will be classed as old. Any candidate who deliberately tries to have old subscribers discontinue the paper and the paper sent to a different member of the family or a different person entirely, not connected with the family, yet at the same time taking the place of the old subscriber in order that the candidate may be given points, will be cautioned for the first offense and barred from being a participant for the second offense.

The Constitution is making this most liberal offer for new subscriptions, and new subscriptions only. Send in your nomination at once and request a Panama Trip Receipt Book. Make this opportunity your opportunity to see San Francisco, the two expositions and the many other points of interest as outlined above.

The Ellen Wilson Memorial

Mrs. Wilson's great desire, at the time of her death, was to educate and uplift the people in the mountain sections of the southern states. AN APPRECIATION OF MRS. PATTILLO

The closing of the year marked the closing of a life of rich content in the passing of Mrs. Pattillo, a life of wonderful usefulness and personal faith and warmest sympathy. She was a pioneer citizen of Atlanta, and her loyalty to its interests found expression in many forms of evic activity and wise counsel. She was a pioneer club woman, and her devotion to the work of women seeking extended opportunity for individual and community of women seeking extended opportunity for individual and community betterment found her aiding by her faithful attendance, co-operation and encouragement the great causes for which they stand. She was a loyal Christian, whose faith in the eternal verities was intellectually developed and spiritually discerned. Her belief was permeated with love, and out of it grew the lifetime service of worship and work in His kingdom. Trinity Methodist church knew that here was her first love and first duty, and no other form of activity in her varied. She loved her friends with the sweet, genuine interest and sympathy of one who knows the sacred value of commadeship, and somehow there was always a time and a bit of strength left to go to the various social gatherings that so eagerly claimed ther. So interwoven had her life been with whiat had been, the highest and best in the city's life, she shall be sally missed indeed. Had she not builded so wisely as she went in and out among us, readjustment would be difficult in these

OPEN-AIR ANNEX AT NORMAL SCHOOL SETS GOOD RECORD

Well, we re back once more from our holiday. We settled right down to our regular work.

The open-air annex has a wonderful record. Not a single child had a cold up until the beginning of the Christimas vacation. They all enjoy the openant very much. The two seven A grades have begun on the English history and find it very interesting. The normal deputment was present when the seven AA first sarted on the history, to see how a new study was taken up. The class brought out many good points of why we should study English history.

R. K. RAMBO INVITED TO MAKE AN ADDRESS

Meeting of Dress Fabric Buyers to Be Held in New York on January 19.

The Business Outlook for the Spring of 1915," is the subject assigned R. K. Rambo, of John Silvey & Co., in giving him place on the brogram of speakers at the meeting of the Jobbers' association of dress fabric buyers, in New York, January 19.

A letter extending the invitation to be one of the speakers, and assigning the subject has been received from Assistant Secretary Thomas A. Fernley, of the association, and urging Mr. Rambo to be present.

Mr. Rambo is now "getting his wits together" in an effort to make a bright—very bright—outlook, if possible. However, he is not quite sure that he will be able to attend, for business reasons, and in that case he says he will insist upon Mr. A. C. McHan attending the meeting, and taking his place on the program. He will attend if Mr. Rambo cannot.

The meeting on the 19th will be held at the Waldorf hotel, and a large number of buyers are expected to be present. It is the annual meeting of the association, and these are usually well attended. On account of the condition which have existed for the past several months, and the prospect now of a much improved condition, it is believed that a large number of buyers will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend and hear general discussions from men well posted in various sections of the country.

HOG JOWL AND PEAS

It remained for Atlanta to furnish hog jowl and Georgia peas for the New Year's dinner of a number of New Engiand families.

And it likewise remained for the progressive firm of the Camp-Grocery company to supply this supposedly lucky meal for our northern friends. Editor Firing Line: Our boys of Fulton council, 505, U. C. T., had a great time Saturday night, January 2. If was a regular meeting, but it was enlivened by a smoker, which furnished good cheer and good fellowship to such a happy extent that some of the boys believe we ought to have a smoker at each meeting.

Of course, we note and our business session, which was interesting, as all our meetings are getting to be lately—and as they are going to continue to be—and then everybody enjoyed "King's Court" elgars, so generously donated by Ed Morehead. The boys who enjoyed these excellent cigars will remember them a great deal longer than merely while smoking them. A rising vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Morehead.

Un a cheefful, optimistic resolution, wishing everybody a happy and prosperous 1915, the U. C. T.'s went on record as having their faces set to the rising sun, and when they left the hall a more optimistic crowd, of salesmen never went out to do battle for themselves and their employers.

We are getting so much good out of our meetings, and there are so many things of interest coming up for discussion, that it behooves every member to be present. On our next meeting night, Saturday, January 16, we would like to see every seartaken. Come out if you want to help and be helped. Respectfully

W. G. MOORE, Chairman Press Committee.

CROCERS AND RIITCHERS

That he might live to the ripe but active age of his grandfather was the wish expressed the other day by H. B. Bell. publicity man. for the John Deere Plow compaby, as he read in the press where Harrison Johnston, the oldest Elk in the world, was celebrating his one hundredth anniversary.

Mr. Johnston is a native of Virginia, but is now living at Columbus, Miss. He is Mr. Bell's grandfather. He celebrated his one hundredth anniversary with a big dinner to a humber of relatives and friends, and though Mr. Bell would have liked to, have been present he could not attend for business reasons.

He says his grandfather is still quite will occur the election of officers for the ensuing year.

A large attendance is expected and requested. A nominating committee will report the names of the officers elected, which is equivalent to an election. O. T. Camp has for the past two years been at the head of the organization, and has notified the committee that he does not again desire the place. But so successful have his administrations been that many of the members are predicting and hoping that the committee will insist upon his serving them again. The association is planning much important work for the coming year. Particularly is it the intention of the officers to co-operate more closely with the City Salesmen's association and with the manufacturers and jobbers of the city, especially in the matter of pushing home-made products.

HERE'S THE REAL THING

Here's the big overalls you read about a week or so ago. In them you can see the owner, R. F. Gibbs. The picture was sent us by Percy Harris, who handles South Carolina territory for the A. M. Robinson company. Mr. Harris gives the following dimensions of his big customer. Weight, 426; height, 5 feet 10 inches; shoe, 10; age, 58; hat, 8½. Mr. Gibbs is a gatekeeper at Southern railway crossing in Spartanburg. His father weighed 250 pounds, his mother 500. His father lived to be 109 years old and his mother died at the age of 98. A big family reunion was held in North Carolina during the holidays, and 147 children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren were present. Mr. Gibbs, like a great many other working men, dons himself out in "Aragon" overalls, which, by the way, have always to be made to measure for him.

There were no "ins" at Fain & tamps Saturday. Every salesman was aking advantage of the pretty day, and all were out hustling for business. Olin Stamps is getting smitten with the road. He was out most of last week covering territory formerly covered by J. C. Owens. He had a delightful trip, did a splendid line of business and was, in fact, so well pleased that he is going to spend practically all of next week on the same route.

next week on the same route.

C. L. Freeman, representing the Cheek-Neal Coffee company, of Nashville, was in this territory all last week. He spent most of his time with P. S. Browniee, of E. L. Adams company, and many nice orders for his coffee was handled during the week by the distributors.

Morris Croft, the West Point road man for Ragan-Malone company, is sending in some elegant orders these days.

Herman Teitlebaum, who takes the territory in North Carolina for Hirschberg company, has his sample case packed, and leaves Monday for that state.

R. B. McWhorter, of Ridley-Williamon-Wratt company, put over a fine opening order last week. He brought his customer into the house, and when the selections were through Mack had filled several pages in his order book.

"All our men are out on the hustle—this weather is too pretty for them to stay in the house," soid Vice President Yates, of Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company Saturday. "They have just begin to have a good start for the new year, and many of them are being heard from with nice orders."

Saul Hertz is the new acquisition to Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company. He was getting his samples ready Saturday, and will cover territory in Alabama, where he has traveled for the past six years for another large house. The boys on the firing line wish him much success.

Among the "ins" at Brown, Perryman & Greene company Saturday were J. A. Bates, C. D. Dickenson, A. N. Greene and J. O. Chambers... All the rest of the boys were out on the firing line, and were sending in nice orders. Russ Bates was trying to catch up with his correspondence at the J. K. Orr company Saturday. He will be out on his territory again Monday.

After a short close-down which is usual at this time of the year to take inventory, the J. K. Orr shoe-factory is again running full force. Banks Whiteman and George S. Smith are among the travelers who have been giving good accounts of themselves since they hit the road this year for John Silvey & Co.

A. D. McLean, manager of the Atlanta branch of the Liquid Carbonic com-pany, is spending a few days in Chicago

T. W. McNan, who looks after South Carolina territory, with headquarters in Greenwood, for John Silvey & Co., after spending several days here dur-ing the holidays, has gone back to his "stamping ground."

H. Y. McCord, of McCord-Stewhart company, leaves Tuesday night to spend a few weeks on his annual trip with the Homosassa Fishing club, in

F. H. Corry, who returned to Tifton with his bride after the holidays, is getting down to business these days for John Silvey & Co. At least, that's the opinion of those around the house, judging from the number of good orders he is firing in right now.

Sidney Johnson, of the house force of John Silvey & Co., is still confined the Robinson sanitarium, suffering with rheumalism. He hopes, however, o be out again in a week or so.

J. N. Alexius, representing M. Stach-elberger & Co., is spending several weeks in the city looking after the in-terests of his company, A. T. Stevens, Central of Georgia traveler for the John Deere Plow com-pany, is in the city for a few days.

"We have been very busy in the house the past week," said Walter Barnwell, of Ragan-Malone company, Saturday. "We have been getting in much of our spring lines and rearranging our stock, making good displays of new goods. We have also been installing lace cases, which have been in winter quarters, and rearranging our third floor."

R. M. Tallichet, of the Porto Rican American Tobacco company, is here just now, and will be here for several weeks, pushing the sales of Portinas. Joseph P. Skelly arrived in the city Saturday to take the place made vacant when lke Reinheimer moved to Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Skelly has been representing the American Cigar company in southern states east of Georgia, and comes to this section highly Increased Membership Will Result From Meeting Held on April 8 and 9.

The meeting of the Georgia posts of T. P. A., which occurs in this city April and 9, gives promise of much stimulus to the order in this city.

The executive board of the state organization recently met in Savannal, and upon invitation of the Atlanta member of the board, it was decided to make Atlanta the meeting place for this year. About 200 delegates and visitors will be here at the meeting, and a hig time is going to be given the travelers by the members of Post B on that occasion.

The business sessions last about two days, interspersed with some joyous occasions, and the delegates usually remain over a day to put in twenty-four hours of good sight-seeing. At the next meeting of Post B, the last Saturday night in January, every detail looking to the entertainment of the visiting travelers will be made, committees appointed, etc.

The present officers of the Georgia organization are J. M. Giddens, of columbus, and Albert Ehrlich, secretary, of Savannah. The state headquarters always follow the home of the secretary, and in the event of the re-election of Mr. Ehrlich, Savannah will still be the headquarters. Atlanta was for many years the headquarters, and while this city would likely there will be any change in that respect.

Always preceding the state meeting, there is much hustling for an increased members are going to show the meetings are to be held, and the Atlanta members are going to show the hoys something good along this line when they meet here.

W. E. Colton, representing the Havana-American company, has been touring the territory hereabouts with T. B. Lewis, of the Capital City Tobacco company. Several nice orders coming in for Principe de Gales attest the good work he is getting in. Ed Lonsberg, of the Binder Picture Frame Manufacturing company, leaves Monday for an extended business trip through the southern states.

In order to prepare for the annual acting of the Southern Wholesale Dry tooks association, which meets in meeting of the Southern Wholesale Dry Goods association, which meets in Nashville, in May, R. Dr. Taylor has been connected with the John Deere Plow company for a number of years. His lecture on soll cultivation and up-to-date methods of farming are said to be highly instructive and interesting, and the speaker always adds enough spice to make his talk a genuine treat to his hearers. There are in Atlanta a number of business men who own and superintend, at least in a measure; farm lands, and to these especially it is figured that his lecture will, prove of much value.

This will be the first meeting of the Ad Men for the new year, and the members are working to make the lecture Thursday night a success in every way.

The only attendants were Miss Katye Harris, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Mr. Oscar Jolley, as best man.

As Napoleon raced back from Spain on lathered horses in the opening mouth of the year 1809, the flames of the Spanish revolution, bursting forth with new fury, lit up the southern sky behind him, while the campfires of the Austrians blazed before him in the northern'sky. He was caught between two great wars, and must now take two great wars, and must now take up arms against the sea of troubles whereon he was to battle for six-years with the ever-rising waves of disaster which at last were to dash him upon the rock of St. Helena.

Austria had no new points of quarrel, no fresh provocation to war. She to ight simply because she thought she was ready, after four years of diligent.

preparation, to renew the fight she had lost at Austerlitz, and because she flattered herself that, with 250,000 soldiers hotly engaged in Spain, her adve sary was unready. The hour had struck, so the Aulie council of Vienna calculated, to regain some of the many lards sacrificed in seventeen years of disastrous warfare.

THE CURTAIN RAISER.

Metternich, who was eager for the style, was the Austrian ambassador at Paris, and Napoleon said of him that he was "almost a statesman; he lies very well." It was Metternich's congenial part to put forth his utmost will in deception to divert Napoleon with assurances of peace with the time with assurances of peace until the time came to fall upon him in full force and came to fall upon him in full force and take him unawares. The emperor made the crafty ambassador's task light by receiving with the simplest credulity his protestations and reiterations of friendship. But behind the scenes of that little farce Napoleon was busily moving the varicolored pins on his mans until he had assembled in Germany and Italy not far from 300,000 men of many nations, ready to meet an equal force, which Austria had been quietly bringing to her colors. In order that the deceivers might not be undeceived, he went about his business of enpire in Paris as usual until an April afternoon, when his semanphore telegraph brought him the expected news that the Austrian army had stolen across the placid river Ing. the dead line in all the Franco-Austrian wars in the valley of the Dambe.

Danibe. Vith Josephine beside him in his coach he started for the front at 4 o'clock the next inorning. After leaving the Empress at Strussburg and couriers were spurring their horses in every direction with orders designed to unite the army. "Activity!" "Activity!" "Rapidity!" he scrawled in a post-script to Massena. The hills and valleys everywhere rang with salvos announcing to the soldiers that the great captain had come.

There followed one of the most brilliant weeks in Napoleon's inflitary life, at the end of 24 hours he had reformed his disrupted army in the presence of the enemy, and he continued to draw his dispersed legious together until they were massed in a front only 16 or 17 miles wide. Already he was on the offensive.

THE EMPEROR WOUNDED. \ After fighting four or five battleasin as many days, Napoleon stood, at the brink of the meat around the medleval walls of Ratisbon, when he was struck in the right heel by a long-range Tyrolean ridle. It was a painful sting, and he leaned on Marshal Lames, but the surgeon quickly dressed, the wound, while the imperial patient sat on a drum. Napoleon assured to a drum. Napoleon assured trivial accident and that the ball "scarcely razed the tendon Achilles." But it was the first time within the knowledge of his soldiers that their emperor had received even a scratch, and the troops forgot the fire of the for when they saw him wounded him, and s broke ranks and surrounded him.

o'clock the next morning. After leaving the Empress at Strassburg and miking calls on two kings along the way, he arrived at the headquarters of his army in 97 hours. The distance by rail is about 500 miles and the time by extess train today is 20 hours.

NAPOLEON AT THE FRONT.

A BRIDE BY CAPTURE.

The next, day a mighty explosion shook Vienna like an earthquake and left its walls in ruins. Napoleon, not saxisfied with the reduction of the Austrian army, had also ordered that the Austrian cupital be dismantled. The Viennese were greatly outraged by the blowing up, of their ramparts, but time and art have healed the wound. For where the ugly bastions once rose and encircled the town, the ring, that unique and beautiful promenade, now winds its noble way, and is become the proudest boast of the present-day Vienna.

As Napoleon was leveling the old wall of Vienna, a new wall was being raised in France. Orders had come from him while he was at Schonorunn that the private passage between his apartments and the empress in the Palace of Fontainebleau should be closed, and the doom of Josephine. The conquest of Europe baving been completed, the conquery determined at last to divorce his wife and seek in a new union an heir to perpetuate his empire.

The walls of Vienna still lay in a heap four months (after the French emperor's departure from the city when Berthier, prince of Wagram, climbed over them to demand from the Emperor Francis another prize of vietory, the hand of his daughter, the Archduchess Marie Louise, in marriage with Napoleon. Wilkerson is seeking sold for the sake of g woman John Door, the mining engineer in whose charge Buth was left, is size fighting to find the secret which Thomas Gallon apparently took with him to his grave

John Dorr stood stupidly staring at the papers which he had found in the locked drawer of the dresser. His brief inquiries at the desk had only served to make the matter darker; so he had come back to the room to puzzle things out.

Painfully he set the facts in order before him. The first was that Ruth had gone to New York to deal with Everett about money for improvements to the Master Key. The second was that she had evidently not been able to find Everett and had started West again. The third was that she had been in this very room: there lay the papers that represented the mine and its value. But howwhere-how could it be?

His businesslike senses returned and he proceeded to wire Everett's office in New York, with the result that he was soon in possession of his address in San Francisco.

"So Everett's here, too," he muttered. "That is stranger yet. I guess it was time I dropped in. Now to find Ruth!"

He thrust the packet of papers in his pocket and then withdrew them and locked them again into the dresser drawer. He had a dim notion that Ruth might come back for them. Then he telephoned to the St. Francis hotel and left word for Everett, who was reported to be out.

Still following what his common sense told him was the logical method of unraveling the tangle he went down to the desk and entered into conversation with the clerk. Meanwhile his eye ran down the register. Opposite the number of the room he now occupied he saw a heavily scrawled "Mrs. J. Darnell and Daughter."

He frowned and the clerk said sympathetically, "You must have a nasty headache?"

"I have," John returned. "Met with an accident in an auto that rather upset me." He laid his finger on the register and controlling his voice, went on, as if casually, "I see Mrs. Darnell stops

To Dorr's secret amazement the clerk became mysterious, leaning across the desk to whisper, 'Ah! you know her

"I wanted specially to see her," John equivocat-"Is she here?"

"She is not, and she left in a very strange way." the clerk explained quietly. "She came, here last evening with her daughter. I gave them the room you have now. Along in the late hours she suddenly came down with the girl unconscious and told me that she had been t was hurrying her to a hospital. There were a couple of men with her and the house detective didn't like the looks of the whole affair, so he followed them."

"Was the girl very fair-haired and-and beautiful?" Dorr managed to ask in an indifferent tones "Precisely," responded the clerk, suddenly matching his guest's manner. "If you want to find Mrs. Darnell maybe the house detective got her address-or the address of the hospital they took the girl to." Presently, in response to a summons, appeared the detective, who scanned John's somewhat bruised face thoughtfully, saying nothing until the clerk explained that Mr. Dorr wished, if possible, to get into communication with Mrs. Darnell.

'The best I can do is to find the taxi driver for you," he said slowly, still studying John's stalwart figure. "He may be out on the stand now. Let's

As they passed out the detective continued, hesitatingly, "Do you know Mrs Darnell very well?" There was that in the man's tone that made John pause before answering. He glanced at the'

cool, impassive face and caught the glint of the steady eyes. He took a sudden resolution. "I believe vou're really interested in this matter," Dorr said, briefly. "Suppose we talk this over before hunting the taxt chauffeur?"

"I was merely curious-that's all," was the noncommittal murmur.

"That girl is not her daughter," John continued. "I have reason to believe that it is Miss Ruth Gallon, the heiress to the Master Key mine, whom she is abducting." His passion blazed forth in spite of his self-restraint. "I must find her and mave her!"

Might I ask what relation you are to the young lady?" asked the detective mildly.

John stared at him and then realized the oddity of his actions and words. He briefly explained his position at the mine and his wardship of the heiress. He also went into detail as to what he suspected Wilkerson of, describing him carefully.

"He was one of them, sure enough." agreed the detective. "But young heiresses ain't being kidnaped days like these out of hotels like this."

"I may be mistaken." John assented wearily. "All I know of Mrs. Darnell is from occasional words dropped by Wilkerson. But I suppose we might get a clue as to where they went, anyway." After some search of the long line of taxis they came to one which the detective identified as the one arrs. Darnell had taken the night before.

The chauffeur shook his head. "You can search me for the address, he returned. "There wasn't any. "What do you mean?"

The driver leaned out from his seat and went on earnestly, "You know how they jumped in and we rolled off. Well, it seemed it was a case of life and death, according to the woman, and I stepped on the machine and hastened some toward the North Pacific hospital. But when we got into Chinatown one of the men halled me and told me to drive just as he said. He got out here in front with me. And when we reached a certain spot they all beat it."

"Can you take us to that spot?"

"I was just wondering to myself whether I could find it," was the response. "But I'll try."

Sing Wah and His Wiles. Sing Wah, or Wah Sing, as he was indifferently called, was outwardly a stolid, dull-eyed Chinese of uncertain middle age. His picture it was in the gallery of every secret service office from Singapore to Rhiladelphia-was not less changeless of expression, nor more taciturn than he. Yet in spite of his somber clothes and general air of blank stupidity, Sing Wah was a man of mark, a man with a history replete with adventure and, not too seldom, with crime.

He sat at the back of his little store night after night, blinking through the wooden screen at the various customers who came in to trade or barter. And year after year they came to his door, the pirate and the thief, the smuggler and the robben, and he took his toll of them and passed them

Among the many hundreds who had availed themselves of Sing Wah's aid was Wilkerson, who, during dark periods of his career, had several times. run athwart the barriers of the law and been compelled to seek refuge where he could.

Harry Wilkerson was not a fool; in some ways be was brilliantly endowed. In several deals he and Sing Wah had been partners to their mutual profit.

"You are a very good fellow, Harry," Sing Wah had told him once, as they drank tea in a little room in the rear. "You are a smart man-almost ss smart as I am. But you are too hungry. You cannot resist your appetites. Now I-" he made a docks of the hand satchel which she had indicated as the one in which Ruth carried her valuables. When it opened and Wilkerson thrust his clutching fingers downward into it, Mrs. Darnell leaned forward as if in protest. He paid no attention to her, but continued his search, with ever increasing haste. At last he straightened up with an oath so venomous and deadly that even Drake shrank "The deeds aren't here," Wilkerson said thickly.

"She's hidden them!" "But where?"

This question seemed to break Wilkerson's almost steely intensity of purpose. He turned on Drake. "You've got to do the trick," he said.

"How's that?" demanded the younger man. Wilkerson eagerly formulated his plan, ticking off the points on the tips of his quivering fingers. "First, you're Everett, turned up at last. You

"In Chinatown!" sneered Drake. "You can easily gain her confidence and get hold of the papers and maybe-Drake laughed uglily. "I look like the kind of joker who would dress up as a banker and then proceed to make my client's acquaintance in a Chinese joint. How am I supposed to know she's there? I tell you, Wilkerson, that you can't travel straight, even when it pays you. Why in God's name you ever took that girl to that place of Sing Wah's is beyond my comprehension; any place would have been better. Now you have put the heads of all of us in a noose. You know what people will say when-" he liked it. It was deadly dangerous. He was determined to get the girl away immediately. So he was unfeignedly glad to see Drake.

"They'll say nothing," said Wilkerson furiously, craftily, to see how the land lay.

Drake attempted to explain what Wilkerson wanted, but the Chinese cut him short. "He is mad "Harry is insane," he said quietly. over that woman. I have done all I can. You must get her out of here.' "But how?" demanded Drake, "She doesn't know me and she'll scream her head off and I'll be arrested and we'll all be in a muss. Sing Wah nodded thoughtfully. Then he looked up and listened to the low words of one of his clerks. Dismissing him with a single grunt he turned to Drake.

"There's not much time," he said softly. "They are on the trail already."

"The police!" He motioned Drake to a chair in the little alcove where they stood and went on: "Stay here a moment. I will see for myself" He pulled a lever and the room swung round till the door was opposite him. With long, slender fingers he slipped back the panel and vanished.

Ruth lay on a couch, open-eyed and white-faced. Beside her a richly dressed Chinese woman crouched, whispering soothingly. At sight of Sing Ruth Gallon suddenly sat upright, in silent horror. "I beg your pardon, miss," Sing said in his silkiest English. "I have come to take you back to your friends outside." The girl shrank back. "No! No! No!" she moaned. "They are not my friends."

"Surely Harry Wilkerson—" Sing suggested

slight gesture of distaste with his lean brown hand

-"I have no appetites."
Wilkerson hodded. "I guess you're right, Sing

Wah. You even haven't any pride. You talk pidgin English to the tourists and the rest, instead of speaking the perfect English you know." The dull eyes lit for a moment humorously. "I have always felt that I owed it to Oxford not to flaunt my education in a small tradesman's shop, don't you know?" The imitation of the Oxonian drawl had been so natural that Wilkerson had slapped his thighs in

It was to Wilkerson that the Chinese had explained his reason for never changing his address, no matter how brisk the police might be. "And I have thought out a scheme which you will like," he went on. "Come with me."

It was then that he showed Wilkerson the cylindrical room which had a single door and revolved at a touch on a lever.

"Dangerous stuff'" commented Wilkerson. the police find that they'll sure land you."

Sing Wah's pallid lips opened in faint smile "I built it for them And the Chinatown guides know about it and will charge ten dollars extra for a trip through the horrors of the underground, as they call it." The Chinese sneered. "Let' them play with such things while I use the brains heaven gave me. And yet-some time that trick room may seive a purpose"

*Thus it came about that Harry Wilkerson, driven to his wits' ends to accomplish his designs, bethought him of Sing Wah and fairly drove Jean Darnell and Drake before him.

To Mrs. Darnell's credit it must be said that she rebelled strongly. But the stake was too great to risk and she bitterly consented to Wilkerson's hastily outlined plan of hiding Ruth away somewhere in Sing Wah's precincts until they could once more get their plans into working order.

The Deeds Are Not Found.

While Wilkerson and Mrs. Darnell had been hurriedly arranging matters with Sing Wah Drake had gone in search of lodgings near by. He found them in what had once been a noted hotel, which had fallen into sad decay. It was in the faded rooms he engaged here that the three met to consult on the future.

The first thing to do is to get hold of those deeds and papers she has in her grip," said Wilker-"I wonder you didn't think to get them beson.

The woman's eyes lit with dull hatred, but she made no answer. She watched him fuss with the

and he proceeded once more to argue that Drake could easily impersonate Everett and in that guise carry their scheme to its profitable conclusion. In splite of his eagernes and sophistry, he was unable to move either Drake or Mrs Darnell from their attitude of frightened contempt. At last Drake agreed to do his best to make Ruth trust him.

'But none of this impersonation business," he said firmly 'I might go to a hotel and hand in my broker's card and ask for an interview, but I haven't lost my senses"

"Well," growled Wilkerson, "just see to it that you worm out of her where those papers are'

Crossed Wires.

Thus it happened that just when Drake entered Sing Wah's unpretentious doorway the taxi with the hotel detective and John Dorr drew up in a side street and stopped

"It was here they left me," said the chauffeur, sulkily.

The detective and John got out and stared about them. They were in the lower part of Chinatown, a single tier of blocks that stretched beyond the bounds toward the bay-not in the Quarter, but "Which way did they take the girl?" said the practical detective. The driver led them around the corner and up an alleyway. He pointed to Sing Wah's door think they went in there," he muttered. "Ah!" said the detective thoughtfully. "When I was on the police force I used to know that Chinaman. He's the smoothest rascal in America, bar none. John gritted his teeth in helpless rage. "And she's in that flend's foul clutches," he groaned aloud

At this moment a policeman came along and accosted John's companion familiarly. In a few words the case was explained to him. "You won't find anything, of course," the officer remarked. "But just for satisfaction let's have a look-see and a chin-chin with Sing Wah." They entered the shop just as a Chinese was closing a panel door after Drake, who had come to make his promised attempt to win Ruth's confidence. Sing Wah was nowhere to be seen. After some futile parley with the Chinese, whose ignorance was complete in every detail, the two officers agreed that they were wasting time.

"Old Sing's the boy to see," said the house detective. "Let's wait a while." Now Sing Wah had pondered the affair during the night and the more he thought over having a lovely white girl in the cylindrical room the less

"Wilkerson!" she whispered. "Is he-was he here?"

Her tone conveyed all that he wished to know. He motioned to the woman to leave and when she was gone pulled a cord which let down a light rope ladder.

"I am sorry, madam," he said quietly, "but I shall have to ask you to climb up this. It is the only sate way out" He laid one hand gently on her

Now, Ruth was California bred, with all the prejudices for and against the Chinaman. Sne screamed. At that instant there was a crash of a shattered door in the distance and the sound of men talking in excited tones "You must come," said Sing Wah "I will take you to a place of safety All I ask of you is to follow me and be silent." His earnestness was unmistakable and Ruth yielded A moment later they both stood on a mall landing place above the cylindrical room Sing Wah carefully drew up the ladder and coiled it again on the wooden trigger that had released it. Then he led the way down a dark passage to stairs lit by a mere glimmer of gas. Ruth drew back, but he indicated that she must go on. Even as she obeyed his imperious gesture there rang out the muffled clanger of revolver shots. Then again came the sound of doors yielding to violence and the shouts of wrathful men. Sing Wah, hurned her on, down steps, along shadowy passagevays and under low arches till she felt a sudden cool, salt breath on her face. At her feet she saw the glimmer of water and a boat riding to a long painter. Quickly and silently Sing

Wah drew the little craft alongside and motioned to her to get in. By this time the temult had died down to a mere muttering of shots with an occasional yell, muffled by walls and the distance. She stared fearfully about her, at the great arches of dripping brick overhead, at the little landing under foot, at the dark vista of the tunnel through which the water streamed in a swishing tide. She drew back and let her voice out in one long, forlorn scream, the pent-up agony of many hours, her final call for help against the dark powers that had seized upon her. With swift strength Sing Wah reached out his sinewy arms, raised her up and seated her in the stern of the boat. A moment later he had cast off the painter and shipped the cars. The boat slipped silently away on the current into the murk.

The Rescue.

After some talk between the officers John Dorr was informed that if he liked they would enter

Sing Wah's and make a thorough search.

"Not that I think we'll find anything or anybody," said one of the policemen. "But it never does any harm to take a look-see through Sing Wah's, and the lieutenant is coming down now to take charge." A moment later that officer arrived and John

Dorr made his tale as convincing as possible. The lieutenant seemed dubious. 'It isn't like the old rascal to run his head into danger that way," he insisted. "I think you are on the wrong trail. Who did you say was the man who did all this?" "Wilkerson, Harry Wilkerson," John answered bitterly.

"Wilkerson?" repeated the lieutenant. "That puts another color on the matter Wilkerson and Sing Wah used to be pals This'll bear looking into. Come on, men."

With wonderful quickness the officer disposed his men so that every exit was guarded. Then he motioned to John to follow him and went boldly up to the shop door and entered.

Followed again a futile parley with a Chinese who professed to know no language but his own. The lieutenant's quick ear caught a sound of something moving directly behind, the impassive clerk. Brushing him aside he smashed in the door in the partition and strode into the hallway beyond. John Dorr was close at his heels.

The next few moments were to live long in John's memory as the strangest of his life. "Be careful!" warned the officer. "The rascals may start shooting." Even as he spoke there was a ruddy flash down the dark alleyway and Dorr staggered back. "Only my arm," he muttered. "Come on! Don't give 'em another chance at us

An instant later they stood in the cylindrical room. John stared about him, but the lieutenant merely remarked, "This room was built merely for tourists' consumpton. Let me see that arm of Examination proved the wound to be slight They glanced up from it to see the doorway swing

"Trapped, by smoke!" said the lieutenant. He laid a warning hand on Dorr's arm. "Keep quiet. We've lost our directions and we must wait a moment, till we discover where that doorway is! So they stood hesitant for a few long seconds. A panel slipped open in the wall and a woman's face appeared for an instant. Swift as the Chinawoman was, the police officer was quicker and he plunged through the shallow panel, with Dorr at Once through they paused in the semidarkness to orientate themselves. Finally the lieutenant stepped forward. "This way," he said. "I hear

At that very moment there came up to them an unearthly scream, a shrick of pure terror. "Ruth!" John yelled, and he and the officer both

Instead of the firm footing they expected empty air received them. Twenty feet below they struck Spluttering and swearing the policeman helped Dorr to a little ledge that ran alongside the tunnel. "The miserable Chink dropped us into the big sewer." he gasped "It runs into the bay just a little ways on. We'll have to swim for it, partner." Dorr looked down at his arm and shook his head. "Isn't that a boat over there?" he demanded, pointing into the shadow.

"Blamed if it ain't," said the lieutenant, much relieved. "We'll soon be out of here"

To John the whole affair seemed like a dream He saw the great dripping arches sliding past overhead. He struggled to gather his senses together. "Look out'" shouted the policeman suddenly as the great half cylinder curved sharply and, a blast of fresh air struck them "We'll be swept out into the bay in a moment! Keep the boat trim! Awakened by this warning John devoted himself to his cars and a half moment later steered their little craft out under the piles of a wharf.

"Where to now?" he demanded dully. The lieutenant pointed a thick forefinger toward another small boat a few rods away "There is Sing Wah now, by smoke'" he exclaimed.

John Dorr glanced round. He first saw the impassive visage of the Chinese and then the figure crouched in the stern sheets. It was Ruth! He taised his voice in a triumphant yell. Hearing that call from her mate the girl roused herself and cried back across the water "John" John!" At this point the police officer took part with stern order to Sing Wah to stop rowing and surrender He emphasized this command by covering the Chinese with his revolver Sing Wah was of no mind to be caught in this way. With a dexterous sweep of the oars he swirled his little skiff around so that Ruth was between him and the other boat. And he never ceased to pull doggedly away. "You've got to row, son," said the lieutenant grimly "Mr Sing Wah doesn't intend to be caught so easily. I daren't shoot for fear of hitting the

The Chinese had long since ceased active life and his muscles were soft. John Dorr steadily gained on him. At last he caught encouragement from the po-Noeman's face He heaved the skiff fairly out of the water, grasped the stern of the other boat and before the Chinese could clear himself for a leap overboard was upon him Now Sing Wah was a true Oriental. It showed in his swift drawing of a knife and a swifter slash at John Dorr's arm. But he was too late. With an inarticulate roar of rage John flung the knife overboard and then flung its owner after it. Sing Wah gone and swimming away toward the shelter of a nearby wharf. John strode back to where Ruth lay half inanimate and picked her up in his arms. "Honey! honey!" he murmured, "You're safe with me!" Very slowly she opened her eyes and gazed long and searchingly into his face. It was indeed true that she was safe. She laid her head on his shoulder in perfect confidence that all was well. The police lieutenant stepped into the boat and took the cars. He rowed slowly toward a landing, his brows puckered thoughtfully over the problem presented to him. "It's not like Sing Wah to be doing such tricks." he argued to himself. "I believe that Harry Wilkerson is back of this. I'll just keep an eye out for
